Three to Be Off.
F. D. R. Tells Them.
Unused Acres.
Limiting Conscious Life.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LITTLE ENGLISH boys, preparing for a dive, screwing up courage, say,

"One to be ready, two to be steady, three to be off."

Then they dive.

That is how we dive into the New Year, January first to be ready, January second to be steady, January third to be off. January third is gone, the year has begun, and we are off.

THE PRESIDENT has told Congress and the nation just exactly what he has been doing since the fourth of March, and even Republicans will admit that he had something to tell.

BEGINNING NOW, if you put your money into a national bank, member of the Federal Reserve system, you are guaranteed against loss up to twenty-five hundred dollars.

If you have not more than twenty-five hundred dollars in the bank, and it should fail, you will get your money back. The United States government will see to it.

BANKS HAVE contributed to a fund that enables the government to guarantee deposits in national banks, and the guarantee is good.

If you keep more than twenty-five hundred dollars in bank at one time, you can deposit your money in various national banks, and in each you will be guaranteed up to twenty-five hundred dollars against loss.

That should bring hoarded money out of hiding places in garrets, under mattresses, etc.

One little Federal Reserve bank in Illinois refuses to join the guarantee plan, doesn't see why it should have to help guarantee other banks less well managed. It probably will change its mind.

TRAVELING north to New York, business men coming aboard the train, all agree that conditions are better and improving steadily. Mr. Berkowitz, head of a large Miami pipe company, who sells machinery of many kinds, says:

It has not been exactly "a pleasure" for some four years past. Mr. Berkowitz is a judge, having seen a good deal of the world. He was born in Jerusalem, fifty years ago.

Howard E. Coffin, whom every automobile man knows, now chairman of the board of a big textile concern stretching from Texas to North Carolina, comes aboard at Savannah and says that improvement in all directions is surprising, especially in the retail trade.

Mr. Coffin has rendered service to the state of Georgia, developing and making known the wonderful winter and summer possibilities of Georgia's coast resorts.

MRS. HUNTER, of a Savannah newspaper, assures you positively that everything is improving, especially in Savannah, where she was born.

Taxes have been reduced, the city's bonded debt has been reduced, and what is infinitely more important, the stores are full of customers. She is an eloquent lady "booster" for Savannah.

The editor of the paper should raise Mrs. Hunter's salary, no matter how big it is now.

THE UNITED STATES, while not entirely happy yet, is happier than other countries, if that is any comfort.

"Japan today invades China. Inspired by race hatred, she will plan tomorrow against white men."

That is the view of Marquis Giacomo Medici Del Vascello, who sees danger in the East. Nobody in America imagines Japan flying over the Mediterranean to attack the Italian peninsula, but anything is possible with airplanes.

ITALIANS HAVE not forgotten, apparently, the day when they had young Atilla as a hostage prisoner in Rome and that young Mongolian "barbarian" was silently planning the conquest of all Western Europe.

ANOTHER headache in Europe is caused by the French-German misunderstanding. Hitler wants to establish a bigger army, navy and flying force in spite of the Versailles treaty.

France sends a long aide memoire, or "memory refresher," and in many diplomatic words says "NO."

These next-door neighbor troubles worry England, beginning to do "very nicely, thank you," and anxious for a few years of peace in which to do it.

WE SHOULD be grateful that we have our NRA, RFC and our other little groups of initials, with an ocean on each side of them, friends on the north and south, and no real anxiety except our own foolishness.

ONE SIGN of our "foolishness" appears as you travel mile after mile through this lovely fertile southern country, through thousands, tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands of acres unused, no sign of activity except millions of pine trees pitifully scarred with bark scraped away, in collecting resin.

OUR IMMIGRATION laws keep out needed millions of Europeans, northern Italians especially for our southern regions, that would transform wasted lands into gardens, add billions to the sum total of our national wealth, and continue the process of building up the United States, which has hith-

CATHEDRAL FALL KILLS 2 WORKERS

CWA Men Plunge to Death as Scaffold Gives Way

Two men were killed today when they were hurtled 40 feet from a scaffolding on the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning. Both were CWA workers.

A scaffolding brace snapped, Pitt authorities said.

John Bernard Horan, 42, of 426 Danna street, Garfield, died in the Homeopathic Hospital shortly after noon.

James W. North, 54, 1302 Grotto street, died two hours later.

FIRST FATAL MISHAP

Both were carpenters, assigned to work on the completion of the building by the Civil Works Administration.

It was the first fatal accident on the 42-story building.

Horan started to work yesterday—and today was his second working day in nearly three years. Two daughters, Irene, 14, in school, and Margaret, 19, unemployed, were dependent on him. His wife, Mrs. Helen Phillips Horan, had been doing manual labor two days a week to keep the family going. She was working today when the word was taken to their home.

North, his wife, Mrs. Charlotte North, said, had his last day's work in July, but had not worked steadily for nearly five years. He too, started on the Pitt structure yesterday. His four children, Emma, 17; Louise, 13; Walter, 12, and Norma, 9, and his wife, Charlotte, were dependent on him. The oldest girl has been working for $3 a week—the family's sole income.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

The men were working outside the safety ropes when an outrigger supporting a plank on which they were standing broke, according to J. E. McLean, superintendent of buildings and grounds at the university. Taxicabs rushed the injured men to the hospital. Horan was unconscious.

The men had been nailing up muslin shields as wind breaks to protect workers setting stone.

SISTER DE PAUL DIES AT 72

And children everywhere might mourn.

Jimmy Ashcan, Catherine Variety Sheridan, Willie Penn—and those hundreds of other unwanted tots who came to Rosella Foundling and Maternity Hospital from doorsteps and railroad depots and ash cans knew her best.

She gave them their euphonious names, protected them, fought to have them, and got hundreds of them fathers and mothers.

She fought through the Legislature the law which forces unwed mothers to be kept three months with their babies. She directed Providence Hospital in Beaver Falls from the day it was founded, 1909, for 15 years, and then took up the work at Roselia.

While her well-known brother, Attorney William J. Brennan, lived, she wheedled from him much of his fortune for the care of the unfortunate children at Roselia. She fought Gov. John S. Fisher and Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer, of the State Supreme Court, when they allowed the state appropriation be taken away because the nuns had a chapel in the hospital.

Born Sarah Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brennan, she spent the early part of her 72 years on the South Side. She taught after entering the Mercy order. A mass will be said at 9 tomorrow in the hospital chapel, and a requiem 9:30 Saturday in the Seton Hill chapel, Greensburg.

CITY'S PAYDAY ASSURED BY TAX CASH

Overdue Payroll to Be Met After Kerr Balks Scrip

The welcome news filtered through the City-County Building as city workers were wondering how the money was to be raised to compensate them for the last two weeks of December, following yesterday's impasse between Mayor W. N. McNair and Controller James P. Kerr.

Tax payments for 1934 have begun to roll in and this settled, at least for the present, the problem of paying the workers.

TAXES PAID IN

Deputy Controller John Schilpp said:

"We are receiving a high percentage of 1934 taxes for so early in January. We anticipate that this percentage will continue."

Yesterday the city received about $180,000.

The payoff of employes will be staggered throughout the week, Paymaster Glesenkamp indicated. Approximately $80,000 will be paid out to employes tomorrow.

The payroll claims to date total around $290,000. These include the back pay of all city employes except police and firemen. Their pay day is next week.

STATEMENTS MAILED

Meanwhile extra clerks in the Controller's office were mailing out tax statements to property owners. A discount is allowed on all taxes paid in January, a provision which many take advantage of.

Controller Kerr yesterday spiked a proposal of Mayor McNair to issue scrip to employes. McNair's plan was that these should be cashed by delinquent tax payers.

Kerr assailed the plan as "illegal, and if legal, unnecessary."

Guard Doctor's Home After Lunatic Flees

BALTIMORE, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Police today were asked to keep watch at the home of Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, internationally-known cancer specialist, and the home of a woman, following the escape of a man from the Laurel Sanatorium described as being "dangerously insane."

Sanatorium officials said the man might attempt to kill the woman, described as a Miss Krouse, and said he probably would try to visit Dr. Bloodgood.

SELL HOT DOGS IN HALL—M'NAIR

Mayor William N. McNair today offered the City-County Building lobby for restaurant space, joshed a hundred job seekers, read Hebrew, spoke Italian waxed angry and defended the police all in one brief hour of glad-handing at his lobby desk.

"MAYOR, I want a job."

M'NAIR—What kind of work do you do?

MUSTACHIOES—I used to work in a restaurant.

M'NAIR (indicating the lobby)—How about having a restaurant in here. Put a table in here and sell sandwiches. I tell you what you do, you see Council.

MUSTACHIOES—I don't know him.

M'NAIR—I don't know him myself. You see him anyhow. I want a sandwich myself. Council don't know me, either.

McNair Rebuffs Booster Failing Single Tax Quiz

'Ad' Job Seeker Told To Study 3 Months At Peabody

An embryo disciple of Henry George walked into the office of Mayor W. N. McNair today and made a bid for the proposed $4,000 a year city advertising job which the Mayor says he will create to "sell Pittsburgh to industries."

He is J. M. Weskoy, of 6923 Bishop street. He says he taught advertising classes at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement and at the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh.

The Mayor asked him:

"Do you know anything about single tax?"

Weskoy answered:

"I've been studying it."

McNair retorted:

"Well, don't bother me. Come back when you know something about it. I have been studying single tax for 20 years and I don't know everything about it."

Two hours later the would-be advertising manager returned. He told the Mayor:

"I am ready to take an examination."

The Mayor asked:

"What is economic rent?"

Weskoy answered:

"That's rent on land."

The Mayor shook his head and replied:

"Go out to Peabody High School and take a three months' course from Prof. Miller. If at the end of that time he certifies to your ability I might give you a job."

Weskoy wound up with:

"Well, that means I'll have a job in three months."

Lord Baden-Powell Goes Under Knife

Attendants said his condition was satisfactory, but that it would be necessary for him to remain in the hospital for six weeks.

HOUSE DEBATES $2 RUM TAX

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—With leaders driving for a vote by tomorrow night, debate was opened on the Doughton liquor tax bill in the House today.

The measure, which provides for a $2 a gallon tax on whisky, compared to the present $1.10 rate, was thrown open for a free-for-all fight with five hours of debate.

Confident that the House will support the bill, Democratic leaders refused to impose a "gag rule" for its consideration.

Chairman Doughton (Dem.), of North Carolina, of the Ways and Means Committee, told the House the bootleggers can be driven out of business with a $2 a gallon tax.

Representative Celler (Dem.), of New York, raised the question of how the legal liquor traffic could compete with the local bootlegger, under high taxation.

Representative Gifford (Rep.), of Massachusetts, said the tax was so high that the states could not well impose additional taxes.

Schnader Attacks Federal Bank Plan

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—The rights of the federal government to interfere with state banking officials in the administration of closed banks and building and loan associations was vigorously challenged today by William A. Schnader, Pennsylvania's attorney general.

2-YEAR FUND CHARGED TO RECOVERY

President's Budget Message Given Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt frankly reported to Congress today a prospective 9,000 million dollar recovery campaign deficit for the next two years and asked that the lid be clamped down to put the government on a pay-as-you-go basis by [illegible].

In message transmitting the budget, estimated expenditures chargeable entirely to the recovery effort of almost 7,500 million dollars for this fiscal year ending June 30.

He asked for a 2,00 million dollar war chest to continue and taper off this drive in the following year.

GDVERNMENT BORROWING

All of this, he said, involves government borrowing of 10,000 million dollars during the next six months, but he expressed no doubt of meeting this problem.

The 9,000 million deficit, which would swell the public debt to the all-time high of 31,834 million dollars, does not take into account prospective new taxes from liquor revenue and plugging of income tax loopholes.

There was no recommendation for new taxes.

The executive did recommend restoration of one-third of the 15 per cent cut in pay for federal employes, effective July 1, and favored continuation of the three cent non-local mail rate.

As in his personal address in the House chamber yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt spoke optimistically of the business outlook. He said:

"Powerful forces for recovery exist. It is by laying a foundation of confidence in the pres-

Pennsy Asks I.C.C. To Approve Loan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of a 77 million dollar loan, contracts for which were signed last week by Secretary Ickes and officials of the railroad company.

The application said 45 million dollars would be spent to complete electrification of lines from New York to Washington; 15 million dollars to pay for 101 electric locomotives and 17 million dollars for 7,000 freight cars.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The Duke and Duchess of Brabant, heirs to the thrones of Belgium, expect the birth of a third child this spring.

Persistent Wooer 'Serenades' Family

A persistent wooer who bombarded his loved one's nightgowned mamma and papa with snowballs at 1 a. m. kept his chin up today after a session in the squire's office.

Frank Skirtich, 23, of 1129 Progress street, North Side, admitted he did just about everything Peter Kushon, of 24 Sycamore street, Etna, said he did, namely:

He blackened Peter's eyes; he pelted Mr. and Mrs. Kushon with snowballs, and, betimes, he serenaded pretty Marie Kushon.

PAPA VERY ANGRY

A true Capulet, Papa Kushon was very angry when youthful Romeo glared back at him across Squire James A. Hernon's office in Sharpsburg yesterday and admitted these things.

Pretty Marie, 19, was there to hear father, mother and sweetheart air their grievances, very demure, and putting in just a little word for the boy friend, as befitted a staunch Juliet.

Skirtich was charged by Kushon with assault and battery. Skirtich admitted he socked Kushon, but called it self-defense.

A couple of weeks ago, Frank and a pal showed up early in the morning under Marie's window. They whistled. The nightgowned Kushons stuck their heads out

And 'Juliet' Sticks By Him in Court

ARRESTED BY MAMMA

The following day Mrs. Kushon charged Frank with disorderly conduct.

Then came the New Years Eve encounter. After that, Papa Kushon filed his assault and battery charge.

Squire Hernon gave all concerned a little peace talk and reserved decision until Saturday. A hearing on Mrs. Kushon's disorderly conduct charge is slated for a later date.

Frank Buck Brings Rare Rhino Back Alive

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Frank Buck, who brings 'em back alive, arrived today from Southern Asia and the East Indies with a game leg and an announcement that set wild animal fanciers agog.

He said he had captured an Indian male rhinoceros, one of the most valuable animals in the world, and that it would probably be turned over to the St. Louis Zoo. There are only three other rhinoceroses of this type in captivity, but all three are females.

It is three years old and weighs a ton, and when it's grownup its weight will be at least five or six times that much. It was taken in a rope net in Nepal, India, and will arrive next week on the freighter Steel Navigator. Sixty-odd other animals also will arrive in the near future.

Buck's bad leg was the result of an encounter with a honey bear, which had a sour disposition. While he was transfering it from the net to a cage, it clawed him on the knee.

Buck also told of an escape from death in the coils of a 24-foot python in Northern China. The big snake wound itself around the hunter and things looked bad until Buck's bat boy, Ali, slashed at the python with a brush knife. Buck then drew his revolver and shot the snake at the base of the brain.

COUNCIL TRUCE GIVES MAYOR RESPITE

Scully Scans List of Legal Aides; G. O. P. Staff Ousted

All was quiet today in the councilmanic sector of the City-County Building.

But the executive front was expected to provide further thrills.

That means the battle between the four Democratic councilmen and McNair will be a quiet and undercover proposition for a few days. There is no guarantee that there won't be some deadly sniping, back and forth.

But the Mayor's office—that's different.

SHOW GOES ON

The desk in the lobby, the crowds of job seekers, the inspections of the Mayor's luxurious office and its $2,000 rug, the apple-chewing McNair, the quips and wisecracks, providing amusement enough for any non-paying crowd, were all expected to carry on as usual.

It was understood that Scully yesterday decided to name Attorney A. L. Wolk. Wolk was active for the Democratic party during the fall campaign.

ITALIAN GROUP BUSY

The Italian Democratic committee, which did noble service for McNair during the campaign, was expected to be on hand again insisting on recognition of the Italians.

Representatives of the Negro factions that aided his election, led by Paul Jones, a director of his campaign in the Third and Fifth wards, were to show up again, insisting on recognition of the Negro vote.

The drive for Dr. Vincent L. Marino, who polled votes second only to John Heinz, among Democrats in the November elections, was to continue, with his partisans seeking for him the job as director of the city hospital at Mayview. Marino ran for Coroner and was defeated by W. J. McGregor.

Other drives, skirmishes, campaigns, and pleadings were to continue and McNair was not expected to take them more seriously than he has taken other pressing City Hall business since Monday.

JOHNSTON CONFIRMED

The let-down came yesterday when Council convened for a few minutes and adjourned after confirming Leslie M. Johnston as director of works. No other communications forthcoming from the Mayor's office, the legislative group, which has sniped at McNair on Monday and Tuesday, disbanded.

The crowds almost were as big as ever, but added details of police kept better order.

Appointment of Johnston was approved by a unanimous vote, the Democratic bloc saying, through John J. Kane, that it had no objection to Johnston.

The only persons disappointed by the turn of events yesterday seemed to be the crowd, which had whooped, yelled, booed and cheered its way through fiery sessions and weird scenes for two days previously.

PAPALE AGAIN ON BENCH

While 80 friends looked on in a courtroom bedecked with flowers, Charles F. Papale celebrated his return as Police Magistrate at No. 6 Station today by discharging one of the 10 drunks whom Mayor William McNair is quoted as saying he pledged to soberness yesterday. McNair visited the station yesterday and, although attaches didn't see him do it, said he obtained pledges of soberness from them.

But Sam Miller, described by police as "one of the regular boys," was back this morning charged with being drunk with two other men. Magistrate Papile, who succeeded William A. Means in No. 6 Police Court, discharged them and then moved upstairs to Traffic Court to take over the job vacated by J. Scott Morgan.

'SELL HOT DOGS IN LOBBY'—M'NAIR

DEFENDS POLICE

Someone in the crowd piped a complaint that policemen went into bootlegging joints and houses of ill-repute on the North Side. Quoth the Mayor:

"I don't believe it. I'm not afraid to bet you any money that there is not an officer of the law receiving money from these places in the city of Pittsburgh."

The crowd howled, and that was that.

Addressing the shabbily-dressed man who made the complaint, McNair added:

"I will appoint you a police officer to go around and arrest any policeman going into these places, if you find such things going on."

The Mayor reached the heights of dramatic effectiveness during the free-for-all exchanges, but all the crowd got in the way of material satisfaction were pamphlets containing the Mayor's single tax theories.

The time was 8:20 a. m. when the Mayor strode into the lobby. A crowd of 50 that grew larger as time went on was there to greet him.

M'NAIR (brightly) — Good morning, everybody.

An elderly woman was sitting in his chair, but started to rise.

M'NAIR—No, no; sit still. It isn't half past eight yet. We have 10 minutes yet.

SPEAKS ITALIAN

A woman addressed him in Italian. He replied in the same language and handed her a pamphlet. They were interrupted by another woman.

M'NAIR—Are you looking for a job?

WOMAN—Yes.

M'NAIR—See Dr. Moyer.

WOMAN—It's not a job for myself, it's for my nephew. He wants a clerk job.

M'NAIR—You bring your nephew in and I'll introduce him to Dr. Moyer. I think he has clerks up there.

A tall man said he wanted a job, too.

M'NAIR—In the Works Department, or do you want to be a policeman? Oh, no, you can't be a policeman. We have no police head yet.

ANOTHER MAN—I was here yesterday, Mayor. You told me to come back this morning.

M'NAIR — Oh, yes, I remember. What kind of a job do you want?

MAN—I can drive a truck.

M'NAIR—You see Ben Marshall. He's on this floor somewhere. Maybe he has a job for a truck driver.

Marshall is the new police bureau head.

POINTS TO PAMPHLETS

The Mayor then raised his hand and pointed to the pile of pamphlets stacked on the table by Francis W. Maguire, 82-year-old single tax enthusiast.

M'NAIR—Listen, you all go home and read this book. This is the way where there are two jobs for every man in Pittsburgh. I'm not kidding you.

M'NAIR—Mr. Maguire, how old are you?

MAGUIRE—Eighty-two.

McNAIR (to young man): You don't think Mr. Maguire is kidding you, do you? Mr. Maguire, you tell him how there are two jobs for every man.

MAGUIRE: No, three jobs, Mayor.

McNAIR (to youth): Are you working?

YOUTH: Yes.

McNAIR: Then what are you doing here, amusing yourself?

Raising his hand, the Mayor addressed the crowd:

"Don't come back here until you have read this book. That's all for today. I'm going upstairs, but I'll come back."

HAILED BY DEMOCRAT

M'NAIR—What are you?

MAN—I'm Democrat.

M'NAIR—That's fine. That's fine.

MAN—Can you solve this problem and give jobs to all these men?

M'NAIR—(Hesitating). I'll tell you. Have you got enough coal in your cellar?

MAN—I don't have enough, but I've got a little bit.

McNAIR: What prevents you from getting a lot of coal. Just a short distance from you is a coal mine. Nothing stopping you from going out there and getting all the coal you want if you haul it, even in a wheelbarrow. Who made that coal? Who's got that coal? Mellon has it.

MAN: I would make the money-eyed men—

He handed the man a pamphlet. Then he left the lobby. He was back within 15 minutes without his hat and coat. The crowd was even bigger.

RETURNS TO CROWD

As the Mayor seated himself at the lobby desk, the complaint concerning the police was voiced from the crowd. McNair then delivered himself of his defense of the force.

A elderly man wearing a fur cap and a badge signifying he accompanied Father James R. Cox on the priest's unemployed march to Washington conversed with the Mayor in low tones. McNair strode over to four Negroes leaning against the wall. They took off their hats.

McNAIR: Don't take your hats off to me. Who taught you that? (They put the hats on again.) What can I do for you?

NEGRO: We want jobs.

M'NAIR—Can you build a house?

NEGRO—No.

SHANTY TOWN VISITORS

WHITE MAN WITH BADGE—That's what I want to see you about, Mayor. They're from Shantytown.

M'NAIR—Who's asking you to interrupt? Let them make their complaint to me.

WHITE MAN—They told me to see you.

M'NAIR (to Negro)—Did you tell him to see me?

WHITE MAN—Didn't you ask me to see the Mayor for you?

M'NAIR (In disgust)—What are you trying to do to me. I'm through with all of you.

He turned away, and when the man with the badge followed, the Mayor exclaimed:

"Get away, I'm through with you. Those fellows don't want to see me anyway."

That wound up Mayor McNair's third morning public forum in the lobby of the City-County Building.

KLINE 'KITCHEN' DISMANTLED

The famous "kitchen" of two Republican mayors has passed into the same limbo as their cabinets.

An electric stove and refrigerator which George Nesbit, one time mayor's messenger and cook extraordinary, used to concoct delectable dishes, have been removed to the home of their owner, Mrs. Charles H. Kline, according to Jesse Ulum, chauffeur to former Mayors Kline and Herron.

The late Mayor Kline installed the kitchen. It permitted him and his Council supporters to hold confabs and eat lunch at the same time. The food was prepared in a small room adjoining the Mayor's conference room. Chicken a la king, toast and coffee was the favorite menu.

When Herron acceded to the mayoralty he kept up the practice. But with the advent of Mayor W. N. McNair the stove, refrigerator and a radio were removed. And Nesbit, the cook, lost his job.

Trees Gives $5,000 To Democrats' Fund

A contribution of $5,000 by Joseph C. Trees, Pittsburgh oil operator, to the Democratic National Committee was disclosed today in a report on efforts to clear up a deficit in party finances.

The report, filed in Washington, according to International News Service, showed loans from individuals included $17,500 from M. L. Benedum, party "angel," and $1,000 from Joseph F. Guffey.

Board Votes and Votes, Still Tied in Baldwin

Not even a motion to adjourn gets adopted when Baldwin Township's fighting Commissioners meet.

They met last night for the second time this week in an attempt to organize for the year, but might as well have stayed at home.

Every time someone made a motion, it failed to carry.

Had parliamentary procedure prevailed to the bitter end, it is possible they still would be in the township hall today making and blocking motions.

Chairman William Armstrong solved the problem when the opposition defeated his motion to adjourn. To his cohort of three supporters he said:

"Come on, folks, let's go home anyhow."

So they did, leaving the four new members of the board without a quorum and the hall ringing with recriminations.

Last night's meeting was similar to one held last Monday at which the Commissioners met at 7:30 in the evening and adjourned at 12:30, accomplishing exactly nothing in the way of reorganization.

The new body is composed of eight members, four of them. John F. Nurnberger, Alice Linnert, one of the two women Township Commissioners in the state; William Armstrong and Albert Dryer, are holdovers from the last election. The other four, Clarence Kirsch, Peter Kunzig, John Wheaton and John McGinnis, are newly elected.

CITY WILL SEEK CWA AID IN TAX CRISIS

Jobs for 50 Sought As Employes Scorn McNair's Plan

A decision to ask the Civil Works Administration for funds to employ emergency city delinquent tax collectors was reached today at a meeting of Mayor William N. McNair's assistant secretary and representatives of city departments.

Fifty men would be employed if the application for funds is approved by the CWA.

PLAN QUICK APPLICATION

Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert said the application could be made at once and an answer received by Saturday or Monday. The plan was approved by Theodore L. Moritz, the Mayor's assistant secretary.

The plan to use CWA solicitors was evolved as an alternative to Mayor McNair's plan — which neither the assembled chiefs nor Moritz relished—of making every city employe a delinquent tax collector.

McNair first broached his plan yesterday morning at a meeting of health department employes and Moritz carried the message to the bureau and department heads at 4 p. m., in the Mayor's conference room. McNair also spoke.

It was something new to them. They were being asked to go out and collect—not tax receipts, not contributions, not votes, but taxes.

PROPOSITION VAGUE

Earlier Moritz hesitatingly introduced the proposition, saying:

"I think I've got this straight now. It had to be explained to me a couple of times before I got it right.

"This probably doesn't appeal to you, but it's the Mayor's idea.

"He has lots of ideas and he's all for trying them, and if they don't work, why then you'll have to try something else."

He asked the crowd to make suggestions or objections and finally said:

"You don't like the idea much, do you? I was afraid you wouldn't."

Then, after a few cautiously indicated their distaste for the proposal, Reppert suggested use of CWA men to supplement the Treasurer's staff in a regular solicitation.

Famous Polo Star To Wed Divorcee

Mrs. Moore obtained a divorce at Reno in April, 1933, from George Gordon Moore, wealthy Carmel Valley ranch owner, on a charge of non-support.

WHITNEY BACKS U. S. RAILROAD OWNERSHIP

Brotherhood President Cites Unemployment, Fights Mergers

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said today he would favor government ownership of railroads should there be a continuance of existing conditions which in the past four years have thrown one million railroad men out of work.

This statement was Whitney's first public utterance in favor of such action.

He is chairman of the executives committee of 21 railroad brotherhoods, and his statement drew added significance from the fact that the existing agreement between railroads and organized labor is nearing expiration. This agreement, which ceases to be operative next June, resulted in a 10 per cent wage cut a year ago.

Whitney voiced definite opposition to any plan of consolidating the railroads. He said he felt keenly "the exclusion of the railroad industry from the NRA."

CITY POLICE NAB TWO 'SPEAKS'

Two stills and large quantities of mash and moonshine whisky were reported seized by police in raids on two East End dwellings last night.

In a house at 5105 Baum boulevard, police said they found a 100-gallon still, 20 gallons of moonshine and 37 barrels of mash. In another house at 5172 Woodworth street, in the rear of the Baum boulevard residence, a 200-gallon still and 80 gallons of moonshine were seized and 50 barrels of mash were destroyed, police reported.

A man and two women, arrested at the latter place, gave their names as William Campbell, 52, of 2009 Jane street; Mary McMurray, 26, and Mildred Smith, 24, according to police.

Lieut. William Lilburn, who conducted the raids, said the stills were owned by an East End bootlegger. A search was instituted for him.

Instrument at Pitt Records Earthquake

A series of earth tremors, occurring intermittently over a period of an hour and a half and of average intensity, was recorded on the Cathedral of Learning seismograph at 4:53 a. m. yesterday, according to H. Rutherford, seismologist in charge.

Rutherford estimated the disturbance was about 5,000 miles away, either in the Pacific off the South American coast or in Siberia.

'It's No Sin'

MAE WEST

MAE WEST'S SISTER WEDS

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Mae West is quoted by friends as saying she hasn't time to marry, but her sister and vaudeville partner of several years ago, Beverly West, was married yesterday for the second time. The bridegroom is her manager, Wladimir Baikoff, formerly of Odessa, Russia.

Chief Justice Joseph Sabath, who is president of the American Theatrical Hospital Association, performed the ceremony in the apartment of Mrs. Florence Barrete, a close friend of the West sisters. Mrs. Barrete attended the bride, and her son, Leon Hauser, Jr., the groom.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Baikoff, just arrived from Paris, was present.

Mae West, Mrs. Barrete said, was unable to attend because she today is starting a new picture. She telephoned best wishes, Mrs. Barrete confided, incorporating a Westism:

"Marriage is all right, darling. It ain't no sin"—

M'NAIR TO TAKE $15,000 PAY

Mayor William N. McNair will draw $15,000 a year instead of the $10,000 which he himself had proposed a month ago.

The old Council which passed the budget in December ignored McNair's request for a pay cut as made through Mrs. R. Templeton Smith.

Today the Mayor said:

"I made an offer to Council to fix my salary at $10,000. I don't see any reason why I should make a voluntary contribution now. The burden for this thing is on them, not me."

Under the law the salary of the Mayor cannot be reduced during his term of office. His salary therefor will be $15,000 for his entire term.

Mayor's Big Auto Given to Assessors

The large automobile which has formerly been used by the Mayor is now transporting city assessors and expert witnesses to view hundreds of properties on which owner have filed appeals against the prevailing city assessments. According to Assessor Thomas C. McMahon, the action of Mayor William N. McNair in turning over the car to the assessors will save the city a substantial sum in automobile hire.

FRICK AND WEIR CASES BEFORE LABOR BOARD

U. S. Leaders to Decide On Rule Over War In Work Dispute

By JOHN P. COWAN
Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A final showdown of the authority of the National Labor Board in enforcing collective bargaining agreements with the large steel corporations was precipitated today at a hearing between the H. C. Frick Coal Company, United States Steel subsidiary, and the United Mine Workers of America. At the same time Attorney General Homer S. Cummings was preparing a statement of his attitude in the Weirton Steel dispute with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

The Labor Board session was scheduled at 2:30 p. m., with Thomas Moses, president of the Frick company, and Nathan Miller, attorney for the United States Steel Corporation, representing the employers, and Vice President Philip Murray, of the United Mine Workers of America, Senator Robert F. Wagner presided. The burden of proof will be placed on the Frick interests to show why they have not fulfilled agreements with the miners under the NRA code.

J. Lawrence Fly, special assistant to the Attorney General, who recently investigated the alleged code violations by the National Steel Corporation at its plant at Weirton, Steubenville and Clarksburg, is adding his observations to the voluminous reports which have been returned by Department of Justice agents and special investigators for the National Labor Board.

Attorneys for the department are studying various legal phases of the situation. Any action which may be taken against the Weirton people is regarded as a test case and all-important in establishing the authority of the NRA, and the Attorney General is moving with extreme caution despite the impatience of officials of the Labor Board.

The Attorney General's statement of his view of the Weir case is expected to come simultaneously with initial action in the Federal Court. It was declared today that attorneys for the Department of Justice were still engaged in the examination of evidence and that the final decision in the matter had not been reached.

POLICE SHIFTS WAIT NEW CHIEF

The four Democratic councilmen who wanted to meet the police captains of the city "had the pleasure" today in the office of Ben R. Marshall, superintendent of police.

And meanwhile, it was learned there will be no shift of police and fire heads until a new safety director is named. Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd will remain for the next four months, when he will be eligible for pension.

The captains and councilmen heard Marshall and Harmar D. Denny, Jr., director of public safety, announce that the city is clean and the new administration aims to keep it clean. Denny said:

"Mayor McNair has placed me in full command of the police of Pittsburgh. There are absolutely no political restrictions on the operations of the force. No man will be censored for arresting law violators, no matter who they are or what they are."

Captains were told to carry the message of police freedom to the patrolmen at roll call today.

'THEY SAY I'M CRAZY'—M'NAIR

A middle-aged man stopped Mayor W. N. McNair as he was about to enter an elevator on the fifth floor of the City-County Building today and asked him for a job.

The Mayor queried:

"How can I give you a job?"

"Well you can give me a letter to one of the directors, because you're the Mayor."

"How do you know I'm the Mayor?"

"I read it in the newspapers."

McNair retorted.

"The newspapers would have you believe I'm crazy."

With that the Mayor entered the elevator, leaving the job-hunter behind.

King Carol, of Rumania, and his brother, Nicholas, have been in numerous disputes over the latter's wife. It is known here. It is even said that a black eye that adorned King Carol was given him by Nicholas in a quarrel over Mme. Deletj.

UNBORN BABY OF RICH FAMILY THREATENED BY KIDNAPERS

RANSOM NOTE PRECEDES STORK

Gang Demands $20,000 From New England Lumber King

(Editor's Note—The following is the third exclusive story in succession gathered by Thomas F. Cullen, International News Service correspondent, on the wide-spread extortion racket. The first story revealed Kenneth O'Brien, son-in-law of Clarence Mackay, a victim of a death threat; the second told of Hugh Knowlton, member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., receiving a demand for $10,000 under threat of kidnaping.)

By THOMAS F. CULLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The menace of "extortion" covering the entire country, against which J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Department of Justice division of investigation, has been waging the Federal government's fight, was intensified today with the discovery that William Viles, son of a prominent Augusta, Me., lumbering and political family, has been under the protection of United States agents for several weeks because of a threat to kidnap his newly-born child.

Mrs. Viles, formerly of this city, was in a New York maternity hospital, and before her child was born her husband received a threat that the child would be kidnaped if $20,000 was not paid to the extortionist.

Viles did not meet the demands, but reported the threat to Chief Division of Investigation Agent Clarence D. McKean, of the Boston district of the Federal Department of Justice.

AGENTS ON TRAIL

McKean immediately dispatched agents to Augusta where the kidnap letter was received and since that time they have been working on the case in an effort to apprehend the writer of the demand.

With the revelation here today of this case it was noted that in the last few weeks several prominent families have been victims of this post repeal racket.

Kenneth O'Brien, son-in-law of Clarence H. Mackay, was threatened unless he paid $5,000 to extortionists, but he called in government agents rather than submit to such intimidation.

Hugh Knowlton, prominent banker and member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., received a letter calling on him to pay $10,000, or his children would be kidnaped.

He, too, refused to be intimidated and notified the Department of Justice, and Hoover, the man who made kidnaping unpopular, put his agents on the case.

60 CASES REPORTED

During the last few months, it was pointed out by those close to the Department of Justice, approximately 60 such cases have arisen around New York, while many others have been reported to the government in various sections of the country.

In North Carolina the famous Reynolds family was the subject of an extortion attempt when Dick Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, was instructed to pay $10,000 unless he desired to see his young wife kidnaped.

DENY LINDY LINK IN SANKEY HUNT

Universal Service.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 4.—Michael Kinkead, county attorney, denied yesterday that there was any connection between the search for Vern Sankey, fugitive outlaw, and the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Kinkead said that though Sankey's name had been mentioned in the Lindbergh case, there had been no developments in recent months to justify reviving the story now. He said:

"This theory was given publicity last June at the time of the William Hamm, Jr., abduction. I was asked today if it was true that such a theory was entertained at one time and I said it was. However, I know of nothing in recent months that would justify reviving the story."

Sankey now is being sought in connection with the abduction last summer of Haskell Bohn, son of a wealthy refrigerator manufacturer.

Woodin Son Suffers From Heart Attack

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Illness has come again to the family of William H. Woodin, resigned Secretary of the Treasury. His son, William, Jr., was stricken with an acute heart attack and was ordered to bed for several weeks.

Former Secretary Woodin's condition remains unchanged. No one, except his wife, has been allowed to see him for a week.

Bootleg King Dies, Kidnaped 3 Times

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—James Ward, 56, reputed Chicago Heights bootlegging king, who paid more than $100,000 ranson to kidnapers died today at his home. He was kidnaped three times, according to his own admission, allegedly by the "Handsome Jack" Klutas gang.

HUTTON DENIES AIMEE CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A blanket denial of all charges made by Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, was contained in an answer David L. Hutton, Jr., filed yesterday to her cross-complaint for a divorce.

The baritone-voiced vaudeville actor, who touched off the marital fires by first filing suit for divorce, denied he had attempted to disrupt Aimee's church, Angelus Temple, posed for photographs with chorus girls and awakened her at night to demand money.

One paragraph of the answer was devoted to the $5,000 judgment Myrtle St. Pierre, Pasadena nurse, was awarded against Hutton for breach of promise. It contained a specific denial of his wife's accusation that Hutton had "cruelly, rudely and deliberately" told her of the judgment while she was ill, causing her to faint and fracture her skull.

erto been done, as even the most ignorant must know and admit, by immigration from Europe.

THOSE PRESSED by the thought of our wasted unused acres may find comfort in the theory of Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of Mt. Wilson Observatory. He believes that this tiny earth is probably "the only inhabited planet in the universe."

The earth in our small galaxy, consisting of the Milky Way with its thirty thousand million stars and planets revolving around them, is less than a grain of sand on the shore of the Pacific. Our whole galaxy, with its thousands of millions of suns, is not more than a pebble on the cosmic shore.

It is inconceivable that the intelligence in back of all creation should confine thinking power to this one small grain of sand.

But Dr. Adams' theory was shared by the late learned Professor Wallace, co-discoverer of evolution with Darwin. Read his book "Man's Place in the Universe."

SCIENTISTS believe that "conscious life," as we earth-microbes know it, would be impossible on other planets because of excessive heat or cold, or lack of water or oxygen.

But if nature can arrange earth life to survive under water as fish do, under the earth as worms do, at the Equator and in the Arctic regions, why not on the sun, in spite of Jeans' statement that the solar temperature reaches forty million degrees centigrade?

IT IS EASY to conceive as many kinds of conscious life and thought as there are conditions of existence throughout the universe, on incandescent suns one million million times as big as earth, or on dwarf suns that have shed their electrons and are made up of concentrated matter weighing two thousand pounds to the cubic inch.

ROYALTIES LOST ON OLD SONG

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—David Graves George, self-styled author of the folk song, "The Wreck of the Old 97," today faced the loss of a two million dollar royalty award as the result of a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here.

The court reversed a decision of the United States District Court, of Camden, N. J., that a phonograph company should pay to the 67-year-old Virginian the royalties on the sale of all records of the song.

Woman Ex-Mayor Consoles Ousted Colleague

SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Women mayors, it seems, are sympathetic with one another's misfortunes.

Mrs. Bertha Landes, former Mayor of Seattle, expressed regret at the recall of Mrs. Stella Alexander, Mayor of the small town of Issaquah, 25 miles east of here. She said:

"A woman mayor has a more difficult time than a man, because she is under closer observation than the average man."

In her own case, however, she recalled, she did not have great troubles with her all-masculine Council. Such difficulties led to Mrs. Alexander's recall.

SNOW BLOCKS BYRD IN PLANE

International News Service.

ABOARD S. S. JACOB RUPPERT, EXPLORING OFF ANTARCTICA, Jan. 3.—(Delayed)—Flying through snow squalls and under a thick layer of stratus clouds, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today laid a course across the Antarctic pack ice and drove another corridor of exploration toward the unknown continental front of the Pacific quadrant of Antarctica.

His big seaplane had attained approximately latitude 72.30 south when another snowstorm forced him to turn nortward and head for his flagship, 150 miles back.

ESCAPED GANG, GIRL REPORTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Marie Lambert, the 18-year-old girl police had been seeking since she vanished on Friday, was found last night in an apartment on East Third street.

The girl who had been at liberty under bail on a charge of aiding a prisoner to escape from the Tombs Jail told detectives she narrowly escaped being kidnaped by a gang of six men. She said she had gone to the Third street apartment for protection.

Gerard Simonson, whose escape she is alleged to have aided last September, was caught and returned to the Tombs last December, allegedly the result of Marie's inability to keep her secret. Two other men who escaped at the time are still at liberty.

She told police she escaped from several men who seized her and pulled her into a taxicab last Friday.

PUT ON 'DIET,' ASKS DIVORCE

For a reducing diet, ladies, try beans and potatoes.

Mrs. Marie Lonetti, of 262 Arlington street, Millvale, testified in her divorce suit today against John A. Lonetti that he didn't give her enough to eat and she fell away from 160 to 123 pounds.

Her testimony was corroborated by her brother-in-law, Anthony LaRose. He told Judge H. H. Rowand that all the wife got to eat was beans and potatoes. The Lonettis were married September 3, 1928. The wife charges desertion.

ALCOHOL SALES LEGALIZED FOR DRUG STORES

Bathtub Gin Revival Seen; State Shop Expenses Mount

The bathtub's respite from gin-making seems to be short lived.

The national drink, popular for 13 years, has come into its own again with a ruling by Attorney General William A. Schnader that the corner drug store may sell alcohol without prescriptions. To this he added:

"Unless there is a federal law to the contrary."

Opening of the state stores (one in Allegheny County), brought demands for alcohol but none was available, according to the Associated Press and drug stores refused to sell it without prescriptions.

HALF STORES OPENED

The price of the legal brand of alcohol may be a mite higher than that of the old days, according to dealers, pointing to the $3.85 tax per gallon imposed by the State Legislature recently.

State stores intend to stock alcohol later, according to the Liquor Control Board.

The state store project already is running into heavy expense, according to reports to the control board.

Less than half the proposed store have been opened for business and an annual rental of $320,497 has been incurred.

EXPECT BIG RETURN

Alterations for the 225 stores have cost $563,850, while changes at 13 more sites will bring the total to $596,428.

The whole meaning an outlay of $916,924.

The annual payroll of the employes will be more than two million dollars, it was estimated.

Despite the expense, Gov. Pinchot expects 28 million dollars to be cleared during the next 17 months. This money will be earmarked for unemployment relief, old age assistance, pensions to the blind and aid for financially distressed school districts.

FEAR 120 DEAD IN MINE

DUCHCOV, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Fire and poisonous gases swept a dual threat of death today toward 120 men trapped by a terrific blast in a coal mine.

Rescue workers, beaten back by the flames, feared all were doomed—if not already dead of gas.

One hundred forty men were in the diggings when the terrific explosion cooped them there late yesterday. The bodies of 16 were recovered and four managed to clamber the 1,000 feet to surface safety. Another body was recovered later. It was that of a washerwoman who had been working in the shafthead of the mine.

Gas seeping through the workings handicapped rescue workers from the outset. Then, early today, fire broke out and raged through the underground passageways.

U. S. Favors Pushing Pre-Repeal Violators

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The administration favors the prosecution of all persons charged with having violated national prohibition before repeal.

This position was taken in a brief filed by the Justice Department in the Supreme Court today holding that the repeal of prohibition should not release from trial those charged with violating the Volstead act or with conspiracy to violate it.

FRIENDS PRAISE DR. GOLDENSON AT FAREWELL

Rabbi Departs Tonight For Bermuda Vacation And New Charge

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, golden-voiced rabbi, said goodbye to 1,500 of his friends last night when they gathered in Hotel Schenley to bid Godspeed to him.

And a dozen speakers, leaders in community life in Pittsburgh, heaped praises on the silver-haired rabbi's shoulders.

Dr. Goldenson and his family leave tonight for a short vacation in Bermuda, and following it, he will become head of the leading synagogue in New York, Temple Emanu-El.

Dr. Goldenson will be succeeded here by Dr. Solomon B. Freehof, rabbi of K. A. M. Temple of Chicago, the oldest Jewish congregation in the Middle West.

Mrs. Josiah Cohen, widow of Judge Cohen who was the leader of the Jewry of Pittsburgh for many years, spoke from the platform, as she admitted, for the first time in her 80 years. She concluded by kissing the rabbi—who had been her husband's friend.

AMONG THE SPEAKERS

Other speakers were Bishop Alexander Mann, of the Episcopal diocese; the Rev. Thomas F. Coakley, pastor of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church; the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church; Rabbi Benjamin Lichter, Rabbi B. Benedict Glazer, A. Leo Weil, Ludwig Vogelstein, vice chairman of the Union of American Hebrew congregations; Louis Caplan, Mrs. Aaron Lamble, head of the Sisterhood, and Daniel Hammersmith, president of the Men's Club of Rodef Shalom, Dr. Goldenson's congregation for the past 15 years. Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education, was chairman.

Dr. Goldenson bade his friends farewell in a brief talk, saying:

"You have been kind in viewing me, as all kindness does and should, from the favorable side. And by doing it, you yourselves have exemplified kindness.

"There has been a wonderful conspiracy on this platform and in this audience tonight always to view me from that favorable side, and my hope and prayer is that the expressions you have made here, and the emotions you have shown, will be expressed everywhere."

MEANING OF KINDNESS

Explaining the meaning of kindness as two-sided, one in viewing man from his better side and the other in helpfulness, he asked his hearers always to show it, and to lift the load of those who need aid and carry them nearer their goal.

He pleaded for the same kindness, the same sympathy and helpfulness for the new rabbi that will succeed him, saying:

"The 15 years I have spent here form the longest period I have remained anywhere in my life. And I shall go forth with the memories of the quality of friendship and generosity and devotion and responsiveness I enjoyed.

"And if you offer the same to the one who is to follow me, you will find that he will give more; if you pause and wait, he will give less. Meet him more than half way, and he will give you his all."

BISHOP MANN TALKS

Bishop Mann spoke of their first meeting 11 years ago when Dr. Goldenson, at the welcoming banquet to Bishop Mann who had just arrived from Boston, gave the "most graceful" speech. He added:

"I have seen him since, and he has had the respect, which is the highest one can say, and affection of the clergy of the Christian churches in the community.

"By his teachings, Jew and Gentile have found life more real, more noble, and in it more fun and more brotherliness.

"And with him, New York is getting more than all the Pittsburgh millionaires who have left to live and spend their days there."

Dr. Coakley likened Dr. Goldenson to Newman's "Gentleman, who was a gentle man, one who inflicted injury on no man."

Dr. Kerr compared him to the prophets of Judea, and paid tribute to his wife.

The affection the members of the congregation bore him were expressed by Mr. Aaron, Weil, Hammersmith and others, while Mr. Vogelstein brought from New York the welcome to the new Temple there. A letter of greeting was also read from Judge Irving Lehmann, president of the board of the Temple Emanu-El.

Mrs. Coolidge Spends Quiet 55th Birthday

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Grace (Goodhue) Coolidge, widow of former President Calvin Coolidge, observed her fifty-fifth birthday yesterday.

There was no special celebration, as the day was saddened by the fact that Mr. Coolidge died just a year ago tomorrow. Mrs. Coolidge was the dinner guest tonight of her most intimate friend, Mrs. R. B. Hills.

ent and faith in the future that the upturn which we have so far seen will become cumulative.

BENEFICIAL FORCES

"If we maintain the course I have outlined, we can confidently look forward to cumulative beneficial forces represented by increased volume of business, more general profit, greater employment, a dimunution of relief expenditures, larger governmental receipts and repayments, and greater human happiness."

It had been pointed out by him earlier in a supplemental talk with newspapermen that the more than 10,000 million dollars to be spent this fiscal year is not up to the limit authorized by Congress.

His message read:

"The results of expenditures already made show themselves in concrete form in better prices for farm commodities, in renewed business activity, in increased employment, in reopening of and restored confidence in banks, and in well organized relief."

The prospective seven-billion-dollar deficit for this year includes 1,166-million dollars additional to be asked from Congress for continuing until summer the vast Civil Works Administration and financing the Home Loan Bank system.

Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen he would just as soon have the 200-million-dollar recovery fund he has asked for next year in a lump sum. If Congress prefers to itemize it, he does want authority to switch funds from one item to another.

His ideas for use of this 200-million dollars next year are, roughly:

Three hundred million dollars to continue another year the Civilian Conservation Corps.

NECESSITY FOR RELIEF

The President said:

"It is clear that the necessity for relief and recovery will still be with us during the year 1934-35. Additional relief funds will be necessary.

"Further needs of the country prohibit the abrupt termination of the recovery program.

"No person can on this date definitely predict the total amount that will be needed, nor the itemizing of such an amount.

"It is my best judgment at this time that a total appropriation of not to exceed 2,000 million dollars will, with the expenditures still to be made next year out of existing appropriations, be sufficient."

The huge Reconstruction Corporation, called upon to finance much of the business and banking structure of the nation, is charged with almost 4,000 million dollars of the 7,000 million dollars deficit for this year.

The President's message stated that if the RFC loaning authority is extended beyond next June 30, "it is contemplated that any additional loans by it would thereafter be taken from the new and additional recovery fund hereinafter referred to."

SHARP TRADE UPTURN SEEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt looks forward to national recovery at a rate that will bring an increase of 34 per cent in industrial production between now and July 1, 1935.

This confident estimate of the future was presented in the budget message as the basis upon which the government's receipts for the next 18 months were calculated.

The 1935 revenue was set at $3,974,665,479 on the estimate that the Federal Reserve Board's average index of industrial production for that fiscal year would reach 98, compared with 81 for the present fiscal year, and 67 for 1932-33.

At the 98 mark, the fiscal year would be better than the calendar year 1930 by two points, and would compare with 110 for the fiscal year from July, 1929 to June, 1930.

Tax on Government Securities Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Separate resolutions calling for amendments of the Federal Constitution to permit taxation of all securities issued by federal, state and local governments were offered today by Senator Ashurst (Dem.), of Arizona, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado.

Ashurst listed seven reasons why tax exemptions should be forbidden in issuance of public bonds.

TEXT OF ROOSEVELT BUDGET MESSAGE

President Reviews U. S. Financial Position

To the Congress of the United States:

I transmit herewith the budget for the year ending June 30, 1935. It contains also estimates of receipts and expenditures for the current year, ending June 30, 1934, and includes statements of the financial operations or status of all governmental agencies, including the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The estimates herein given and included in the budget have to do with general and special funds—the government's moneys. They do not relate to trust and contributed funds, which are not government moneys, except where expressly referred to as such.

GENERAL FINANCIAL POSITION

In my annual message to the Congress I have already summarized the problems presented by the deflationary forces of the depression, the paralyzed condition which affected the banking system, business, agriculture, transportation, and, indeed, the whole orderly continuation of the nation's social and economic system.

I have outlined the steps taken since last March for the resumption of normal activities and the restoration of the credit of the government.

Of necessity these many measures have caused spending by the government far in excess of the income of the government.

The results of expenditures already made show themselves in concrete form in better prices for farm commodities, in renewed business activity, in increased employment, in reopening of and restored confidence in banks, and in well-organized relief.

THE CURRENT FISCAL YEAR

(Ending June 30, 1934)

Exclusive of debt retirement of $488,171,500 for this year, budget estimates of expenditures, including operating expenses of the regular government establishments and also all expenditures which may be broadly classed as caused by the necessity for recovery from the depression will amount this year (ending June 30, 1934) to $9,403,006,967.

This total falls in broad terms into the following classifications:

Expenditures for fiscal year ending June 30, 1934:

GENERAL
Departmental	$2,899,116,200
Legislative	17,718,000
Independent establishments	616,857,067
	$3,533,691,767
Less public debt retirements	488,171,500
Total general	$3,045,520,267
EMERGENCY
Public Works Administration	$1,677,190,800
Agricultural adjustment:
Administration	103,250,000
Farm Credit Administration	40,000,000
Emergency conservation work	341,705,600
Reconstruction Finance Corporation	3,969,740,300
Tennessee Valley Authority	19,000,000
Federal Land Banks	52,350,000
Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation	150,000,000
National Industrial Recovery Administration	4,250,000
Total Emergency	$6,357,486,700
Total general and emergency, less public debt retirements	$9,403,006,967

As against these expenditures, which have either been appropriated for or for which appropriations are asked, the estimated receipts for this fiscal year (ending June 30, 1934) are $3,259,938,756.

On this basis, including, however, certain additional expenditures for 1934 which are not included in the budget estimates but which I believe to be necessary and amounting to 1,166 million dollars as shown in a subsequent table herein, the excess of expenditures over receipts will be $7,309,068,211.

On the basis of these estimates, the public debt, in the strict sense of the term, at the expiration of this fiscal year will therefore amount to approximately 29,837, million dollars, an increase as shown above of $7,309,068,201.

However, as against this increase in the total debt figure, it is right to point out that the various governmental agencies have loans outstanding with a book value of $3,558,516,189, against which collateral or assets have been pledged.

In order to make clear to the Congress what our borrowings problem is for the next six months permit me to remind you that we shall have to borrow approximately 6,000 million dollars of new money, in addition, 4,000 million dollars to meet maturities of a like amount.

The Fiscal Year, 1935.
(Ending June 30, 1935.)

The budget estimates of expenditures, exclusive of debt retirement of $525,763,800 and exclusive also of such sum as may be necessary for new and extraordinary recovery purposes, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, amount to $3,960,798,700.

Again summarizing the main headings of these expenditures, they fall into the following items:

Expenditures for fiscal year ending June 30, 1935:

GENERAL
Departmental	$3,202,074,900
Legislative	18,734,500
Independent Establishments	542,466,600
	$3,763,276,000
Less Public Debt Retirements	525,763,800
Total, General	$3,237,512,200
EMERGENCY
Public Works Administration	$1,089,883,100
Agricultural Adjustment Administration	5,000,000
Emergency Conservation Work	65,190,000
Reconstruction Finance Corporation	*480,436,600
Tennessee Valley Authority	31,000,000
Federal Land Banks	12,650,000
Total, Emergency	$ 723,286,500
Total, General and Emergency, Less Public Debt Retirements	$3,960,798,700

*Excess of credits—deduct.

It will be noted that many of these items such as public works fall under appropriations made in 1933, the actual expenditures not taking place until after June 30, 1934.

The above figures do not include additional loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. If its loaning authority is extended beyond June 30, 1934, it is contemplated that any additional loans by it would thereafter be taken from the new and additional recovery fund hereinafter referred to.

The estimates of receipts for the next fiscal year (ending June 30, 1935) exclusive of foreign-debt payments, of increased liquor taxes and of increased revenue flowing from amendments to the existing revenue law, amount to $3,974,665,479.

SMALL SURPLUS

Therefore, exclusive of debt retirement, these budget estimates for the next fiscal year show a small surplus of $13,866,799. But it must be borne in mind that this surplus does not include any additional expenditures for extraordinary recovery purposes.

It is clear that the necessity for relief and recovery will still be with us during the year 1934-35. Additional relief funds will be necessary. Further needs of the country prohibit the abrupt termination of the recovery program.

No person can on this date definitely predict the total amount that will be needed, nor the itemizing of such an amount. It is my best judgment at this time a total appropriation of not to exceed 2,000 million dollars will, with the expenditures still to be made next year out of existing appropriations, be sufficient.

I shall therefore ask the Congress for appropriations approximating that amount.

This amount is not included in the budget estimates. If appropriated and extended, therefore, it will change the small estimated surplus of 13 million dollars into a debt increase of nearly 2,000 million dollars. It is only fair, of course, to say that such a debt increase would be partially offset by loans made against collateral and assets pledged.

Therefore, the total debt, if increased by the sum of 2,000 million dollars during the fiscal year 1935, would amount to approximately 31,834 million dollars on June 30, 1935. It is my belief that, so far as we can make estimates with out present knowledge, the government should seek to hold the total debt within this amount. Furthermore, the government during the balance of this calendar year should plan to bring its 1936 expenditures, including recovery and relief, within the revenues expected in the fiscal year 1936.

EXPENDITURES GROW

Let me put it another way: The excess of expenditures over receipts during this fiscal year amounts to over 7,000 million dollars. My estimates for the coming fiscal year show an excess of expenditures over receipts of 2,000 million dollars. We should plan to have a definitely balanced budget for the third year of recovery and from that time on seek a continuing reduction of the national debt.

This excess of expenditures over revenues amounting to over 9,000 million dollars during two fiscal years has been rendered necessary to bring the country to a sound condition after the unexampled crisis which we encountered last spring. It is a large amount, but the immeasurable benefits justify the cost.

The following table shows expenditures and receipts for the fiscal years 1934 and 1935 as contained in the budget, plus the additional expenditures which will be made out of additional authorizations and appropriations here recommended. It shows, also, the estimated increase in the public debt and the book value of assets held as security against loans:

	1934	1935	1934-35 2-year period
Expenditures (exclusive of debt retirement):
General	2,530,720,267	2,486,768,200	5,017,488,467
Agricultural Adjustment Administration	514,800,000	750,744,000	1,265,544,000
	9,403,006,967	3,960,798,700	13,363,805,667
Additional expenditures from additional appropriations	1,166,000,000	2,000,000,000	3,166,000,000
Increase in debt	‡7,309,068,211	1,986,133,221	9,295,201,432
Estimated book value of assets held as security for loans			5,461,969,273

*These estimates of receipts are predicated on Federal Reserve Board average index of industrial production of 81 for fiscal year 1934 and of 98 for the fiscal year 1935:

†These include net expenditures after deucting Reconstruction Finance Corporation repayments in 1935 of $480,436,600.

1929	119	118
1930	96	110
1931	81	87
1932	64	70
1933	*76	67
1934	†85	81
1935	...	98

APPROPRIATIONS.

The budget estimates of appropriations for 1935, exclusive of Agricultural Adjustment Administration benefit payments and refunds of processing taxes, but inclusive of all other appropriations for regular departments and independent establishments including interest on the debt and debt retirement are $2,980,293,833.60. When compared with budget estimates of appropriations transmitted in the budget for 1934 they show a reduction of $684,913,167.

TAXES

The estimates of receipts take no account of the additional revenue which may be obtained from an increase in liquor taxes and from the proposed changes in the income tax law. Since neither of these tax measures has come before Congress as yet, no accurate estimate can be made of their yield.

However, if as proposed by the Committee of Ways and Means, the tax on distilled spirits is increased from $1.10 a gallon to $2 a gallon, and the rates of tax on wines are also increased, the estimated revenue would be increased by approximately 50 million dollars, assuming that consumption is not affected by additional gallonage taxes, imposed by the states.

Considerable additional revenue can also be secured from administrative changes in the income tax law, which may amount to as much as 150 million dollars for a full year.

The estimates for the Post Office Department are predicated upon a continuation of the three cent postal rate for non-local mail. It is highly important that this rate be continued. I recommend its continuance.

ECONOMY LEGISLATION

The estimates of appropriations submitted in the budget are predicated on the continuation of certain economy legislative provisions which I ask to be enacted and which are appended hereto. The most important is that having to do with reduction of compensation of federal employes.

It is eminently fair that, the cost of living having fallen as compared with 1928, the employes of the government sustain some reduction in compensation. This is not inconsistent with our policy of advocating an increase in wages in industry.

For wages there had fallen far beyond any reduction contemplated for federal employes and in most grades are even now substantially below compensation paid federal employes under the maximum reduction of 15 per cent.

Among the legislative provisions appended hereto is one prohibiting automatic increases in compensation except in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The personnel of these three services are engaged in a life service to their country. Some, by reason of the pay freezes, have sustained reduction in compensation of more than 25 per cent. They are, therefore, in a different category from those in other governmental agencies. They should, in 1935, be released from the restrictions on automatic increases in compensation.

CONTROL

Up to now there has been no co-ordinated control over emergency expenditures. Today, by executive order, I have imposed that necessary control in the Bureau of the Budget.

Heretofore, emergency expenditures have not been subject to audit by the comptroller general of the general accounting office. Today I am, by executive order, reposing in him the authority to conduct such an audit and to continue to audit each such expenditure. Hereafter, therefore, just as in the departmental expenditures, there will be, in emergency expenditures, a pre-budget and a post audit.

By reason of the fact that the Bureau of Budget has had no control in the past over the various expenditures, obligations, and allotments made by the emergency organizations, the task of preparing the present budget has been the most difficult one since the budget and accounting act went into effect in 1921. These difficulties, in future years, will be substantially minimized by the control which I have established.

It is evident to me, as I am sure it is evident to you, that powerful forces for recovery exist. It is by laying a foundation of confidence in the present and faith in the future that the upturn which we have so far seen will become cumulative. The cornerstone of this foundation is the good credit of the government.

It is, therefore, not strange nor is it academic that this credit has a profound effect upon the confidence so necessary to permit the new recovery to develop into maturity.

If we maintain the course I have outlined, we can confidently look forward to cumulative beneficial forces represented by increased volume of business, more general profit, greater employment, a diminution of relief expenditures, large governmental receipts and repayments, and greater human happiness.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Expects Increase of Nine Billions In Debt

TREASURY CITES EXPENDITURES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Major expenditures due to, or primarily affected by, the depression were 1,913 million dollars during the 1933 fiscal year as compared with 1,750 million dollars in 1932, it was disclosed by the Treasury Department's annual report sent to Congress today.

William H. Woodin signed the report. He was succeeded January 1 by Henry Morgenthau, Jr. There was little comment in the report, which was confined to hard financial facts and was a mere recital as to what had occurred during the fiscal year ended last June.

Estimates of receipts and expenditures for 1934 and 1935, duplicated in the President's message, were contained.

For the first time in years the Secretary of the Treasury made no recommendations to Congress.

During the year the Reconstruction Finance Corporation made payments of 1,277 million dollars as compared with 768 million dollars the year before. Expenditures for public works decreased in 1933, amounting to 474 million dollars as compared with 507 million dollars in 1932.

MORGENTHAU'S APPROVAL BY SENATE SEEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The way was cleared in the Senate today for speedy confirmation of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as Secretary of the Treasury when the Finance Committee reported the nomination favorably and Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, announced he would support it.

Shortly after Chairman Harrison submitted the Finance Committee's unanimous report, Long, who had indicated he might oppose the nomination, announced he was satisfied by the examination of Morgenthau by the committee today.

Long arose to explain to the Senate that he had asked for examination of Morgenthau because of several newspaper reports of statements made by the Treasury head about settlements pending in the Internal Revenue Bureau, which he said were unwise and irregular.

Harrison, who did not ask for immediate consideration and left teh nomination for action by the Senate next week, said of Morgenthau:

"I don't think I ever saw any man make such a favorable impression on a Senate committee."

Morgenthau's name was among 100 submitted by President Roosevelt.

The list included:

Two ambassadors, Hal H. Sevier, of Texas, to Chile, and William Christian Bullitt, of Pennsylvania, to the Soviet Republic.

Two new Federal Trade Commissioners, James M. Landis, of Massachusetts, and George C. Mathews, of Wisconsin.

Ministers inlucding Matthew E. Hanna, of Ohio, to Guatemala; George H. Earle, III, of Pennsylvania, to Austria; Arthur Bliss Lane, of New York, to Nicaragua; Leo R. Sack, of Pennsylvania, to Costa Rica; Meredith Nicholson, of Indiana, to Paraguay.

DAVIS OPPOSES WATERWAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Declaring that the improvement of the St. Lawrence river would be unwise at this time by making the unnecessary expenditure of United States funds in a foreign country when many worthy projects at home are open for development, Senator James J. Davis today announced his opposition to the ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty which is pending in the Senate.

In a letter to Mayor J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, Davis asserts that the construction of the St. Lawrence improvement is not an economic necessity, that it would involve the United States and Canada in many international complications, increase the burden of American taxpayers and affect labor conditions in the railroads of this country.

U. S. CAN BEAR HUGE DEBT, REED SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's budget today gave Democrat and Republican alike on Capitol Hill something to think about, and their comment showed it.

Speaker Rainey said the amount of the deficit for this year "is startling indeed."

Senator Dickinson (Rep.), of Iowa, said the budget set "an unknown peace time record of extravagant expenditures and wilful waste."

Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, who has urged return to a single budget and lower expenditures lest the present system lead to radical inflation or heavy taxes, said the country was "perfectly able to endure a debt as large as 3,100 million dollars and if we can depend upon the President's assurances after that debt is reached that the budget will be balanced in fact there is nothing to worry about."

Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader:

"I am so overcome and shocked by the amount these fellows propose to spend that it will take me several days to catch my breath."

Chairman Harrison, of the Senate Finance Committee, termed the budget message a "very clear summary of the conditions of the Treasury" and predicted the government would be operating "in the black" by 1936 or sometime sooner.

Senator Townsend (Rep.), of Delaware, thought the message would "throw a chill" over the country because of the prospective increase in public debt in the the next two years to over 31,000 million dollars.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, said the sums recommended were the "largest in peace time and we will have to slow down in the process of spending or we will never come back in earnings."

STOPS TIPPING BLONDS
Saves Over $30 A Year On Lunches Alone!

"During the depression years, I discovered a few things about the tipping nuisance in restaurants.

"SO many men cheat their stomach out of a real meal to save that dime for the blond . . . Sometimes that dime is 25% of the total luncheon cost. Imagine your wife paying 25% extra to the butcher or baker just for bringing her what she orders! And how silly to do it in a restaurant when there's no such problem at Thompson's and when a dime spent there buys so much real food.

"It isn't a case of just one dime. It's the daily dime. Figure it out for yourself . . . by avoiding the tipping nuisance, even for lunches alone, you can save over $30 a year!

CONGRESS GETS DOWN TO WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Congress today broke speed records and upset tradition in true Rooseveltian style, swinging into work on the second day of the session with legislation which included foreign war debts, the soldier bonus and other veterans' measures, free coinage of silver and direct RFC loans to industry.

The Senate called on the Treasury to furnish a statement showing the war debts due from foreign nations to the United States in adopting a resolution offered by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho.

FIRST REACTION

It was the first of the expected Congressional reaction to war debt defaults. In his message yesterday, President Roosevelt promised an early report to Congress on the war debt situation.

Another bill by Borah proposed repeal of the anti-trust provisions of the National Recovery Act. He has directed much criticism lately at what he called tendencies under the recovery program to give big business an advantage over small industries and small businessmen.

A bill providing for federal criminal prosecution of state or local police officers or employes charged with implication in mob violence was introduced by Senators Costigan (Dem.), Colorado, and Wagner (Dem.), of New York. It specifies that officers or employes be adjudged guilty of a falony if they fail to make "diligent efforts" to protect from a mob any prisoner in their charge as well as because of actual conspiracy with members of a mob.

Other Senate bills included: Norris, to develop the Missouri River Valley; Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, to repeal the entire economy act; Representative McFarlane (Dem.), of Texas, to give federal courts jurisdiction in bank robbery cases.

BONUS PETITION

In the House, a petition to force a vote on a bill to pay the soldiers' bonus in full was filed on the Speaker's desk by Representative Lundeen (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota.

Other House measures included: Representative Cross (Dem.), of Texas, to coin silver at 16 to 1, to establish a "controlled stabilized currency system," by issuance of "stabilization coin certificates" redeemable in gold or silver at the discretion of a currency stabilization board. Representative Shallenberger (Dem.), of Nebraska, free coinage of both gold and silver.

Meanwhile the proposal for free coinage of silver was laid before President Roosevelt by Senators Weeler, of Montana, and King, of Utah, who declared themselves "very satisfied" with the interview.

Previously 18 western House members unanimously adopted a resolution favoring bi-metalism and free coinage of both gold and silver and agreed to the appointment of a special committee to attempt to reach agreement with other groups on silver legislation.

The senators declined to predict presidential approval of their plan but did indicate they expected further moves on silver by the President.

Penna. Members Introduce New Bills in House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—With two new Democratic members from Pennsylvania sworn in at the opening of the Seventy-third Congress, the Quaker State's delegation settled down today for what promised to be a busy session.

A bill to permit direct RFC loans to industry was introduced today by Representative Kelly, of Pittsburgh.

Representative Dunn, of Pittsburgh, introduced a bill to give a pension to all ex-service men incapacitated in any manner, and to boost by 30 per cent compensation to veterans with incomes under $3,600 a year.

In the group of new House members who took the oath of office yesterday were Henry Ellenbogen, of Pittsburgh, and Oliver W. Frey, of Lehigh County.

It was the first time Ellenbogen had taken his seat in the House, although he was elected a year ago last November. He was unable to act officially previously because he had not been a citizen for seven years, the period required for Congressional membership, until the day after the special session adjourned last June.

Senator James J. Davis said the popularity of the message "will be unquestioned."

Two Ellenbogen Bills Affect Home Loans

By JOHN P. COWAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Congressman Henry Ellenbogen yesterday introduced two bills affecting the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933.

The first bill, a proposed amendment to the Federal Reserve Act and the National Banking Act, gives to bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation a circulation privilege up to 50 per cent of their par value.

The second bill amends the Home Owners' Loan Act and provides for increasing the issue of home loan bonds from 2,000 million dollars to 5,000 million dollars. It permits the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to finance the construction of new homes in taking a mortgage on the property in exchange for home loan bonds and the exchange of home loan bonds for mortgages on unencumbered property.

Ellenbogen also sent to Civil Works Administrator Hopkins a tentative budget of a proposed federal loan of approximately $67,000 to the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

WIFE FIGHTING SUIT CHARGES RIDICULE

Her husband told her she was "a flat tire" and said her legs were not shapely, nor her teeth regular, Nell La Rae Wilson asserts in her answer to divorce suit of E. Ford Wilson, on file today.

Wilson, a glass company salesman, who lives at 5645 Marlboro road, charged Mrs. Wilson flirted with another woman's husband and that the other wife struck her.

The respondent, who now lives at 103 South Narberth avenue, Narberth, Pa., charged her husband had affairs with other women. She said he told her:

"I have taken on a pleasant financial obligation."

Asked if it was a certain woman, Mrs. Wilson avers he admitted they were good friends, and told her:

"You will have to take it on the chin."

Explaining her husband's story of another woman striking her, she said that in a downtown cafe he was intoxicated and attacked a man who had invited her to dance. In attempting to seperate them, she said, she was struck by the other woman.

She denied her husband saw her being embraced by another man, but admitted she received a letter from one, saying this was a device to regain Wilson's love.

She also charged her husband drove away to Cincinnati accompanied by another woman and in the presence of friends, referred to Mrs. Wilson as his ex-wife.

PAWN SWINDLE STIRS FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—France was shaken today by charges that 10 to 20-million-dollar frauds have been revealed by the collapse of the Credit Municipal Bank of Bayonne, which was the city's pawnshop, and the disappearance of its mysterious founder, Serge Stavisky.

The manager of the institution was jailed December 30 and a warrant was issued for Stavisky in connection with the recent alleged issuance of unauthorized bonds.

Premier Camille Chautemps, with names high in French governmental quarters involved in the affair, declared Stavisky, who, police said, had many aliases, will be brought to justice and the case sifted thoroughly.

Insurance companies were reported by investigators to have been the principal victims of the sale of fraudulent pawnshop bonds, which Stavisky—operating under the name of Serge Alexandre—is charged with issuing for from three to 10 times the pawnshop's legal limit of 50 million francs (about three million dollars).

DR. WYNEKOOP TRIAL SET

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop will go on trial one week from today for the "operating table" murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop.

The date was set by Judge Joseph David today, when attorneys W. W. Smith and Frank Tyrrell appeared for the scheduled opening of the trial and told the court they were confident the 62-year-old defendant's condition will be sufficiently improved by that time.

Dr. Wynekoop is confined in the county jail, where, according to Dr. Francis McNamara, jail physician, she is suffering from heart trouble, high blood pressure and other ailments.

HELEN'S "MIKE" VANISHED, SO SHE 'PHONED A JUDGE

Musmanno Aids Girl Hunt Missing Kitten

Judge Spreads Plea For Return of Angora Pet

Into the judicial chambers of Judge M. A. Musmanno the frantic plea of a 14-year-old girl to find her lost kitten found its way yesterday—and dignity bowed to human kindliness.

When "Mike," an 8-month-old Angora kitten, who disappeared Monday night, hadn't returned yesterday morning, his owner, Helen Gould, of 922 Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, tried to contact someone in charge of missing animals by telephone. By coincidence the judge received the call, and after listening to little Helen's story said, without revealing his identity:

"I think I can help you."

In keeping with his promise, he relayed the plea to various organizations which might aid in finding "Mike." The wandering kitten is described as all white, with yellow eyes and a bushy tail. Since he was a day old he's been Helen's pet.

"Mike's" mother, "Mitzi," has been lolling around the Gould residence for four or five years. She's still lolling, but rather forsakenly—it seems she misses "Mike," too.

Housekeeper Wins In Estate Dispute

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—The claim of Mrs. Teresa Galandra, Connellsville, to a portion of the estate of C. V. Elliott, power company engineer, whom she had served for many years as housekeeper, was upheld in an opinion on file today by Judge J. W. Dawson.

As a result of the ruling, a sum in excess of $21,000 will go to the woman in accordance with a death-bed statement of Elliott.

The three, booked as Ernest McGehee, 23; Johnny Jones, 23, and Isaac Howard, 25, have been held in jail at Memphis pending completion of requisition proceedings.

CUBAN REVOLT FAR ADVANCED

HAVANA, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Cuba was prepared for trouble today as a cabinet leader asserted that an anti-government conspiracy had gone too far to be halted.

While disclosing that copies of a political conciliation plan drawn by the Uruguayan minister, Benjamin Fernandez De Medina, had been handed all members of the cabinet, Dr. Antonio Guiteras, Secretary of the Interior, added pessimistically:

"Even if the plan is accepted, it will not halt the anti-government conspiracy."

He said plans of revolutionary elements centered at Miami, Fla., were too far advanced to be held up by any cordiality formula—or even United States recognition.

Non-Slip Bathtub Held America's Greatest Need

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—What the American home of today needs more than anything else is a non-slip bathtub, Frederick J. Kiesler, furniture designer, told buyers attending the national furniture show.

Furthermore, he said in an address last night, designers are at work attempting to perfect a "smooth, but not slippery" tub. He said:

"It is a matter of life insurance statistics that 35 per cent of all accidents in the home occur in the bathtub."

GAS EXECUTION STAY GRANTED

International News Service.

DENVER, Jan. 4.—At least 20 days of life remained today for Walter Reppin, 18, the Newark (N. J.) boy who was to have died in Colorado's new lethal gas chamber at Canon City some time this week.

The State Supreme Court, in ruling that it would review the case, granted Reppin's attorneys 20 days in which to file a bill of exceptions.

Gov. Ed C. Johnson repeated his former statement that he would not interfere with the sentence of the courts. He said:

"Reppin did not show any mercy to Vincent Regan. I feel that whatever the law decrees should be carried out."

Mrs. Rose L. Egan, mother of the slain man, wrote the Governor:

"If you have a child of your own and should your child be kidnaped and murdered brutally, would you feel as I do, dear sir, that justice should be meted out to the murderers?"

Police Free Dog As Boy Offers To Whip Chief

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—When his dog's freedom is endangered a 6-year-old Helena boy is willing to whip the whole Police Department.

Fists clenched and tears streaming down his face, the boy offered to do as much when he was brought before Police Chief Joe Spurzem after the dog was taken to the city pound.

The police chief, who did not disclose the identity of the lad, turned the dog loose.

DAVIS FAVORS SALES TAX

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—United States Senator James J. Davis, discussed on various occasions as a possible candidate for Governor, assailed the present tax collection system in Pennsylvania and says he favors a national sales tax exempting necessities.

In a letter to M. E. Comerford, theater owner, Davis wrote:

"One of these days someone who has no presidential aspirations and no desire for future political preferment will be elected Governor of Pennsylvania and will buckle down to the business of delivering justice to our people. It is better for those who control the politics of the state to lose their positions than for the state to die."

FREED IN DEATH OF COASTER

A deputy Coroner's report today exonerated A. L. Leach, 1241 Western avenue, North Side, of responsibility for the fatal injuring of George Schimmel, 17, of Haysville, December 28.

The boy was coasting down River avenue hill when his sled struck a rear wheel of a Nevin Line bus driven by Leach at the intersection of River and Beaver avenues, between Sewickley and Haysville, according to the final report made by Deputy Coroner John Artz, Jr. This report was based on the stories of two of the boy's companions, Richard Todd and Ernest Stevens, of Haysville, Artz said.

Following the accident, Leach was held under bail when it was reported at the Sewickley Valley Hospital that the Schimmel boy was walking in the road when struck.

Coroner W. J. McGregor has set 1:15 tomorrow afternoon for an open hearing at which Leach and other witnesses will testify.

DAVIS WITNESS BLAMES POWER MEN IN DEAL

National attention has been directed to Tennessee by the arrest of powerful banking and political figures. Universal Service sent Earl L. Shaub, of its staff, to the state to obtain the facts in this case, which has national ramifications. The second dispatch of a series appears today.

By EARL L. SHAUB
Universal Service

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 4.—The hand of power interests is back of Tennessee's new political sensation just brought to the surface by the arrest of Paul M. Davis, banker brother of Norman H. Davis, America's ambassador-at-large.

This was admitted by J. I. Reece, former state commissioner of insurance and banking, who was arrested with Davis, Vance Alexander and A. V. Louthan on charges of conspiracy to defraud the state of $22,800.

Reece is said to have told the grand jury he borrowed the money from state funds and that it was used by the alleged conspirators to elect Gov. Hill McAlister in 1932.

WANTED POWER SENATOR

McAlister was their choice, Reece is said to have revealed, because he would appoint Nathan L. Bachman, an attorney for power interests, to the United States Senate to succeed Cordell Hull, who became Secretary of State.

Before Reece would go into the agreement, he is said to have told the grand ury, he exacted a promise that none of the money would be used to knife his brother, Carroll Reece, member of the United States House of Representatives.

Reece's statement to the grand jury also said, according to reports, that the other men promised to refund the money before an audit of his accounts could be made.

CASH NOT REPAID

In fact they all agreed, Reece is said to have told the grand jury, that the money was to be returned.

But the money was not restored, it was pointed out in a letter from Homor K. Jones & Co., who made the audit. This letter is on file in the Attorney General's office here.

The fact that the alleged conspirators discussed the return of the money was also pointed out by Miss Hilda McCray, confidential secretary to Reece, who says she sat in at some of the conferences.

In her statement to the grand jury, she is reported to have declared the conference "was for the confirmation of the finance committee's promise of refunding the money of the back tax account, which had been used by the said committee in the McAlister campaign."

REPAYMENT URGED

Miss McCray is said to have declared that Paul M. Davis assured both Mr. Reece and herself that the program of refunding the back tax account, which had been used for the political campaign, was definitely being carried out by the plans that had been presented by the representatives of their committee.

The grand jury was told by Miss McCray, it is said, that Davis also said the finance committee "had committed an error in the use of those funds unless they were refunded and all people involved were as anxious as we were to clean this deficit up."

Davis is not only a brother of the Ambassador-at-Large, but also a brother of Ewin Davis, member of the Federal Trade Commission.

Pittsburgh and most of the towns around about are still pretty smoky places. It's easy to get dirty. The smoke settles on everything, you know—lots of it oily smoke. It sticks so that water alone won't take it off. We have to use soap, too.

We surely hope that all Junior Patrol members enjoy bathing and washing. And just at morning and evening isn't enough. Wash your hands, in particular, several times through the day. That is because they not only look better when they are clean but because almost all dirt has germs in it. Washing with soap and water, if you wash your hands thoroughly, gets most of them off. You can avoid getting a lot of sickness this easy way.

Lots of fellows who wash their hands pretty clean forget their fingernails. They go around with black half-moons under their nails. That's not so good, fellows. Get a little brush, and the dirt will come out easily. If you ever try to get a job, that's one of the things that people look at first.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.
Date of Birth ..... Address .....
School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR Patrol, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

Right now is a good time to watch your hair brushing, too, fellows. If you start to brush your hair right when you are young, your hair will look nice and well kept when you grow up. Looking neat all over, and being clean, is the way to start being a real gentleman. Of course we don't have to tell the girls that they should be neat and clean. Girls seem to know that it's the right thing.

We heard about a little boy who was sled riding and ran into a parked automobile yesterday, fellows. He was injured so badly that he died in the hospital. You remember we warned all Junior Patrol members to be careful when they go sled riding. Sled ride where you know it's safe.

Wonder how many of our Junior Patrol members are newsboys? We have been reading that some of the wealthiest men in the country earned their first money selling newspapers, and we have been thinking that we would like to hear how you are getting along these days. How about writing us a letter and suggesting some changes or improvements in the papers so that you could sell more of them?

Junior and his gang are back in school now. They made a New Year resolution to keep their Junior Patrol pledge better than ever!

JUDGE FLAYS, JAILS BANDITS

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—Warning two youthful robbers that they "would have been strung up" had they lived during the early days of our nation," Quarter Sessions Judge Eugene V. Alessandroni yesterday imposed sentences of from 12 to 30 years on Harold Flynn and Frank Nevisnal, both 20 years old. The judge said:

"It is such as you who make a reign of terror in our community. Many of our people believe that no penalty is too great short of taking life for such as you."

Upon their plea of guilty, the two youths were ordered committed to Eastern Penitentiary. They confessed to a long series of armed holdups and automobile thefts in Baltimore, Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia.

We select only the center leaves—because the center leaves are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. Only the center leaves are used in making Luckies—so round, so firm, so fully packed—free from loose ends that spill out, that cling to lips. Is it any wonder Luckies are mild and smooth? BEAUTY WINNER WON'T LEAVE HOLLYWOOD

A Pittsburgh youth, William John O'Dell, 22, of 4603 Carlton street, Lawrenceville, is one of the rejected "search for beauty" contest winners who have refused to hit the homeward trail, according to a Hollywood report.

O'Dell, only Pittsburgh district contest winner, went to Hollywood September 30 with expenses paid, and his ticket bought both ways—the return half good for 25 years. And with the other 25 winners, according to the contest agreement, appeared in one picture. But that show finished, a motion picture company failed to take up its option on him for any more work.

Now O'Dell, his family here says, is among the 16 men and girls who refuse to quit, although some of them are nearly destitute.

Friends here report, however, that O'Dell has written to say that his prospects are good, and that he likes Hollywood very much. A movie career has been one of his dreams for a long time, O'Dell said here when he heard that he had won a chance to "break in." He is a graduate of Schenley High School and attended Carnegie Tech as a dramatic student for a year.

St. Paul Now Goat In Tangle Over Liquor Bans

ST. PAUL, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Minneapolis is having quite a laugh at St. Paul's expense.

For a long time, the citizens of St. Paul have snickered at "patrol limits" of its sister city across the river, outside of which no liquor can be sold.

Now the tables have been turned and the satisfaction that has been St. Paul's in not having to worry about such things has been rudely shattered by complications arising from discovery of legislation passed in 1885.

Under existing statutes, licenses cannot be issued to establishments in certain districts acquired by grants. These districts at present comprise approximately one-sixth of the city.

Youths Should Be Allowed To Have Company

How many "rights" have your children in the home?

Is it "their" home at all?

Are they free to express their own natures, invite their own friends to this house which you and Dad have built or bought?

Or is it still "your" property?

And do you make them feel like intruding strangers if they make a personal request which doesn't suit your comfort or prejudice?

Harsh questions? Not too harsh for many a parent—and high time they were asked.

Dear Miss Robinson—

My mother, for instance, couldn't be more modern when it comes to dress, style of hair, manicured finger nails and bright wisecracks. But when it comes to me, she is living way back in the past.

She goes out by herself, and comes in any hour she pleases. But when it comes to me, things are different. I am no baby. I am 17, a senior at high school, and I'm full of pep and interested in athletics. I am liked by boys, as well as girls, and called a good sport.

I meet many nice kids at school, and I would like to have them for friends and have them over to my house to meet the folks, and maybe play cards or dance. But every time I suggest it to my mother, the answer is "no."

We know how to conduct ourselves properly. I want her to meet my friends and know them, but she won't do it. I don't dare bring them home with me, or invite any of them over for an evening of fun. We have a nice home. There is nothing in it to be ashamed of.

OVERRULED BY MOTHER

Dad is different. He wants me to bring my friends home instead of making dates for "out on the corner." He knows that people start to talk when they see a girl meet her friends on the corner. But the "Big Boss" overrules both him and me if there is anything said about bringing them here.

And she won't let me go anywhere. No school dances, no parties, no nothing. That is my life.

Why do I have to be treated like this? You'd think she had example enough from my older sisters. Both were held down that way—and when they were 18 they ran away and got married, and both marriages were flops.

She was never treated that way when she was a girl. She went out and had friends home, and when she was 18 she got married herself.

I don't want to run around all the time, or have my friends over during the week. That would interfere with my homework. But what is wrong with having them here Friday evening, Saturday or Sunday? Or with going out sometimes on those nights?

I am sick and weary of it all. And I think a lot of youngsters get in wrong because they can't bring their friends home.

PAL.

NEED COMPANY

If it is, what kind of a break do you think you're giving the youngsters?

"Having company" is as natural to young folks as sunshine is to spring. They need company, if they're ever going to be able to find their places in the world. They need to learn how to meet people and get along with them.

Are you letting your youngsters learn that lesson inside the safe haven of their own friendly home?

Or are you forcing them to learn it—as they will, make no mistake about that—on street corners? In speakeasies? Or on forbidden dance floors?

Think it over! Maybe a gang of high school kids do mess up the house—but is that any reason why you should mess up their lives?

Social, Not Business, Contact Breeds Romance, Fay King Finds

By FAY KING

Business girls are as attractive as actresses, but 10 actresses make brilliant marriages to every one business girl who does.

In the business world girls meet many rich and eligible men every day, but alas! Romance does not flourish there in reality, as it does in fiction.

Few men like to mix romance with business. The prettiest girl becomes only her part of the office routine when his mind is concentrated upon making money.

It is only after office hours that the successful business man has an eye for charming femininity—wondering whether or not his attentions will be welcomed.

A girl can make a more romantic impression in five minutes of social contact than in five years of business association.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Lillian Hunt Mysterious Bottle.

I must have imagined that Katherine's eyes were evasive when I spoke of Baby Faith. That was the conviction that came to me as she countered my query with another.

"Where do you get that stuff—I can't leave her?" she asked scornfully, but in the same low tone I had used. "She's perfectly all right, sleeping like a little soldier. I'm at your service for any kind of work, gumshoe or otherwise."

"Then I want you to stand out here where you can command a view of both ends of the hall," I told her hurriedly. "Lillian and I will be in the bathroom here, with the door ajar so we can hear you. If Miss Avis Arlen comes into view, or you hear anything of her, cough three times loudly."

"I get you Stevenson," she said with a grin.

"I'll tell you all about it as soon as I can get my breath," I told her, and then I dashed back to Lillian and we entered the bathroom, leaving the door ajar.

"I'm probably crazy," I told Lillian, and she nodded with a gamin grin.

"That point being established, go on," she said.

LOOK FOR BOTTLE

"When Avis started dressing," I began, "she asked us all to go out of the room, saying it made her nervous to have anybody watch her prink. I told her I would stay outside if she needed anything, but she entreated me prettily to go downstairs. Instead, I went—around the corner, and a minute later Avis came out and got as far as the door of your room when I hailed her, as if I were unsuspecting. She said she had forgotten where the bathroom was.

"I indicated this one, and she came in here. She was carrying a bottle, and she hurriedly thrust it into the folds of her kimono when I spoke to her. When she came out again I pretended to be reading and not to notice her, but she had no bottle with her, I am sure. Ergo—"

"Ergo," Lillian said, going to the other side of the room, "you take that side and I'll take this, and we'll eliminate."

But when we had gone over every inch of space in the room, including a search of the soiled towels in the hamper, we found ourselves without a single trace of the bottle I was sure Avis had hidden in the room.

"Perhaps she emptied its contents and threw the bottle out of the window, hoping to retrieve it later," I suggested.

"Not she," Lillian said decidedly. "Too foxy by far—and too determined. If she had any plan for that bottle and its contents, depend upon it, she hasn't yet given it up. How about outside the window?"

"We can try it," I said. "Look!" I added excitedly, "the screening in this corner has been forced away."

FIND A CLUE

"That's the answer, no doubt," she said. "It's probably outside on the ledge. Your hand's smaller than mine; you try it But be careful you don't knock it off."

I put my hand gingerly through the aperture, felt around, then drew it back, ruefully shaking my head.

"No good," I said. "She undoubtedly tried that scheme, but the ledge she could reach was too narrow, and try as I might, I couldn't reach the broader shelf through that hole."

"Well! If you couldn't, she couldn't," Lillian said vindictively. "Her hand is like a ham. But what's that on your sleeve?".

She reached out her hand and took a tiny piece of torn fabric from my sleeve. I recognized it instantly—a raveling from the kimono Avis Arlen had worn!"

"That makes it unanimous," Lillian said. "She tried to hide the thing outdoors, then she found some other place. Let's sit down and go into the silence for a minute until we get it."

She sat down, put her elbows on her knees and cupped her chin in her hands, in the attitude I know so well. Two minutes later she raised her face to mine with eyes sparkling.

"I'll bet I have it!" she said triumphantly.

Hints for the Household

A good soapy lather in the washing up water will give a sparkle to glass and silver. Many housewives advocate pure, clean water for the washing of glasses; but perhaps they have not tried the soapy way, which is better. Then cleaning of silver is saved by the use of very soapy washing up water, and soft soap is the best to use for the purpose.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

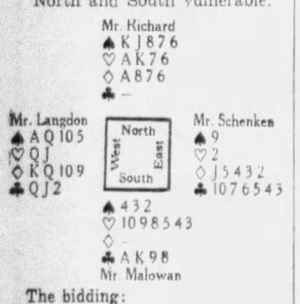
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Expert Overbidding

One of the things which distinguishes the expert from the average player at the Bridge table is the fact that the expert more often knows when and how to overbid. In cases, for instance, where his partner has opened the bidding and he holds a hand without honor-tricks but with some distributional values, he will take such action over an adverse Takeout Double as to make it as difficult as possible for his opponents to reach a correct contract and perhaps even force them to undertake a contract that cannot be made.

In a recent rubber game in the experts' room at a bridge club in New York, Mr. Howard Schenken, who is recognized as one of the world's ranking Bridge players, gave proof that this recognition of him was well deserved by the manner in which he sought to foil the game and possible Slam aspirations of his vulnerable opponents. The hand was:

West, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	Double	5 ◇	5 ♡
Pass	6 ♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

North's Double, based upon four honor-tricks and the fact that he was prepared for either a heart or spade response, was very sound, and Mr. Schenken, realizing that this was probably true, took definite and prompt measures to avert, if possible, the exchange of information between North and South. He reasoned that his partner's bid was probably sound as Mr. Langdon is not the type of player to make an Opening psychic bid. Hence the honor strength of the hand must be fairly well bunched in the West and North hands and, in consequence, Mr. Malowan (South) might find it difficult to find a bid over a game contract in diamonds. That this bid proved unavailing does not in any way detract from its worth. Mr. Malowan's bid of five hearts, in view of his honor strength in clubs, was fully justified, and Mr. Richard's bid of six hearts was equally sound.

While the attempt of Mr. Schenken to shut out the exchange of information had prevented the use of ordinary Approach methods, which probably could have demonstrated the makability of the Slam, Mr. Richard, through his ability to draw correct inferences from his partner's bid—and incidentally from the attempted shut-out—decided that a contract of six could be made, and the cards disclosed that Mr. Richard was right.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Chronic Cough Doesn't Always Mean Bronchitis.

Recently I pointed out to you the significance of a chronic cough. As I told you, a long continued cough may be a symptom of chronic bronchitis, or some other disturbance of the lung. Today, I want to tell you about another condition that is characterized by a persistent and annoying cough. The affliction I refer to is not bronchitis, but it is given by the doctors a long name, "bronchiectasis."

Dr. Copeland

Bronchiectasis is often confused with bronchitis. In both afflictions there is a persistent cough. In bronchiectasis the cough is more spasmodic and the sufferer brings up large quantities of a thick, foul material. As with bronchitis, pain is usually absent and the only discomfort is the never ending coughing.

Bronchiectasis, as its name implies, is a stretching of the bronchial tubes. The tubes become dilated as a result of increased pressure within them and a weakness of their walls. The disease is much more common than you might suspect. It is especially common among workers who are exposed to irritating vapors and dusts. Prolonged exposure to certain irritating dusts leads to chronic irritation, inflammation and ultimately to weakness of the walls of the bronchial tubes. Though bronchiectasis is more frequently met in adults, it may occur at any age. It may be found in children and young adults. In such cases it is usually traced to repeated attacks of colds, to undernourishment or to some severe ailment of childhood.

It is interesting to learn that in adults the disease may be characterized by "clubbing" of the fingers. The fingers become broad and spade-like in shape. In other cases the hands and feet become markedly enlarged. These signs, plus the typical cough, should arouse suspicion that the trouble is bronchiectasis.

The disease is not easily recognized. On this account it is sometimes neglected for years. Fortunately, the diagnosis can be confirmed by an X-ray examination of the lungs, which shows the stretched and diseased bronchial tubes.

As I said, persistent and severe cases of bronchitis are often confused with bronchiectasis. But it should always be borne in mind that if bronchitis is not given the proper attention it may lead to bronchiectasis. Neglect of either ailment results in a serious handicap to normal health and growth. When permitted to go on for years either disease is more difficult to overcome and often times cure is impossible.

Cure can only be expected when the necessary precautions are taken. All irritating dusts and vapors must be avoided. Change of occupation and climate may be essential. In all cases, it is important to remove all localized points of infection, such as diseased teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses and adenoids.

The general health must be improved and the necessary steps taken to build up resistance of the body against colds and other infections of the breathing apparatus. An abundance of fresh air, sunlight, hours of sleep and rest, as well as nourishing food, must not be overlooked in the care of this annoying affliction.

Answers to Health Queries

T. G. L. Q.—I am 17 years old and weigh between 126 and 128 pounds. Is this correct?

A.—Your correct weight depends on your height as well as your age.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Grooms and Showers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—A shower is going to be given in honor of a bride-to-be. Is it proper for the groom-to-be to be present at the shower?

2—Is it proper for the sister of the room to have a shower for the bride-to-be? M.

1—If the party is a mixed party, women and men, the groom-to-be is invited. But if the shower is for girl and women friends of the bride-to-be, the groom-to-be is not present.

2—Although there are definite rules about the giving of showers, who gives them and so forth, there is a very definite feeling that showers given by close relatives of the bride-to-be or of the groom-to-be smacks too much of a too definitely planned "promotion." This seems to true nowadays, when budgets are not so ample as in days of yore, and when they are sadly strained by the giving of so many showers, so many pre-wedding occasions that demand or seem to demand gifts, and all leading up to the important wedding gift. Balancing this budget takes a lot of "brain trust!"

RECIPE MAKES DELICACY OF SPINACH

Food likes and dislikes are often like many other habits, Prudence Penny believes . . . acquired because of another's tastes. When Jimmy is small he hears on all sides that children never like spinach and, consequently, he goes through life insisting he can't bear the stuff, while never even giving it a fair try.

Where people have acquired such dislikes it is often necessary to overcome them with a little ingenious preparation. Take spinach, itself. Prepare it in a different manner, such as the one suggested by Mrs. James Sendall today, and servie it without any coaxing comment. Do the same with other dishes the members of the family dislike and you'll find them all confessing that after all maybe they were wrong.

Send in your favorite ways of preparing various foods to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. One award of $5 and 10 of $1 are made daily to the best recipes received. No recipes will be returned to the senders.

SNOWBALL WREATH — PATTERN 579

Large Block Makes Lovely Quilt

It is easy to understand why Snowball Wreath is so popular. The wreath, lovely in the single block, makes a handsome pattern as it is repeated in the quilt. The largeness of the block also appeals to the quiltmaker, for it means that the work will go along more quickly. The two colors of material in the snowballs, with a third material in the leaves, make a colorful block on a white background.

Pattern 579 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

HELD AS BANDIT CAR DRIVER

George Peppler, 30, of 2813 Hazelton avenue, was held in North Side Police Station today pending further investigation of his alleged confession in which he told how two bandits, under threat of death, had forced him to drive them on holdup trips.

Arrested Sunday night as the driver of the machine in which two bandits escaped after robbing the Republic Restaurant, 206 East Ohio street, of $222, Peppler confessed yesterday he was the driver of the holdup car, according to police. Peppler was traced through the license number of the car which James C. Vellis, proprietor of the restaurant, noted as it sped away.

The two gunmen had forced him to act as their chauffeur by constantly threatening him with death, police said Peppler told them. He said they forced him to drive them on 40 trips. Peppler maintained he did not know what the bandits were doing on most of the trips, saying he waited for them when they left and drove them away when they returned, police reported.

U. S. FIGHTS NEW VOTE TRIALS

Arguments on motions for new trials for the 15 members of election boards in the Third and Fourth wards, and two constables, convicted during the November term of Federal Court on election fraud charges, involving ballots cast for candidates for federal offices, will be made Monday before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, who presided at the trials.

In five trials juries returned convictions. Another resulted in a jury disagreement, and will be retried, it was said. Motions for new trials will be opposed by Attorney Earl F. Reed, special government prosecutor, and James I. Marsh, first assistant United States attorney, who represented the government in prosecution of the cases.

Trials in other cases will be held at the special session of court, which convenes February 5, for four weeks. No tentative dates have yet been set for the trials.

DETROIT PROBE CALLS BANKER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The Senate committee investigating the Detroit bank collapse today inquired into the annual report to stockholders in 1932 and called for Ernest Kanzler, former chairman of the board of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., to tell about it.

Kanzler, brother-in-law of Mrs. Edsel Ford, was called to elucidate testimony of Robert O. Lord, who was president of the group, that there was no report except a verbal one.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, introduced an exhibit tending to show that the minutes of a directors' meeting on January 24, 1933, said annual reports were ordered sent to stockholders.

Lord said he recalled such a meeting and that Kanzler presided, but that the latter only read from notes.

Even though the season—beginning in the fall and ending a day or so after New Years—is over, we're not going to be thrust in a dull, eventless life. Proof—today I have news of two notably interesting events, one for late this month and one next month.

That of next month will be a wedding, that of attractive black-haired Catherine Suydam, daughter of the Moses B. Suydams, and James P. McCutcheon, son of Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, whose engagement was announced recently.

Catherine has named February 7 as the date for her marriage, to take place in the Suydam home. It's to be a small wedding.

Warm Springs Benefit On Roosevelt Birthday

Late this month—January 30 is the date—there'll be another big benefit ball, to be given in the William Penn for the benefit of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, started by President Roosevelt. And the day of the ball is President Roosevelt's birthday. And the ball will surely be a suitable birthday celebration in his honor.

There'll be a meeting of women to form a committee tomorrow afternoon in the William Penn. And Mrs. William Christopher Robinson is expected to head the committee; J. C. Chaplin will head the men's group.

Debs Get Much-Needed Rest as Whirl Ends

A lethargy, profound while it lasts, the lethargy of exhaustion, has fallen upon the debutante set. This morning the debs can sleep as late as they wish—there'll be no luncheon or tea-dance to attend today.

The deb season of 1933 is over. Alice Ladley's debut dance last night in the Twentieth Century Club—the E. J. Ladleys were the hosts—was the final entertainment of the gayest season for quite a few years.

Debutantes After Rest To Take Serious Roles

After a day or so of catching up on a bit of the lost sleep, the debs will start playing their serious role in the social realm. Many will go in for volunteer work at the various hospitals, many will help at various benefits, and still others will do a bit of studying—in painting, drawing or music. And a few will probably bethink themselves of a fling at a career, or preparation for one.

Their elders will have much the same pre-occupations, except that they have become leaders in the philanthropic work.

Debs will meet again "en masse" Sunday afternoon when Mary Rolfe Harnies, daughter of the C. M. Harnieses, of Fair Oaks street, will give a cocktail party in her home for deb Maria Patton Wilson.

More of Smart Set To Trek South This Year

Even though prosperity is surely returning to us once more, not so many of the smart set will trek to Florida as did in the boom days. More will go southward this season, though, than last, when Pittsburgh society became a 98 per cent stay-at-home group.

This is the season of the year when music lovers take a renewed interest in musical affairs, and we may anticipate a series of Pittsburgh supported and arranged musical events in addition to the regular concert series.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Some of Pittsburgh's young men, seeing the women folks doing so much knitting nowadays, have become curious enough about just how this knitting is done to learn how!

One of these is John R. Bowman, son of Chancellor and Mrs. John Gabbert Bowman. Another achievement of young Mr. Bowman—he understands Einstein's work!

Even though Santa Claus on his recent visit was generous with dolls and toys, little Martha Lockhart Reed finds a dust cloth more fun. She's the tiny daughter of the Henry Mason Reeds, of the King Edward Apartments.

Ever so many folks are better known by their second names than their first—Caroline Fredericka Holdship is always called Fredericka; and Ida Virginia Evans, Virginia Evans.

When he was a little boy, there was a radio bit about Pete Green he was ever so fond of. His father started calling him Pete, and he's been Pete ever since.

Through the Spyglass

VIEWING THE NEW

To find out the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column . . . CALL GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or . . . send a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply.

If you see a sheeted figure flapping along down the street one of these days . . . don't begin to believe in ghosts! It will probably be merely us . . . returning from a pilgrimage to the department where sheets are now abounding for such laughabl sums as 85c (size 63x99).

For this is the era of the Great "White" Way—for sheets and other items of this kind. This special we mention here is composed of sheets for clearance (amid the regular sale sheets and sale prices) and is outstanding 'mongst all other outstanding items. Other sizes included—63x108—89c . . . 63x99—85c . . . and 72x108—92c! And this is SOMETHING!

* * *

And here is a nutty story! About the big almost-half-pound box of freshly salted cashews which a shop is offering for 12c, TOMORROW ONLY! Talk about excitement and droves of people lining up the whole length of the block! The last time there was a special like this we were all but knocked flat in passing by, and no wonder. For it isn't every day that you get something like this (of course the cashews are not whole meats . .. but what of it!)

* * *

Bango! Duck your heads and start running TOWARD the sound of the firing. For it's the smart cannon-ball salts and peppers which are lined up with a bing-bang-boom and the lowered price tags of 69c (which used to be $1). Plated silver.

* * *

Thirteen is the lucky number! Thirteen oils which have been distilled for thirteen days, and are now to be found in a marvelous cream which is especially for dry skins (of which there are so many at this time of the year) . . . and which also makes your powder base!

Where did we ever come across such a marvel? Just ask us! For it sounds like the "Open Sesame" to the original Arabian Nights for our complexions from now on! $1.75 for a large jar (which lasts and lasts!)

* * *

But we wouldn't be ourselves if we didn't manage to get a word in somewhere about now in regards to undies. Here they are—

Handmade slips and gowns which are $3.50 and $3.95 all the time (and can't be bought to sell for less anymore, we hear!) are going to the first bidders at $2.95! And panties for $1.95! And all these being done up with wistful bits of lace or finished in tailored manner for the "common-sense" girl with no frills! Pink and tea-rose . . . sizes 15-16-17.

* * *

Be sure, when putting your finger into the jam, that the jam is in one of these smart new Swedish chrome dishes which once strutted about at $1 and now are tottering 'round at 69c! For they have taken the chrome-minded world by storm, and their present low price is nothing short of miraculous! Complete with a green glass jam dish fitted inside the chrome plate and cover. (Good bridge prize, by the way).

Capital Social Season Opens Month Late

By MAY BAINBRIDGE
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON. — The lame duck amendment, that kept Senators and Congressmen and other social lions in their home towns over Christmas, put the Washington "season" a month behind schedule, and the social activities usually launched early in December are only now getting under way.

With the Roosevelts in the White House, there is a new deal for social Washington, a general relaxing of the official formality of former years and a new atmosphere of genuine hospitality.

Gone are the familiar social leaders of Republican administrations, and there is a new lineup of official society. With the rapid creation of new alphabetical administrations, the circle of official hostesses has rapidly widened, and the capital is full of AAA, PWA and XYZ wives come to supplement the wives of cabinet members in the official family. The result is there is a marked increase in small, informal entertaining and a falling off in big official functions.

Cabinet wives will hold their first "at-homes" Wednesday, in honor of the opening of Congress, but in general these once sacred occasions have been omitted by the ladies of the new regime. One reason is that several cabinet wives, like Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, are more interested in "doing things" than in being leaders of society, and have not yet even established permanent residence in Washington.

Notables Leave, Join Paris Colony

By BARONESS ELIZABETH WRANGLE
Universal Service Special Cable.

PARIS.—The disappearance from Paris society circles of the Marchesa Casati and the reappearance hereabouts of Princess Galitzine, formerly Aimee Crocker, of San Francisco, furnished the international colony with its chief interest last week.

Society folk hope the Marchesa's absence is only temporary. They know her as the woman with a single taste in household pets, a taste that has occasionally caused her friends to be bitten by scarves and muffs that turned out to be snakes and lion cubs.

But there have been other arrivals and departures.

Louise van Alen Mdivani, first wife of Barbara Hutton's Prince Mdivani, stopped off a day before joining her former sister-in-law, Rousee Mdivani Sert, in Spain, where the Republic has honored her husband, Jose Maria Sert, the mural painter, by putting his face on a stamp.

Arrived to stay permanently is Prince Antoine Bibesco, husband of the former Elizabeth Asquith. He gave up diplomacy rather than be Rumanian Minister to Lisbon, after serving similarly in Washington.

Lastly, Andre Dubonnet, brother-in-law of the former Jean Nash, and recently seen often with the Countess Vallambrosa, who is well known to New Yorkers as Ruth Goldbeck, is en route to New York to see how thirsty Americans are.

Barbara Stevenson Cotillion Guest In Gotham

The cotillion, in vogue the latter part of the Nineteenth and the beginning of the Twentieth Century, had a revival in New York this week. In Baltimore and other cities of the south, the cotillion has become a traditional event. The Pittsburgh Club used to hold cotillions but they have been dropped during the past few years.

Barbara, who went to school here three or four years ago, with a group of Pittsburgh's 1933 debs, now lives with her family in New Canaan, Conn. She was presented to New York society in December.

Tuesday Musical Club To Hear Mark Haight In Wagner Lecture

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Tuesday Musical Club members are anticipating with unusual pleasure their program of next week, for it is to be something quite new in the annals of the club. Mark Haight, who has pleased Twentieth Century Clubs with his lectures for two seasons, will appear in Memorial Hall Tuesday to give the Musical Club's artist program, lecturing on "The Romance of Wagner's Opera Country."

His talk will be illustrated with piano numbers by George Ryall. Mr. Haight has brought together an extraordinary group of stereopticon and motion pictures, which takes his audience in connected manner through the counttry of Tannhauser, Tristan and Isolde, the Ring, Die Meistersinger, Lohengrin and Parsifal, with the piano score synchronized for each opera.

Mr. Haight will be guest of honor at a dinner which Mrs. M. W. St. John will give in her Kittanning Pike home Monday night and at a luncheon in the Hotel Schenley on Tuesday when Mrs. David V. Murdoch, president of the club, will be hostess.

At the usual club tea which will follow the recital one of the guests will be John Tasker Howard, who has written a life of Stephen Collins Foster in conjunction with Josiah V. Lilly, whom the club entertained last year.

Woman's Status Held Improved During 1933

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Despite the fact that women in Germany have been sent back to their cookstoves, the status of women throughout the world improved during 1933, in the opinion of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, veteran suffrage leader who is now active in the cause of peace.

Women now vote in more than 40 countries, she said, in this last year South America having been added to the continents where at least some women go to the polls. In the United States, the close of 1933 sees more women in high position than ever before.

Mrs. Catt refused to grow excited, however, over the fact that the United States now has its first woman cabinet member, its first woman ambassador, and its first woman director of the mint. These positions, she said, were rewards for what women in general, and those women in particular, had already accomplished.

Asked to name the women who had achieved the most during 1933, she named three women in as many continents.

First of all, Mrs. Roosevelt, who has done more to aid her husband in his administration than any other "first lady," and who has done very much toward cultivating a better morale in this country. Mrs. Roosevelt has set a wholly new example of what a President's wife can do, Mrs. Catt stated.

Lady Astor, who has been in Parliament longer than any other woman and has carried on very liberally, was named second, and the third was Miss Bertha Lutz, distinguished Brazilian scientist, who has been an active member of the constitutional convention.

Mrs. Catt, who is honorary chairman of the national committee on the cause and cure of w was gratified that equal suffrage had been written into the new constitution of Brazil during 1933, and that women were given the vote in certain provinces of Argentina. In Turkey, she pointed out, women not only gained suffrage but were appointed to high government office. Mohammedan women generally took off their veils—a symbol of coming out of the harem into the world.

Spanish women went to the polls for the first time on November 19. In China, women played an increasingly active part in national affairs.

Chairmen Named For Campaign Of Y.W.C.A.

Miss Mabel Lindsay Gillespie, general chairman of the 1934 budget fund campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association, has announced the chairmen of divisions in the soliciting organization. Workers will begin the 10-day active period of the appeal on January 18.

The campaign leaders are Mrs. John R. McCune, chairman, and Miss Martha A. Jamison, vice chairman, initial gifts committee; Mrs. W. J. Gilmore, chairman, Mrs. Edwin P. Buchanan, vice chairman, women's teams; Mrs. Thomas Clarke and Miss Elizabeth Yuiska, chairmen, business and professional women's teams; Miss Annie D. Campbell, chairman of lists; Mrs. Stewart F. Goodwin, publicity; Mrs. C. H. E. Succop, church co-operation; Mrs. Howard B. Smith, speakers, and Mrs. E. M. Love, hospitality. Mrs. Albert P. Burchfield and Miss Katherine MacCloskey are general vice chairmen.

The appeal objective will be $107,682, which, Miss Gillespie points out, represents the difference between the Y. W. C. A.'s income from all other sources and the estimated cost of its service during 1934. A much higher than normal percentage of its service is free work, she says.

SPRING HATS ARE A TRAVELOGUE

By PRUNELLA WOOD

INTERNATIONAL complications have set in all over the millinery business, with Mexican fabrics and colors going into Scotch models, sombreros arriving with Paris labels, and Russian lids hailing from Manhattan, though made of Oriental paper straw!

It is quite a melee, so far, with the flower-trimmed garden hats, a la jolly old England, just around the sartorial corner. "Where did you get that hat?" can be answered in scores of tongues, including the Scandinavian. (Sure, we have knitted ski hats from the North Cape.)

* * *

THE CHEERIEST news on hats for these mid-winter days, however, is the great determination of designers here and there to put flowers on the spring models. Valley lilies and daisies will be here in time to titivate the annual rush for black and white frocks, 'long about March. And old-fashioned cabbage roses such as we have been nestling at our throats lately have already sprung onto new hats, and very lovely they look after their long rest.

* * *

The off-the-face hat will linger on, whether it be baby bonnet, Russian, or Sou'wester. Lots of the later models have a slanting line across the brows, and it is a good thing for some of the girls, who really don't look their best when wearing a chapeau set in a perfectly horizontal line.

The tricorne is in again, trimmed with crisp little wheels of grosgrain, as ever was, and there are lots of high crowned hats with ruches of grosgrain tucked in their crown creases in coxcomb effect.

* * *

IT IS A GOOD THING to buy a new hat every little while, just for the sake of morale. You can get a frock, suit, or coat to go with it if it turns out to be a lucky number and if it stales quickly, it was a tonic while it lasted, anyway.

APPRECIATION VOICED BY MRS. RAUH

By MRS. ENOCH RAUH

As director of the Department of Public Welfare of the city of Pittsburgh under three successive mayors, my regime officially terminated January 1, 1934. I could not leave my office in which I have spent 12 of the happiest years of my life without endeavoring to express my full sense of gratitude to those who have helped make my administration a labor of love.

Without the original appointment by Mayor William A. Magee in 1922, and the subsequent two reappointments of Mayors Charles H. Kline and John S. Herron, I could never have been given the opportunity to contribute my service, however humble, toward the amelioration of the problems of the afflicted. These men were pioneers not only in Pittsburgh, but nationally, in the naming of a woman to a cabinet position. My official association with these mayors shall be a cherished memory.

GRATEFUL TO COUNCIL

Members of City Council have repeatedly proved their loyalty and unflagging interest in the accomplishments of the Department of Public Welfare. No proposal did I ever offer during my respective terms in office that did not command the thoughtful attention and the sympathetic support of these city fathers.

I take this opportunity to record my deep gratitude to them for their understanding spirit. Nor am I unmindful of the assistance rendered me and my department by public officials and co-workers in all other departments of the city and county governments.

I could never have pursued my ramified activities without the faithful, untiring and efficient helpfulness of my own organization in the city offices, at Mayview and throughout the various districts of our municipality. It would be difficult to express adequately my profound appreciation of the fidelity to duty on the part of those who have surrounded me in the various bureaus of my department. With over 400 individuals associated with me, it is not possible to mention each by name. But it was their earnest support which enabled me to carry on. Throughout my remaining days I shall remember their fine zeal and genuine devotion.

AGENCIES CO-OPERATE

The seeds of my work were planted in the rich soil of co-operation that was accorded me by the private social agencies of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County and the State of Pennsylvania. Such collaboration of effort permitted my department at all times to render a complete and well-ordered public service to the needy and mentally afflicted.

Among the real joys in my daily activity were the stimulating conferences with "the boys," representing the Pittsburgh newspapers and periodicals. These editorial writers and reporters were always quick to sense the constructive labors of our philanthropic endeavor which was made manifest through their helpful news reports and comments.

I also desire to thank publicly Gov. Gifford Pinchot, ex-Gov. John S. Fisher and the State Welfare Department for their intelligent co-operation during my incumbency.

As I look into the retrospect of these 12 years, my entire work would have been impossible of achievement without the uniform approval and inspiration of the public at large. The constant approbation that the people of Pittsburgh generally accorded me and the confidence which they reposed in me have been a source of unlimited happiness and satisfaction.

To my successor I extend Godspeed, my heartiest well wishes for a successful administration and my assurance of any assistance I can render toward that end.

Child Slayer

MARY KAVALA

GIRL CHANGES DEATH STORY

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 4. — (AP.) — Investigation of the slaying of Josephine Waropay, 8, was ordered reopened by Judge George W. Smyth, of Children's Court, after Mary Kavala, 12, quoted by police as confessing the crime, said instead that a man committed the slaying.

The Kavala child had confessed she killed her playmate "because she knew too much and talked too much," said District Attorney Frank H. Coyne.

When she appeared in court her counsel said she had repudiated the confession and had given him the names of a dozen persons who could corroborate her new version.

Radio Editors Questioned On Most Popular Stars

By AIRCASTER

Once a year the lads who write about radio have a right to attach inordinate importance to themselves

It becomes an event, then, when on the 365tth day they are asked for opinions.

Today, an eastern confrere sends out a questionnaire, inviting me among others to cite the best masculine and feminine vocalists, the best dance bands; my favorite comedian and other what-nots.

* * *

EASY ACES

The unfortunate part of the questionnaire is that it applies to network programs, only. So I'm obliged to pass up a wealth of local talent such as Howard Price, Tommy Riggs and the So-and-Sos.

It was a simple task to pick Eddie Duchin, Rolfe and Lombardo as choice purveyors of musical footease, and Bing Crosby as top ballad-man; Kate Smith, La Niesen and Ruth Etting as criers of blues.

In fact, I even expressed, timidly, an opinion on symphonic music and lamented the almost complete absence of good drama. (I usually do!)

It began to look as if there were no difficult queries in the questionnaire.

* * *

KITCHEN BOUQUET

But a couple of tough ones cropped up.

"What program offers the most assistance to women in their household tasks?" asked my inquisitive colleague.

Well, on sober thought I could do no better than suggest Stoopnagle and Budd. Who could forget their noiseless electric bell; their spigotless bathtub and other boons to housekeeping?

But I didn't. I eased in pretty Joe (Josephine) Gibson's name who tell 'em 57 ways to a man's heart.

* * *

NOT ENOUGH

"Is there any type of program now neglected? My colleague asked.

The trouble with that one is, there are 210,000 answers.

The question should have been worded, "What type of program now on the air should be abandoned?"

"What do you really hate to miss?" is the easiest of all.

The answer is—The kid programs, of course—"Skippy," "The Singing Lady," etc. My day would be completely ruined without them.

* * *

NEW STAR

And finally comes this: "Who is radio's outstanding new star of the past year;—someone who rose from comparative obscurity during 1933?"

It took a lot of head scratching to fill in the dotted line on that one. (Try it yourself.) And then it suddenly occurred to me: "President Roosevelt."

* * *

Frank Hipps (no relation to Mae West), who recently taught a girl to speak after five years' silence (Sun-Telegraph, Dec. 20), gives a talk on "Personalities and Habits" over KDKA this afternoon.

ONIONS & HULAS

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Here we are just getting started into winter and a promise of spring has been reported in Greentree. Mrs. F. N. H. saw two red birds cavorting amidst a flock of black ones on the lawn in front of her home.

If you people want to take advantage of your neighbors' Christmas displays, do so at once. Many trees are already down and friends have written that those remaining are beginning to show signs of wear and tear. Let me recommend that Overbrook globe trotters visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swick, 2151 Fairland street. They have a marvelous display and the parents and children of the neighborhood are welcome to view it.

Butlerites—At present certain changes are being made in the transmitting apparatus at WCAE. When the new transmitter gets into operation at its new location you'll forget any little annoyance now, because you'll be so tickled at the improved reception then.

H. E. Muchmore—Your letter has not been consigned to the wastebasket. No letters are. On the contrary, serious consideration is being given to it.

Miss S. M. Wrobel—Whether European parents are naturalizer or not, children born in this country are American citizens.

THE RIGHT AND WRONG ABOUT COLDS!

Facts It Will Pay Every Person to Know!

A "COMMON COLD" sounds like a trivial thing, but the "Common Cold" yearly, directly or indirectly, takes more lives and causes more illness and—more expense—than any other single ailment to which human flesh is heir.

The sad part of it is that much of the misery caused by colds is due to carelessness or ignorance in treating colds.

A cold, it should be borne in mind, is nothing trivial nor anything to treat lightly.

A cold, as your doctor will tell you, is an internal infection, resulting from a germ attack. In other words, a cold, regardless of the locality of the symptoms, is something lodged within the system.

Everything but the Right Thing!

The failure of many people to recognize the internal or inward character of a cold results in much mistreatment of colds. More often than not, people do everything but the right thing to a cold.

They rub pungent greases on their chests; they inhale stinging vapors; they swallow all kinds of preparations which, for seven months of the year, are good for everything but colds and which suddenly become "good also for colds" when cold weather sets in.

Many of these methods are good as far as they go—but the trouble is, they don't go far enough! They don't get at a cold from the inside which a cold, an internal infection, requires. The great danger is that, putting too much confidence in these methods, a cold may progress to the point where it becomes a matter for heroic measures.

Recognizing the apparent nature of the "Common Cold", it becomes obvious that a cold calls for a remedy that is expressly a cold remedy and one that is internal in treatment.

Such a remedy is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine!

It is expressly a cold remedy and not good for a number of other things as well. It is internal treatment and it is complete in effect. In other words, it does the four things the relief of a cold calls for.

The Necessary Fourfold Effect

First of all, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels gently but effectively, the first step in dislodging a cold.

Second, it combats the cold germs and fever in the system.

Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling.

Harmless As It is Effective!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine.

Every druggist in America sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30¢ and 50¢. Good druggists—druggists who have the interests of their customers at heart—won't try to sell you a substitute for the sake of a little more profit.

Let no cold claim you as a victim! At the first sneeze or chill get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine on the job. Taken in time, it will usually expel a cold overnight—and therein lies safety!

YOUTH STAGES 'TERROR REIGN'

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A 20-year-old youth, paroled from the Huntingdon Industrial School, is under arrest charged with robbing a drug store, shooting a clerk, stealing an automobile and leading the police in an exciting chase punctuated by wild gunfire.

Wounded as a climax to an exciting hour or more last night, Edward Flynn was accused of starting his "reign of terror" by shooting Lawrence Martin, 30, a drug clerk, and escaping with $42.

As Patrolman Lewis Meyers came on the scene, he exchanged shots with the youth who jumped on the running board of Dr. James Hart's automobile and commanded the physician to drive to State street, Erie's main street.

There he ordered Dr. Hart from the car and sped away, with Dr. Hart firing at the machine and one bullet grazing Flynn's head.

THREATS RENEW TAYLOR PROBE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The unsolved murder of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, 12 years ago, was called to the attention of detectives again today in a report that a Montgomery, Ala., woman and her children had been threatened with torture and death unless she told what she knew about the case.

Mindful of the scores of barren clues developed in the film colony mystery, Chief of Detectives Joe Taylor, said:

Chief Taylor said a telegram received from Detective Chief Paul Rappord, of Montgomery, asked a search of records to ascertain whether the name of Martha Pace ever figured in the murder inquiry. The detective said he was informed a Mrs. C. W. Anderson, of Montgomery, who said her name was Martha Pace at the time of the film director's death, told of receiving written threats, signed "The Gang," but could not explain them.

LAWYER'S WIFE WINS DIVORCE

Judge W. Heber Dithrich yesterday granted Lorena H. Beatty, 33, of 6212 Penn avenue, hotel keeper, a divorce from Attorney William F. Beatty. They were married at Cumberland, W. Va., last April 7.

Mrs. Beatty testified that following the wedding, Beatty went to his home at Millvale to live and she went to her home. The only apparent reason for this, the libellant stated, was because Beatty may have desired to keep the marriage a secret.

Sodality Members Plan for Dance

Peeved at Policeman, Man Breaks Window

Peeved at a policeman, Howard Ryan, 45, of 1703 Broadway, Beechview, put his fist through a glass display case of the Dow Drug Company, Diamond and Smithfield streets, yesterday, according to testimony of the officer, Edward Wertman, in Central Police Court today. Ryan was fined $25 or 10 days in jail by Magistrate Ralph E. Smith.

McNair Unyielding in Malone Support

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor McNair adheres to the opinion that James F. Malone is a man of the highest type, efficient and courageous, and capable of serving the city as Safety Director.

Mr. Shields

He views the retention of Col. William R. Dunlap in the department of supplies as merely temporary, the change to be made when the safety department confusion clears away.

He has given every department head carte blanche in the operation of his division, and points to the appointment of Ben Marshall as superintendent of police as an earnest of this principle.

In a frank and reasoned talk yesterday afternoon Mr. McNair said he had not abandoned the hope that Mr. Malone might become safety director, despite the apparent majority of City Council prepared to vote against him. The four Democratic councilmen believe that the name of Mr. Malone will not be presented for confirmation, but from the conversation of Mr. McNair there is absolutely no evidence of an agreement of that nature.

Instead, it is apparent from the attitude of the Mayor that he will be sincerely disappointed if it is necessary to sidetrack Mr. Malone, declaring that his service would be useful to the public. So far as Mr. McNair, of Mr. has been suggested to him consi name of no man more capable the en Mr. Malone, and within the last two days, since the controversy over Mr. Malone grew heated, there have been no suggestions of new aspirants.

* * *

Dunlap Holds Over; Gets No Reappointment

The Mayor's attitude on Col. Dunlap speaks for itself. He simply holds over, and receives no reappointment. Mr. McNair feels that Col. Dunlap has efficiently conducted the duties of his office.

As to the autonomy of the department heads, there is plenty of supporting evidence in the Marshall appointment. From conversations both with the Mayor and Director Harmar Denny of the Safety Department, something like this happened:

The Mayor then asked Director Denny if there was anyone in the department he considered adequate for the superintendency. Mr. Denny said there was, and that Marshall, the assistant superintendent, was the man. So the Mayor told him to go ahead, that so long as he was head it was his department, and he could name who he wished.

There seems no question whatever about these facts, and there are other sidelights to indicate that the same policyy holds good for every department—at least so far as the Mayor is concerned. Unquestionably there will be some political considerations in the shifting of jobs. That is unescapable, but so long as it is a type of politics which does not depress efficiency there can be no great complaint.

Incidentally, the Mayor is considering filling the vacancy in the Civil Service Department caused by the retirement of Dr. F. H. Frederick. A Democrat will be named, of course, and will become chairman.

* * *

Mayor Informative and Courteous to Reporters

The City Law Department probably will request Council for an increased appropriation. City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully has a huge task in dealing with tax appeals, and both he and the Mayor feel that the present force is inadequate. It will not be necessary to make any number of additional permanent appointments, the increased legal battery being required only until the tax cases are cleared away.

As this has a bearing on the tax income of the city the increase might more than pay for itself.

As the Mayor felt yesterday, his first interest will be to get tax money into the treasury that city employes may be paid. He has intimated that he personally would appeal to delinquents to pay the obligations they rightfully owe the city.

A Mayor who puts all responsibility on subordinates, and who does not interfere with them so long as they perform capably, who does not dictate appointments they make in their bureaus, constitutes something new in public life in this community—and it is not visible in many places.

Parenthetically, the Mayor's conversation with newspapermen yesterday afternoon was as frankly courteous and considerate, as informative and enlightening, as the most captious critic could expect.

Youth Badly Hurt In Fall Into Sewer

Lysle Zimmerman, 17, of 1609 Irwin avenue, was in Presbyterian Hospital today with a possible skull fracture and brain concussion suffered, police said, in a 15-foot fall into a sewer under construction at West North avenue and Buena Vista street, late yesterday.

The sewer, a CWA job, was barricaded and how the youth fell into it was a mystery. Neither he nor his companion, Robert Bru- 16, of 1602 Brighton road, could explain how the accident occurred, police said.

Rebuked Officer Near Scene of Tragedy In New Serial

By K. S. DAIGER

CHAPTER I.

It was long past midnight.

The clock in the great church tower at Towson had struck 12, and then one, and then another one. The Paige estate, where were located the ancestral home of old Col. Paige and the little group of houses which he built for his sons, was bathed in a glow of soft moonlight. And beyond the fields and orchards, which even a hundred years ago had been suffused with this same radiance, flowed the sparkling waters of the Gunpowder River, twinkling in and out among the thousands of evergreens which had been planted to provide the city of Baltimore with its magnificent watershed.

On the state highway which led from Towson past the entrance drive of the Paige grounds there sat a motorcycle cop on his machine. His eyes rested gloomily on the glorious panorama spread out before him, but his thoughts were not busy with the beauty of the night nor with that sense of oneness with the universe which always starts where people leave off and God begins.

The officer was young Dickey Carroll, still in his early twenties, late of Cornell University, but at present connected with the Police Department of Baltimore. The preceding June he had graduated from his alma mater with honors, and, filled with a great enthusiasm and ambition, he had started upon the work which had always appealed to him since he had been a little bit of a tacker—the career of detective.

And although his father was the head of one of the largest banks in Ohio, Carroll had sniffed at the idea of any correspondence course or school for detectives and had manfully started upon the job of a common patrolman, pounding out a beat—the first and essential step toward his goal.

Undesirable Arrest

This same enthusiasm had been the cause of a lot of trouble. He was too honest, he told himself gloomily. There was the time he had arrested Joe Vincenti, notorious gangster. A warrant was out for him and Joe could have been picked up at any minute. It was Carroll who, in spite of certain hints from the department that the arrest was not quite desirable, had taken him into custody—caught him in a room on his own beat.

As it happened, Vincenti was a stool-pigeon purposely allowed to roam—but Carroll hadn't known that. Joe's unfortunate arrest had prevented the solving of a big murder mystery—the Cihlar case—and it brought Carroll nothing but a stinging rebuke from Chief Inspector Anderson.

Then there was the unfortunate affair of "Country" Carey—one of the arch conspirators in the Norris case. Mr. Norris, as you may recall (for the case was the most dramatic in Maryland criminology for many decades) was shot and killed as he left the Commonwealth Bank with the payroll of his contracting company. Carey, arrested, had been instantly released. The fact was that Carey, of course, was one of the murder brigade, but Inspector Anderson hoped that the other members of the gang, hungry, hungry for first-hand information, would communicate with "Country" and in this way the whole crowd, and not merely one or two, might be rounded up.

Another Rebuke

Carroll had prevented this. Acting on his own initiative, and directly in opposition to his own department, he had rearrested Carey and locked him up—and Hart and Socolow, arch-murderers, were permitted to make their getaway from the city.

This had brought the young policeman more than a stinging rebuke. His punishment was 30 days without pay, and a transfer from the city beat to that of a traffic cop on the outskirts of Towson.

It was upon these things that he so gloomily meditated as he watched the moon sweeping up the Dulaney Valley. Funny they wouldn't tell a fellow these things, and keep him from making mistakes. Anderson's idea that a cop obeyed without asking any questions was all right only—

In a few seconds he must start his motorcycle and begin the tiresome job of rounding up a few desultory petters, though it was now October and the nights were getting pretty chilly for parties of that sort. Carroll, whose petting days were still rather close to him, always felt a certain sympathy for the young people whom he must sternly order to move on or to be arrested for disorderly conduct.

But at this moment, he was trying to puzzle it out. A warrant was out for a yeggman—but that didn't mean that the man was to be arrested. And the "Country" Carey affair—well, that was pretty bad because the newspapers had gotten hold of it and given him a lot of publicity.

However, Anderson wasn't a bad egg by any means, and he appreciated enthusiasm and cooperation in one of his men—had told him so, in fact. In a year's time, these events would have all been forgotten and he would be on the highway to success—maybe even in the homicide squad itself, if all went well.

So he turned on his gas and started back again toward Towson, casting a wary eye on both sides of the road. At the entrance to the Paige estate he slowed down. The great mansion itself, one of the show places of Baltimore, was completely dark. Nobody there at this season of the year. John and Murray Paige's homes were dark, too—they were all in England, he believed, for the fall racing season.

A Popular Girl

But there were lights in the white house that belonged to Randolph and Sonia Paige—the little house that nestled there on one side in a hollow. A soft glow came from the hall on the first floor and Carroll could see distinctly a rose-colored lamp burning brightly in the room on

TARENTUM FIRE SWEEPS BLOCK; FIVE HURT

'Popeye' Among Five Hurt in Fighting $50,000 Blaze

A 50-year-old landmark in the heart of Tarentum's business district was in ruins today following a fire that swept an entire block, causing an estimated loss of $50,000, according to State Fire Marshal Lawrence Sillman, of Tarentum.

Five volunteer firemen, including Milton (Popeye) Black, were affected by the smoke and aided from the path of the flames by fellow firemen. Four were injured. The others, forced to leave their jobs by the smoke, were Edward Hill, 29; William Gamble, 22; John Johns, 21, and Harry Hill, 23. All are members of Eureka Hose Company No. 2. They were fighting flames in the first floor of the Autenreith Dollar Store in Fourth avenue.

POPULAR ENTERTAINER

Black's unusual ability to imitate "Popeye," a character in the Sun-Telegraph comic page, recently gained him national as well as local popularity. His services as entertainer at picnics and other community fetes is often sought.

Ray Scholl, president of the Eureka Compay; Elmer Hahns and Lester Thickey were cut on the face and hands by flying glass as they entered the building. Peter Barbus, East Deer Township volunteer fireman, was struck by a fire truck as he opened the borough fire hall doors.

The fire, of undetermined origin, started in the basement of the Oppenheimer Building, a three-story block-long brick structure in Fourth avenue. Volunteer firemen from eight communities battled the blaze as it swept through the Autenreith Dollar Store, the Tarentum Chocolate Shop, Adolph Shoe Store and the I. A. Lewis Clothing Store on the first floor of the building. The second floor was unoccupied. The third was used as a ballroom operated by Edward McFall. A dance was held in the hall last night, police said.

HUNDREDS WATCH BLAZE

Several score patrons of the Palace Theater, across the alley from the Oppenheimer building, were leaving the theater when the fire broke out. They gathered with several hundred others to watch volunteer firemen from Tarentum, New Kensington, Brackenridge, Creighton, Springdale, Harrison Township, Natrona Heights and East Deer Township battle the stubborn blaze.

The building, erected by Mose Oppenheimer, Pittsburgh clothing merchant, was a 50-year-old landmark and at the time of its erection the largest business block of its kind in Allegheny County.

Sillman said that he would make a complete investigation of the blaze today.

J. F. Autenreith, one of the partners in the Autenreith Dollar Store, estimated damage to the store and merchandise at $25,000. He based the estimate on an inventory completed yesterday.

ADDRESS JAIL BIBLE CLASS

Addresses by Judge James H. Gray, of the Court of Common Pleas, and Dr. George W. Shelton, of the Second Presbyterian Church, before 375 inmates of Allegheny County Jail last night marked a special program presented in observance of the first anniversary of the "McNeil Bible Class for Men."

Speaking in a timely vein, Judge Gray defined imprisonment as a "schooling" for future useful lives. He said:

"I would like to encourage every man here tonight to make a resolve that he will make himself worthwhile as a citizen and a friend. This is only a schooling, the whole purpose of which is to get a new start in life."

Warden John McNeil, Chaplain A. W. Stremel and the Rev. C. E. Krumbholz, superintendent of the Lutheran Inner Mission Society, also addressed the prisoners. Singing was led by one of the inmates, with Homer Ochsenhirt, Pittsburgh choral director, at the piano.

President Goes Shopping With A Large Basket

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Democrats claim they will put over gigantic Roosevelt spending program.

The grocery bill calls for six thousand million dollars. So you can divide Congress up into wholesalers and retailers.

The big store opened at noon. The first customer in the House was the President with a list of things that would dent a fireman's hat.

The Republicans ain't against prosperity. But they would like to be speed cops on Recovery road.

School Fire Forces Summer Sessions

A summer session will make up a present forced vacation due to fire in the Gilmore School, Wilkins Township, it was announced yesterday.

The vacation, to extend four or five weeks, was given 400 pupils following fire in the school two weeks ago. Officials were able to place only 38 pupils, eighth grade students, in nearby schools due to present overcrowdedness because of a fire in the district last summer.

VOTE MACHINE FUND NEEDED

Re-examination of Allegheny County's voting machines, repaired upon orders from Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, now hinges upon a mere matter of $450.

The State Secretary has ordered the County Commissioners to post $450 to guarantee expenses of a committee of three to pass upon the repairs, according to the Associated Press. It's a pre-requisite of the examination, Beamish said.

Secretary Beamish was notified recently that the alterations he had ordered had been made and the inspection might be made beginning today. Beamish said:

"I am going to continue pressure on the County Commissioners until we get some kind of usable voting machines for the spring election."

He also took steps to assure the installation of voting machines for the spring primary in every municipality where use of the machines has been approved by the voters.

Eight hundreds additional machines have been ordered for use in Philadelphia, giving the city a total of 1,500, an amount sufficient to supply 46 wards and leave an adequate reserve, Beamish said.

TECHNICALITIES AT HEARING CITED

Jurist Points Out Action of Squires, Father and Son

Fines have been remitted to 12 more alleged Blue Law violators in the Hill district by Judge Sarah M. Soffel, of County Court, who gave a technicality in the hearings of the cases as the reason for dismissing the suits at the costs of the prosecutors.

The defendants were 12 grocers, all members of the Neighborhood Grocers' Association, and the prosecutors were agents of the Business Mens' Market Association, rival Hill district organizations.

Recently Judge Soffel dismissed nine similar cases brought by the Market Association on grounds that the suits were not brought in good faith, but as means of forcing the other storekeepers to do their bidding. She characterized the action as "racket methods," asserting changed times necessitated the selling of milk and bread on Sunday.

The suits just reversed were entered before Justice of the Peace J. C. Parkhill, of Aspinwall, while the hearings were held and the $25 fines imposed by his son, Justice of the Peace Ralph N. Parkhill. The judge said she dismissed the cases because of this defect in the record. The defendants were Lena Fineberg, S. Smith, Jacob Podolsky, Mrs. Brass, Fineberg's Grocery, D. Fishman, Siegal Grocery, H. Friedman, N. Choskey, M. Percharsky and Saul H. Sigal.

SAFETY WALKS GET CWA AID

Labor for the construction of safety highway sidewalks in congested sections of Allegheny County will be provided by James L. Stuart, local CWA administrator, if the county provides plans and materials, officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today.

The projects have been approved by the County Commissioners, and the County Planning Commission has been asked to select locations and prepare specifications for the undertaking, club officials said.

Following receipt of word from Gov. Pinchot that the state has no authority and no funds for sidewalk construction, the club has asked Sidney J. Williams, CWA safety director at Washington, to assist in speeding use of CWA funds for such projects.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 4.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

That Roosevelt handled that Congress yesterday just like a mother would a fretting baby. Like any mother would have told it to hush, and be a good boy and not cry, he didn't tell 'em a single thing to do, just slipped 'em all a piece of candy (the little black Republican babies along with the white ones), and he left 'em feeling that mother had confidence in 'em.

Will Rogers

And they were all just tickled to death, rolling on the floor, with their toes in their mouth. And goo-goo-ing at each other. Yours, WILL.

War Gas Caused Vet's Death, Coroner Finds

Gas poisoning suffered during his World War service caused the death of Clifford T. Robbins, 42, of Frazer Township, whose terse unsigned will bequeaths $7,000 to his fiancee, a post mortem determined late yesterday.

Robbins died in the arms of his fiancee, Mrs. Nettie Rae, also of Frazer Township, on New Years—his wedding day-to-be. Seeming to know the end was near, only a few hours before his death, he scrawled the words:

"Everything to Nettie. Everything to Mrs. Rae."

Now, through her attorney, Emerson Hazlett, Mr. Rae seeks to have the Coroner produce the will for probate. Members of the Goepfert family, who saw him write it, would be witnesses to its authenticity, Hazlett says.

In this move she is opposed by the father, Samuel T. Robbins, 67, of Harwick, who says he will contest the will.

He says he learned only later his son's death of the $7,000 the younger man received as a bequest from an uncle Saturday.

COUNTY GIVEN AUTHORITY CHARTER

The Allegheny County Authority was chartered today and ready as a legally constituted body to conduct the county's Public Works program, for which more than 31 million dollars has been asked from the federal government.

The charter was issued yesterday by the State Department at Harrisburg, following incorporation of the authority last week by the County Commissioners and Maj. W. T. Rees, director of elections.

The Authority's articles of incorporation permit construction, operation and maintenance of bridges, tunnels, streets, highways, airports, parkways, recreation grounds, parks, swimming pools and other public improvements.

Tools, leases and rentals may be charged until the projects are self-liquidating. The self-liquidation, however, will not be for the full extent of the sum extended by the government, as 30 per cent is to be an outright grant.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern previously has said the Commissioners were willing to accompany a committee to Washington to press for the loan. The three men who are to make up the Authority have not yet been named.

The Start of a 28,000-Mile Automobile Tour

THE W. H. AND JAMES M'MILLINS SAYING THEIR FAREWELLS TO RELATIVES AS THEY LEAVE WITH THEIR ROLLING HOUSE

TOUR COUNTRY IN TRAILER

With their wives, W. H. McMillin, of 309 Onyx avenue, Mt. Oliver, and James McMillin, of Mansfield, O., started out today to retrace by automobile attached to a household-equipped trailer the trails of their boyhood days. They plan to cover 28,000 miles in their journey through the United States.

When James McMillin sold his interest in the Mansfield Structural Iron and Erecting Company, of which he was superintendent, with the intention of entering business again, Mrs. McMillin objected. She decided that their married life was "too much business" and that it was time for a vacation. She said:

"I got him to change his plans. Because when he gets into business he sticks to it like glue."

Accordingly, a new car and trailer with household equipment was bought, because, said Mrs. McMillin, "he will not eat anything but only what I cook." His brother, W. H. McMillin, is a pensioned street car operator.

BIG AIR PLANT ORDERED HERE

An order for the largest air conditioning plant ever built was received today for installation in Chicago by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

The system, which includes a Westinghouse steam jet refrigerating plant equal to 600 tons ice melting capacity a day, was designed by a Chicago engineering company for installation in the 38-floor Tribune Tower building. The system will cool and dehumify the air in hot weather and heat and humify in cold weather.

The air conditioners are to be enclosed in low cabinets located under window sills to replace the cast iron radiators which heat the building at present.

FOURTH DEGREE

By K. S. DAIGER

the second floor that he guessed must be Sunny's.

That was what they called her—Sunny Paige, partly on account of her bright affectionate disposition and partly on account of the red-gold mop of curls that nestled around her sweet little face. She was an English girl, this young wife of Ranny Paige. He had met her there at the English Derby and he had brought her home for her to become the leader of the younger society set.

Everybody knew her. No Sunday supplement was complete without her picture, mainly because she took an exceptionally good one. The newspapers carried endless interviews, because she was young and didn't know how to avoid the reporters. Every traffic cop in town recognized her flashing red roadster, and let it go whizzing by, because Sunny always had a charming smile for each one. And Society itself adored her. She was beautiful, she was young, she was innocent and refreshing, and so everybody loved her.

Carroll knew her, too—knew her well, he reflected proudly. He had seen her dozens of times burning the roads in a mad chase to town, and Carroll, the conscientious officer delegated to enforce the speed laws, had drawn his machine to the side of the road and let her roar by in a cloud of dust. All right with him as long as there was that friendly little wave of the hand!

Suspicious Character

And he had seen her often in the morning, cantering on her big black horse, her curls blowing loose in the breeze. She always had a word of greeting for him, formal, demure words that belied the smile lurking at the corners of her mouth.

"Good morning, Officer Carroll,' she would tell him. "I trust you are feeling well this morning." But her smile said, "Isn't this a beautiful world? And you and I are good friends, aren't we?"

It was at this precise second, in the midst of these altogether pleasant reflections, that Officer Carroll saw a man approaching from the narrow lane which ran paraliel to the Paige estate. He was a tall man, with a decided stoop to his shoulders, as if his eyes were bent on the ground in reflection. There was nothing about him particularly to attract Carroll's attention to him except the lateness of the hour. His appearance, as well as could be made out in the moonlight, was that of a gentleman. Perhaps a hundred yards separated the two.

"Hey you!" shouted Carroll, vigorously.

But he other simply disappeared. He neither retreated nor advanced. One second he was there and the next he wasn't and that was all there was to it.

Carroll, every sense alert, decided to investigate. Running his machine to the side of the road, he dismounted and started along the lane on foot. Drawing out his powerful police flashnight, he sent its beams up the path.

At once he saw what had happened. A tiny foottrack branched off from the main lane and communicated with the State road a little closer to Towson. At this moment, he heard the sound of a starter as a machine was put under way. The man had simply walked to his own car, parked on the main thoroughfare, gotten into it, and had started back for the city.

Fails to Follow

Carroll hesitated. Maybe he ought to follow and stop the driver and ask him to see his license and registration card. Then he looked down the lane. There were lights in the Phelps house, and in Ranny Paige's home, and, farther away, still more lights blazing in the Handy residence up on the hill.

As for the fellow parking his car on the main highroad—well, that did look queer. But he had just engineered two indiscreet arrests, Carroll told himself grimly, and he was learning. Two o'clock was late for most folks, but for society people the night was just under way. He contented himself with glancing at his watch. Exactly two—and he heard the big clock in the Towson tower boom twice.

So he again mounted his motorcycle and plodded dutifully along his beat. He had not a single glimpse of the strange automobile which was preceding him, but doubtless far down the road by this time.

But, as it happened, this time he had made a dreadful error in not pursuing the mystery car, for when he reached Towson a half hour later, terrible news awaited him, news that shook the young officer to the depths of his being and which was to rock the city of Baltimore on its very foundations.

While Carroll had parked on his machine and meditated over his troubles, and while the great moon was turning Dulaney Valley into Fairyland, grim and stark tragedy had been going on in the Paige estate—in the little white house in the hollow that belonged to Ranny Paige and his wife.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

MANY CWA JOB HOLDERS FAIL TO REPORT

As job-seekers continue to flow into the State-Federal Employment Bureau, 10 per cent of those assigned to Civil Works projects are failing to report, according to Ralph W. Gibbs, director.

Forty investigators are employed in the county to check on absentees. When no valid excuse is given by the person who does not appear for work, he is replaced by an alternative chosen from the application files. Two hundred and fifty replacements were in the mail yesterday.

In some cases, men assigned to laboring jobs have returned to employment headquarters requesting positions with higher pay and more pleasant working conditions.

STUDY PROBLEM

The problem of dealing with those on relief who refuse to accept work has not been settled. At emergency relief headquarters in the City-County Building, it was said the matter is "being taken up in Harrisburg for a ruling as to what will be done."

The long-delayed social survey that was to employ 1,540 workers in the county has been again postponed. N. D. Moeller, area supervisor of the enterprise, was in Harrisburg last night in an attempt to hasten its start. Before departing he said he expected the project to get under way next week.

Among plans approved by the state administrator yesterday was one that will require 160 mining and civil engineers in Western Pennsylvania for a study of the bituminous coal fields. An advisory committee that will co-operate with the State Department of Mines in supervising the job consists of E. A. Holbrook, dean of the enigneering school at Pitt; L. E. Young and J. French Robinson, all of Pittsburgh.

GET HEADQUARTERS

Dean Holbrook said headquarters for the propect have been established in the Duquesne Building, and that divisional offices will be located throughout the territory to be studied.

The aim of the work will be the completion of a master map of the bituminous coal field for permanent record in the Department of Mines. The map will specify the location of active and abandoned coal mines and gas and oil wells in Western Pennsylvania. They number, according to Dean Holbrook, about 20,000.

Many miners have died from accidents that resulted from tunneling into unmarked mines and wells, and the project heads hope to prevent similar tragedies through the information they are about to gather. Gas, oil and coal companies in the district have expressed their willingness to assist in the venture.

Other approvals granted in Harrisburg yesterday will give employment to more than 4,000 when the jobs are in operation. The largest project sanctioned will require 2,915 men on the construction of barriers along county roads.

FUNDS FOR POOR RELIEF CUT

The State Emergency Relief Board at Harrisburg today announced that the allocation of funds for food relief in January had been cut approximately $900,000 below the December figure because of expected improvement in employment conditions through CWA projects now under way. The allotment for relief in Allegheny County was announced as $1,086,825, according to the Associated Press.

The appointment of John B. Benkert, of Pittsburgh, as assistant supervisor of federal surplus products distribution; F. W. Marshall, also of Pittsburgh, as supervisor of federal surplus products distribution, was announced by the board. William N. Nielander, of Pittsburgh, director of surplus foods, has resigned, the board announced.

A loan and grant for $75,000 to the Borough of Tarentum for the construction of a water filtering and softening plant to replace inadequate and obsolete equipment was announced today by the Public Works Administration at Washington. Thirty per cent of the cost of labor and material, which is $61,000, is a grant; the balance is a loan secured by 4 per cent general obligation bonds.

Work will start in two months and is to be completed in eight months, giving employment to 45 men.

BOGUS CHECKS TRAP TRIO

Three Pittsburgh men, held in jail at Greensburg, are believed to be the leaders of a gang that has been flooding Western Pennsylvania towns with worthless checks. Police said they issued checks on the Gulf Refining Company, Booth & Flinn, Pennsylvania Greyhound Transportation Company and the Christmas savings account of the First National Bank, of Altoona.

The prisoners, Angelo Cerminara, 21; Clyde Grimm, 36, and Gus Burkenbaugh, 32, were arrested near Gettysburg and brought to Greensburg for investigation. Detainers were also lodged against them for violations of the vehicle code.

Police said they are wanted in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, New York, Oil City, Youngstown, O., and in Indiana and Armstrong counties.

Improvement In Theater Probable

By GEORGE SEIBEL

While we're waiting for that new musical show, "Hold Your Horses," the Nixon Theater is dark this week—something that's happened a number of times during the season. It is partly due to the disastrous conditions of last season, which left few shows alive for the road. While we saw last year various attractions, like "The Green Pastures," which had enjoyed long runs on Broadway, many short runs and swift flops during the year have resulted in a poor crop now.

Mr. Seibel

But things look brighter on Broadway, and I counted 30 stage attractions the other day, without grand opera, dance festivals or temporary shows. During the present week eight new productions move into various playhouses. There may soon be no more dark theaters along the Rialto, and even be a waiting list of attractions, as in London at present.

Also we may expect to see in Pittsburgh, during the months to come, some of the things that have had fairly long runs, like "Let 'Em Eat Cake," just closing, as well as new plays that are on their way and like to stop off here to take a last look at themselves in the mirror of public and press.

ALL TRAFFIC WILL BEAR

Among drawbacks that may retard the recovery of the theater is the tendency to put up the prices as soon as a few people come back to the box-office. The managers had better wait until people again get the habit, before they put on all the traffic will bear.

Every time you force up the price of a commodity, whether it's a dram or a drama, you reduce the number of buyers. Look at the railroads—every time they reduce their rates they increase the traffic. Putting postage at 3 cents brought loss to the postoffice.

We've had a demonstration of this principle in the Pitt Theater, where Manager Schafer put in vaudeville, rather good vaudeville, at a scale of prices which makes it possible for everybody to go as cheaply as to the pictures. The experiment seems to be very successful, and ought to be a lesson to other men in the theatrical game.

Within a month the Alvin Theater may be re-established along similar lines, I believe, with Gene Connelly, that there is vitality in vaudeville, and hope that those who have the matter in hand will remember that the heart of a good vaudeville program has always been the one-act play.

PLAYS AND ACTORS

There is such a big reservoir of one-act plays now available, including many by writers like Barrie and Shaw, that only the actors are needed—and there still is a good supply of footloose actors to provide casts of outstanding excellence.

By getting back to first principles in this way, regarding the theater as a place of enjoyment for rational people, instead of an annex to the box-office, the theater may be restored to its proper station. It should not be a tinsel temple where the high-priest Ballyhoo burns incense to the great god Profit.

It is disheartening, for instance, to see that the current issue of "Equity," the actors' trade magazine, is taken up nearly altogether with provisions of the codes adopted in the theatrical and talking picture trades or professions. We are glad, of course, to hear that the chorus girls are to receive a minimum wage of $30 a week in de luxe theaters, a minimum of $25 in other than de luxe theaters, and $35 in traveling companies.

At the same time it may be a shock to the girls who may be aspiring to such a career, to learn that this is all an "actress" may expect if she is not a head-liner and a top-notcher.

TICKET SPECULATORS

Commercial points like these have to be taken into consideration when one inquires into what is the mater with the theater. The theater had become commercial before the depression deflated it, and it still has difficulty in getting rid of its parasites.

After a terrific and futile struggle to curb ticket speculators, it is now suggested that the managers of New York should get together and abolish the reserved seat system entirely. Let all the seats in a certain section be sold at a definite price, and let the first comers take the best seats.

That would abolish the ticket speculator, and it would also put the late comer in his place without annoyance to those who come on time—but it won't work.

Not only will the ticket speculators oppose it, but the average manager is only too glad when the speculators are buying his tickets. Even the public takes only a mild interest in the abolition of the speculators—as long as money is to be gotten, they like to enjoy what the late Prof. Thorstein Veblen called "conspicuous spending."

Tippycanoe Club To Install Officers

The Tippycanoe Club, Allegheny River organization, composed of leaders in aquatic sports, tomorrow night will ins tall officers and hold a stag party.

The new officers selected are Robert Hays, James Fulton, Allan R. Smith and John Loibl. The meeting will be held in the club house and plans formulated for the summer season. George G. O'Brien, chairman of the house committee, announced a house party Saturday.

Mrs. Ince Divorce Bared in Court Plea

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A petition filed in Superior Court asking that her name be changed back to Elinor Kershaw Ince today disclosed the widow of the late motion picture producer, Thomas Ince, obtained a divorce from Holmes Edward Herbert, English actor, in Chihuahua, Mexico, last December 22.

Stepper

Shadows

Mike Cullen Optimist

Striking a note of optimism, and predicting a year of exceptional entertainment, Manager Mike Cullen, of Loew's Penn, is optimistic about the prospects of the motion picture business.

"It would seem to me that the industry has every right to look forward to 1934 with high hopes," said Mr. Cullen. "It has unusual promise for the theatergoer. This is an optimism based on facts, and not on speculative promises, for during my years in the theater business I do not recall any new year, or any new season which was started with a schedule of so many obviously important pictures. In this I refer not only to the pictures of our own company, but to those of all producers.

"In the case of Loew's this new year marks the thirtieth anniversary of the Loew Theater group. January has been designated as Anniversary Month, and we have extended ourselves to obtain a series of outstanding attractions to open the new year. Following the current showing of "Dinner At Eight" will be Jack Oakie in "Sitting Pretty," Eddie Cantor in Samuel Goldwyn's "Roman Scandals," and Johnny Weismuller in "Tarzan and His Mate."

Caruso's Son Sues Wife for Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Informed a suit for divorce had been filed in Juarez, Mexico, in behalf of Enrico Caruso against Elena Caruso, the son of the late opera singer was without comment today.

Caruso, who this week started his career in motion pictures, would neither deny nor affirm that the suit had been filed in his behalf. However, his wife's name is Elena.

Heart Attack Fatal To Movie Comedian

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Neil Pratt, 44, character comedian of the stage and screen, died yesterday from a heart attack at his home here. He had been ill two weeks. Pratt was identified with a number of stock companies. He appeared on the New York stage. A year ago he came to Hollywood for film work.

Miss Colbert Ordered to Flesh Up

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—Guess why Claudette Colbert went to Death Valley for a vacation. Cecil D. De Mille sent her there to gain 15 pounds before she essays the role of Cleopatra in C. D.'s forthcoming epic of the flesh.

Not that Claudette's figure isn't shapely as it is, but the director says that Cleopatra was one of the most voluptuous sirens in all history, and the heroine of his picture must have plenty of curves.

Oddly enough, it was De Mille who caused the star to be in her present under-weight condition. He put her through such strenuous location work, crawling on her hands and knees through Hawaiian underbrush, that she lost 12 pounds during the filming of "Four Frightened People."

So Claudette, as she normally tips the scales, is only three pounds short of De Mille's ideal Cleopatra after all.

Dick Arlen went on the air for one night and came back with the simile:

"As unhappy as a radio-announcer in the 'silence' room of a public library."

Since everybody else is selecting the 10 best pictures and the 10 best plays of the year, Bing Crosby enters the field with his idea of the 10 best popular songs of 1933. In the order of their importance he chooses:

"Three Little Pigs," "The Last Roundup," "The Day You Came Along," Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" "Night and Day," "Thanks," "Talk of the Town," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Lazybones" and "Stormy Weather."

There ought to be lots of conflicting opinions on this subject.

Without a doubt, Irene Dunne is the most ardent feminine golfer among the film stars.

The RKO actress has just installed an elaborate driving range in the back yard of her new Beverly Hills home. She has a 500-yard stretch behind her house and is using 250 of it for the range.

There are flood-lights for night driving and all the fancy modern equipment. As soon as the weather is propitious, Irene will have a putting-green installed in some of the other extra space.

The secret behind all these preparations is the star's ambition to improve her game to the extent that she can enter tournaments in the East next spring.

Raquel Torres is telling the world that she's in love again and that the boy friend, Stephen Ames, is coming to Hollywood early in the new year . . . members of the audience at "I Am Suzanne" were that amused when Charlie Chaplin showed up late with a couple of girls, saw that scene in the picture where a puppet imitates him and then walked out . . . Joan Crawford has just about finished transforming the interior of her house from Spanish to early American style.

Warner Baxter, in "As Husbands Go," comedy coming to the Fulton screen Saturday, plays a husband who knows his wife wants to walk out on him.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Joe Cook, star of "Hold Your Horses," in which Joe, perhaps significantly, is a mayoralty candidate, has crazy golf course on his estate, "Sleepless Hollow," Lake Hopatcong, N. J. One of the tees on top of a water tank; one of the greens slants from every direction to the cup, so any dub can make a hole in one. It also is unique in having no par, "Hold Your Horses," which will be in the Nixon next week, will reveal some "inventions" that Cook may add to his course later.

* * *

It has been found necessary to change the opening date of "Up Pops the Devil," to be given by the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse at three evening performances next week in the Hotel Schenley Theater. The first will be given Wednesday instead of Tuesday. Alfred E. Smith is directing.

Marie Dressler was the best money-maker for exhibitors in the 1932-33 season, and Will Rogers was second, according to a poll of 12,000 theaters, just completed by the Motion Picture Herald. Others of the first 10 in the poll, in order, were Janet Gaynor, Eddie Cantor, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Clarke Gable, Mae West, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford. Next came Joe E. Brown, Lionel Barrymore and the Marx Brothers. Miss Dressler held first position in the poll for the previous season, in which Will Rogers was ninth. The relative standings are in accordance with the percentage each player received of the total vote. The period covered was from September 1, 1932, to September 1, 1933. A toal of 163 players were named. Also "Mickey Mouse," "Three Little Pigs," "King Kong" and "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

Music On the Air

IN A broadcasting studio the man in the glass-encased control room signaled to a tall gentleman with pimples. The latter chap moved a trifle nearer to the microphone.

"Good evening, my friends," he began suavely. "You are about to listen to a presentation of the Valmora Cheese Company, creators of fine cheeses since grandad was a boy.

"Later in the program, Dr. Edgar Brunch, the celebrated physician, will tell you exactly why Valmora cheeses are the perfect tonic for man or beast. Meanwhile, I know all you dear listeners-in are anxious to listen to the tuneful melodies of Locust Valley and his famous orchestra. Mr. Valley opens his program with that never-to-be-forgotten song, 'Rio Rita.'

"All right, Mr. Valley." . . .

* * *

In a cheaply furnished room on the upper West Side, a thin hand twisted a radio dial. The sound of music filled the room. The woman snapped her fingers.

"Hey, Gert," she cried. "Hear what they're playing?"

Another woman entered the room. They looked alike, these two. One blonde and the other brunette, but they looked alike just the same. Hard eyes. Similar walks. Complexions that were all too unreal. And world-weariness in every expression.

"What?" she replied listlessly. "Oh, yeah. It's 'Rio Rita.'"

She fell into a chair and lit a cigaret. She sighed.

"Wanna know something, Marge?" She continued speaking as though she expected no answer. "Every time I hear that song, I get blue,"

The other woman nodded.

"Yeah. Me, too."

Quiet for a moment. Then Marge spoke.

"Seems like yesterday, doesn't it, Gert? Playing in 'Rio Rita,' I mean."

"Yeah. That's right. Just like yesterday."

"Gee, that was a swell show. Remember Bert Wheeler in Boston, and how Ziegfeld wanted to fire him? And how he later was the hit of the show? Remember that, Gert?"

"You betcha I do. Think I could forget so quick? That was the best show we were ever in, kid. You know that, don't you?"

"You bet I do. I played in three shows after that. But they were turkeys. All of 'em. And a funny thing about it is that when I was in that 'Rio Rita' chorus with you, I didn't know what a swell time I was really having. I didn't know it until later, I mean."

"That's always the way, kid. You never know the value of something you've got—until you lose it. Ain't that true, Gert?"

"And how." She shivered slightly. "Gee, when I hear 'Rio Rita' played like that, I get the creeps. I can't help thinking of how things have changed since that opening night.

"Remember how the outside of the Ziegfeld Theater wasn't ready until the very last minute? And how Ziggy was so worried about it? His own theater—and his first show in that theater—and nobody knew what it was going to be?

"And say, wasn't it swell after that? The grand success, and all. Why, we had to fight to get in and out of our own stage door! Plenty of dough for everybody, and a limousine for any dame that wanted it. And those parties! Wow!"

She grinned. But her mood changed suddenly

"And now what?" she went on. "What's left? That swell scenery must be falling apart in the warehouse. Poor Ziggy is dead—and goodness only knows what's happened to all the girls who were in the show with us. The Ziegfeld Theater is a picture house.

"So, out of everything that was so swell, what's left? Just a song called 'Rio Rita' that they play now and then. Just a little shell of something that was powerful and grand."

She twisted her fingers nervously.

"You wanna know something else, Marge? I think sometimes that you and I fit into the same picture. We're shells, too. Just shells of what—what we used to be."

"Forget it, kid," she commanded harshly. "That kind of talk never got anybody any place. Cut it out. You'll have my nerves shot in a minute if you don't stop.

"Besides, things look better for us right now than they have in a long time. That Joe feller, from Cleveland, is due in tonight—and he's always good for forty or fifty bucks. That ain't tin, is it?

"And don't forget that, on Saturday, Frankie's giving that party in his apartment. If we don't collect 50 slugs apiece before we leave in the morning, I miss my guess.

The other woman gazed vacantly through the window.

* * *

In the broadcasting studio the tall gentleman with the pimples moved closer to the microphone.

"That concludes our program for tonight, ladies and gentlemen. The Valmora Cheese Company bids you all a very pleasant good night."

He turned away. The program was over. He shook hands with the program director.

"Pretty good show," he offered breezily, "if I have to say so myself. But I wish they'd take those old numbers like 'Rio Rita' off the programs. They don't mean anything any more." . . .

Garbo's Come-Back Likely To Be Successful

By MICHAEL SHAW

Can Greta Garbo come back? The answer seems to be in the affirmative.

Even Greta's most devoted admirers must have felt a bit uneasy about it. The Swedish star had been in retirement for 18 months, and moviegoers' memories are short.

Furthermore, that 18 months saw the rise of two pretenders to the screen throne—the first real threats that Garbo has had to face: Katharine Hepburn, whose swift rise established her as an acting genius as well as a most interesting personality; and Mae West, who set new precedents as a box office attraction.

Any fears that Garbo could not take up again where she left off with "As You Desire Me" were quickly dissipated, however, when her "Queen Christina" had its first showing last week in New York.

The critics hailed it unanimously as a triumph. They said that in some scenes Garbo scaled new heights, and that on the whole it was the best Garbo picture yet. They were kind to John Gilbert, whom Greta insisted on having as her leading man, and thought he inspired her to acting of a surpassing order.

The Penn will give us "Christina" shortly, no doubt, and we shall all have a chance to see for ourselves.

* * *

Garbo's picture of the eccentric Swedish monarch, from all accounts, differs widely from that drawn by Margaret Goldsmith in her new biography of Christina.

Miss Goldsmith says Christina was a good deal more mannish than Garbo makes her, and finds no trace of love affairs with Gilbertian heroes. Even the facts of the queen's abdication are at variance in book and picture. This although Garbo is said to have made a certain amount of historical research during her recent stay in Sweden, in a desire to present her favorite heroine in an authentic manner.

Incidentally, Christina is only one of the many royal personages whom we shall see on our screens within the next few months. That grand actor, Charles Laughton, started it all in England with "The Private Life of Henry VIII." Now it is a Hollywood cycle.

Claudette Colbert is to be Cleopatra, as imagined by Cecil DeMille; Marlene Dietrich will again keep in step with Garbo by playing Catherine the Great of Russia; Hepburn, on her return to the screen after her present stage appearance in New York, will portray the youthful Queen Elizabeth; there is even to be a Napoleon, with various actors, from Edward G. Robinson to Charles Spencer Chaplin, no less, suggested for the part of the Corsican.

* * *

Garry Cooper's growth as an actor is amazing to those who remember when he played in the "Westerns."

His casting with Helen Hayes in "A Farewell to Arms" was generally decried by those who had read the Hemingway book, but he did a stunning job and won even from the doubters a grudging admiration.

"A Farewell to Arms" was an important and a significant film. It was moving and convincing, whereas a play made from the same book had proved singularly inept. A comparison of the two versions was convenient; and it brought to many their first realization that the screen had at last attained dignity as an art form, that it could and frequently did do some things better than Broadway could do them.

After soaking a handkerchief with tears at the movie "Farewell to Arms," that distinguished critic of the New York stage, Percy Hammond, went over lock, stock and barrel, to the movie fans' camp, and proclaimed that the dramatic capital of the world had shifted to Hollywood.

* * *

Gary Cooper's part in all this cannot be ignored. He gave a downright honest interpretation of a Hemingway hero that could hardly have been improved on.

Next he played the tough small town dentist in "One Sunday Afternoon," and although that film was something of a disappointment, the slightness of the play was largely to blame. Cooper was highly competinent, and some of those early sequences, when he swung bashfully on a tree while getting up courage to speak to a pair of Victorian belles in a beer garden, are things to remember.

This week in the Stanley we see Gary in a new kind of role—the artist of "Design for Living." Those who think of him as stolid will be surprised to see how well he captures the effervescence the part demands.

His face, sometimes so wooden, is here alive with humor and emotion. He plays throughout in the spirit of the farce to which Ben Hecht has reduced Noel Coward's comedy. And he is very, very good.

WOMAN, AGED 70, HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Amelia F. Campbell, 70, of 1841 Wittmer street, suffered a probable skull fracture last night in a collision of automobiles at Madison avenue and Tripoli street. She was taken to Allegheny General Hospital. Mrs. Campbell was a passenger of Helen H. Carver, 35, also of 1841 Wittmer street. Norbert Stiefvater, 26, of 1101 Southside avenue was the driver of the other machine.

Samuel Naikuach, 4, of 2621 Sarah street, South Side, suffered internal injuries when he ran into the side of a truck in Carson street. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

Thrown against the windshield of the automobile he was driving, Louis Bonactini, 38, of 301 Giddings street, suffered lacerations to his head. He lost control of his machine in Second avenue, near Bates street, police said, the car colliding with a pole.

Philip Sopko, 6, of 1053 Indiana avenue, Glassport, was in the McKeesport Hospital today with a fractured shoulder, suffered when he was struck by an automobile in Ohio avenue in Glassport last night, according to a hospital report.

Hilltop Man Wills Estate to Children

The will of William Snyder, of Merrimac street, filed for probate today, disposes of an estate valued at $5,000. He leaves all cash in banks and property at 120 Merrimac street to his daughter, Mrs. Harry Whitehead. Two sons, George and Elmer, share equally in property at 118 Merrimac street. He names his daughter as executrix.

MUSCULAR RHEUMATIC PAINS

IT takes more than a salve to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant"! And that's what good old Musterole is—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the pain and congestion when rubbed on the sore, aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly to this treatment, and with continued application once an hour, blessed relief is often experienced in five hours.

Even better results than the never-failing old-fashioned mustard plaster. Used by millions of people. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

Attorney General Thomas E. Knight, Jr., filed the request advising the commission the alleged comment was broadcast by H. V. Kaltenborn, employed by a national chain.

GIBSON IN MARKET FOR SECOND SACKER, CATCHER

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

TWENTY-TWO THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1934 BEST SPORTS PAGES

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Pitt Quint Lacks Spark.
Older Hughes Main Hope.
Michigan's All-America.
Mickey Aid to Bridges.
Reunion of Floor Vets.
Fistic Comeback at 40.

While the Pitt basketball team has succeeded in winning all except two of its games, even the warmest supporters of the Blue and Gold are frank to admit that there has been nothing about the play of the Panthers to warrant any optimism in connection with the coming appearances against Duquesne and Notre Dame, the most formidable rivals of the Oakland school. So far the greatest need of the Carlson-coached machine has been a driving force, one player imbued with the will to win and with the ability to transmit that same fire and determination to his mates.

Charley Hughes

Each of the five passers now in the lineup is trying his best and playing fairly good individual ball, but the lack of one key man to take the lead at all times is becoming more and more apparent. Charley Hyatt was that sort of player. So was Timmy Lawry. Don Smith, too, was a leader by example.

For a while it looked as though Ted Roderick, whose insertion into the lineup in the Minnesota game brought victory to the Panthers, would be the minute man. But in the Ohio State contest another youth loomed as a possible leader, and Pitt followers now are anxiously awaiting the Temple tilt here Saturday night to see if he can keep up his play. The player in question is Charley Hughes, the older of the two brothers on the team.

Charley, now playing his third year in the Pitt back court, always has been an enthusiastic player; too enthusiastic sometimes, for he usually leads the team in personal fouls. However, his spirit never has been questioned. Not a natural basketball player, he has made himself into a capable one. The question now is whether he can lift the team and carry it along with him. The Carlson quintet's future is going to depend largely on the play of the Holidaysburg senior on Saturday night.

MICHIGAN HAS FULL ALL-AMERICA TEAM

How long do you think it takes one of the leading colleges in football to win enough all-America awards to make up a full team of such selections? Michigan has been one of the consistent greats in the gridiron sport, always prolific in the production of stars, and it took the Wolverine school 30 years to run its string of all-America appointments to the point necessary for the covering of all positions. Pitt still has three places to fill before it can boast a complete lineup. The Panthers need one guard, a quarterback and a fullback. Carnegie Tech has had only one award, that to Howard Harpster at quarterback. Duquesne has yet to get a taste of the national glory.

With Wistert to fill a tackle vacancy, Michigan can now select a full all-America team from the following 20 awards: Ends, Oosterbaan and Wells; tackles, Pommerening and Wistert; guards, Benbrook, Allmendinger and Slaughter; centers, Schulz, Vick, Blott, Morrison and Bernard; quarterbacks, Friedman and Newman; halfbacks, Heston, Craig, Maulbetsch and Kipke; fullbacks, Smith and Steketee.

BRIDGES MAY NOW GET THAT NO-HIT GAME

Nobody is happier over the appointment of Mickey Cochrane as manager of Detroit's baseball club for next season than Pitcher Tommy Bridges. The latter knows there is some little flaw in his pitching, and is confident that with a great catcher like Cochrane to handle him it will be corrected. Tommy even dreams that he may now get the no-hit game which has slipped away from him four times by an eyelash, once after he had retired two Washington batters in the ninth inning, when Walter Johnson kept him out of the Hall of Fame by sending up Dave Harris as a pinch-hitter.

Tommy Bridges

Cochrane himself shares Bridges' confidence that 1934 will be a record year for the Tiger right-hander. The new manager, who plans to catch about 120 games, goes so far as to predict that Tommy will be the sensation of the American League, explaining that he expects to improve Bridges' pitching at least 30 per cent by the correction of a fault which Mickey believes can be remedied in the first week of spring practice. As to the nature of the fault, Cochrane reveals that when Bridges is winding up he swings his right hand behind his back, and that when he does that, a runner on second base, or the coach at first or third, can spot what Tommy is going to throw and tip off the batter. Mickey says it was because of this telegraphing that the A's always hit Bridges pretty hard, even on days when he had all of his stuff.

OLD-TIMERS TO ATTEND DUKE-PITT TILT

The season's first meeting of the Duquesne and Pitt basketball teams one week from tomorrow night in the annual city championship series that includes Carnegie Tech as a third contender will have an interesting side light in a gathering of the old-timers of the district. J. J. Freund, Jr., has arranged to bring the floor veterans together on that occasion, and they will attend the game in a body.

A dinner will follow at Webster Hall, the honor guests to be Joseph M. Leithead, captain of South Side's first great team; Walter Wohlfarth, once famous Homestead star, and Frank Marmion, one of the original New York Celtics, now located here as general sales manager of the American Steel and Wire Company. Chairman Freund announces that all basketball old-timers will be welcome and requests that those desiring to attend address him at 225 Charles street, Pittsburgh 10, or call Everglade 4297.

JOHNNY DUNDEE WOULD COME BACK AT 40

Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, isn't content with the fight he has had with the government about some income tax differences, which, with 50 per cent penalties, aggregated $98,001. He wants to do some more real fighting in the ring. Johnny insists he isn't fooling, and he doesn't want to be considered punch drunk. Some of the record books make Dundee 40 years old. Others have him tabbed at 38. Johnny refuses to divulge his correct age, and says it doesn't matter anyhow, as regardless of his years he thinks he is still good enough to win fights.

Johnny Dundee

Dundee says he figured out long ago that a fighter can shake off the punishment he receives in the ring by taking care of himself out of the ring. And that's what he has tried to do. Up early, no matter what time he goes to bed; out in the open air a goodly part of the day; always moving around; gymnasium workouts from three to five times a week, and a strict diet at all times. As a result, the former champion says he weighs only 132 pounds, can make the featherweight limit without trouble, and is willing and able to fight anybody, Kid Chocolate preferred.

UNIFORM BALL TO BE BORN TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The uniform baseball will be born tomorrow at Philadelphia.

On that day, the presidents of the two major leagues will meet with John Shibe, baseball manufacturer and secretary-treasurer of the Philadelphia Athletics, to pick out the uniform sphere that promises to add more dynamite to the National League bats. The ball will follow closely along the lines of that used last season in the American League.

As President Will Harridge, of the American League, got ready for the big "birthday party," it was announced that not only the major league club owners, but all three class AA leagues were behind the uniform ball. The International and Pacific Coast leagues and the American Association all were ready to use the same ball in their pennant campaigns next season.

Most of the other minor leagues will use a cheaper ball, but will attempt to get one as near as possible to the uniform ball specifications.

FORMER CHAMPS SEEK TITLE

By TOM BIRKS

Western Pennsylvania soccer fans are promised another stellar attraction for their entertainment Sunday afternoon at Greenlee Field, when Heidelberg, twice winner of the National amateur championship, clashes with the Castle Shannon Riehls in the second round of the annual tourney.

After being absent from competition last season, the Green and Gold returned to the gridiron this year with the hope of capturing the amateur title for the third time. It must be admitted that the officials of the little Carnegie suburb have gathered together a formidable team. Heidelberg won the title first in 1927, defeating the La Flamme Soccer Club, of new Bedford, in the final round, 3 to 1, at the Westinghouse High School Stadium.

Heidelberg was defeated in the semi-final round the next year, but came back in 1929, defeating the Newark German-Americans, 9 to 0, at Newark, N. J. Buff Donnelli set a record in this game by scoring six goals.

Chillysauce

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

One of the feature photos of the week shows Jimmy Wilson laughing as he signs a contract to manage the Phillies. . . . Jim is a congenial Tad, but that smile can't be on the level. . . . Wilson is like the boy who whistled as he walked briskly past a cemetery after dark. . . . Or perhaps Jimmy laughs because he received a Baker Bowl sentence of only one year.

Art Fletcher was a normal, happy fellow who enjoyed his meals and friends before he left the House of McGraw to manage the Phillies. . . . At the end of one season Art would not speak to his own family and everything he put in his mouth tasted like chalk. . . . Visiting managers have nightmares in the winter contemplating the 11 games they must play at the Baker Bowl. . . . This will give you a rough estimate of what happens to a pilot who must sit through 77 fights in the old sardine can.

Burt Shotton was a hail fellow well met until he landed in Philly. . . . The daily dirge on the sheet-iron wall accompanied by the mournful procession of his pitchers headed for the slaughter had Shotton in a fog in less than one season, but Burt was fortunate enough to bring his club up among the elite in 1932, and before he went under the ether again he succeeded in hooking his employers for a three-year contract at $15,000 per annum. . . . Still they say baseball magnates are business men.

The Phillies minus Chuck Klein should be able to put up a battle against the loose-leaf Reds for the honor of finishing in the National League coal hole. . . . If the Phillies care to clinch the issue they can put Dick Bartell on the auction block. . . . Bill McKechnie heads the long line of managers anxious to grab off Daredevil Dick. . . . Bartell cannot get around the bases as quickly as one Arky Vaughan, but Richard covers more ground in the shortfield. . . . He is Public Enemy No. 1 to the Buccos.

Local Football Pros Seek College Stars

Art Rooney, president of the local club in the National Professional Football League, is quietly conducting a campaign to corral as many graduating stars of the 1933 college teams as he can to bolster the local entry for next fall's competition. He is contracting such notables as Joe Skladany Bob Hogan and Tiger Walton, of Pitt; Armand Niccolai, of Duquesne; Cliff Montgomery, of Columbia; Joe Gailus, of Ohio State, and Aaron Rosenberg, of Southern California, among others, and promises to put a very colorful aggregation of stars upon the field.

Dunlaps Capture Pinehurst Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Hitting alternate shots around the No. 2 course, George T. Dunlap, Jr., national amateur champion, and his father, George T. Dunlap, Sr., of East Orange, N. J., won the annual Father and Son golf championship here yesterday.

LITTLE FAVORS RETURN FRAY

International News Service.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 4.—Columbia, "the team that didn't have a chance," but earned a sensational 7-0 victory over Stanford in the Rose Bowl New Years Day game, was en route back to New York today with the plaudits of the West coast ringing in the players' ears.

They carried with them the $5,000 Jack F. Rissman Rose Bowl trophy and the respect of Pacific coast gridmen and fans.

"We carry back with us the incomparable sportsmanship and fine feeling that we have received while here.

"In all my football I never have experienced anything quite like it. I only hope some day that Stanford and Columbia again will find their way clear to meet on the gridiron. Our regular schedule for 1934 has been completed, and nothing definite about another game with Stanford can be done until the football committee, the athletic director and the university committee have acted upon it."

The team will arrive in Salt Lake City about 4 P. M. today and in Denver Friday noon for a four-hour stopover. Plans to stop overnight in Chicago were canceled, and the team will arrive in New York City about 8:30 P. M. Sunday instead of Monday morning.

Carl Snavely Eyes Job at N. Carolina

LEWISBURG, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Carl Snavely, football coach at Bucknell University, admitted last night that he has been conferring with athletic officials of North Carolina University, but he said he would stay at Bucknell for at least another season.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—As a result of Columbia University's great victory over Stanford on New Years Day, Herb Kopf, first assistant to Lou Little, is being seriously considered as head coach of football at Dartmouth next fall, it is reliably reported.

Indians, Rangers Title Fray Set

The Aliquippa Indians and the Rox Rangers will clash in the final round of the Lightweight Conference eliminations at Ranger Field, McKees Rocks, Sunday afternoon, with the kick-off scheduled for 2 p. m.

This was settled at a meeting of the Conference officials and the teams last night. The Rangers entered the final by defeating the Paramount Club by a one-sided score, while Aliquippa stopped the St. Rosalia Preps last Sunday, 2 to 0.

Oliver, South Hills School Fives Win

Two City League high school basketball quintets scored victories yesterday in pre-season tuneup contests which topped an abbreviated scholastic floor card.

South Hills defeated the W. P. I. D. passers, 48 to 28, and Oliver downed Dormont, 27 to 18. In other games, Jeannette nosed out East Huntingdon Township, 22 to 21, and DeSalles downed an alumni outfit, 29 to 25.

BUCCOS' PILOT CHEERFUL OVER SLAB STAFF

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Back in Pittsburgh to go over plans for strengthening his Pirate fences, Manager George Gibson today declared he was ready to talk cold turkey with any and all pilots who had anything interesting to offer in the way of trades.

Gibby admits he is in the market for a tried and true second-sacker, a high-grade catcher and he will jump at the chance to get a hurler of the first water. Speaking of the second base situation, Gibson said:

"Even if nothing further comes of the negotiations started in Chicago recently we would still have several boys available for the keystone sack. Pep Young, Harry Lavagetto and Bill Brubaker are all keen to battle for the position and if none of the trio have the hallmarks of a secondbaseman we still could call upon Tommy Thevenow, who is one of the most dependable fielders in the league."

LIKES YOUNG PITCHERS

Gibson appears to think his club will get better pitching than was on display last season. Gibby is like the army of Pirate fans in the disappointment he feels over the pitching of last season. Said George:

"I expect Bill Swift to win more games than he did in 1933. Bill should be an improvement and I am convinced that the fans will like Ralph Birkofer and Hal Smith as they swing into regular action. It is hardly necessary for me to give out anything concerning those two standbys — Larry French and Red Lucas. Both are pitchers of the winning type."

MAY STAND PAT

Gibson hinted that he and his Pirate compatriots, Bill Benswanger and Sam Watters, will have further negotiations in the near future relative to trades. The Pittsburgh trio is not alarmed over a stand-pat eventuality in the event that no swaps can be completed, but they will play out every string with the idea of adding strength to the weak spots.

The three Buccos chieftans expect to attend the annual schedule meeting of the major leagues, to be held in New York early next month.

The Corsairs' skipper appears generally elated over the prospects for the coming campaign, even though he is unable to make the deals he has in mind. He'll likely have 34 players in his care when the Buccos assemble at their training camp at Paso Robles, Cal., in March.

DUQUESNE DUE AT MIDNIGHT

EN ROUTE TO PITTSBURGH WITH DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL SQUAD, Jan. 4.—Rated by Miami sports writers as the greatest football outfit ever to play on a Miami gridiron, the Duquesne University football squad continued the return trip to Pittsburgh carrying an odd assortment of cocoanuts, grapefruit, cactus plants and baby alligators as souvenirs. The Dukes defeated the Hurricanes of the University of Miami, 33 to 7, in the second annual Festival of the Palms game New Years Day.

The Duquesne players are scheduled to return to classes Monday morning and will arrive in Pittsburgh at 12:30 a. m. tomorrow. The post-season and intersectional game in Florida marked the end of the playing careers for 11 men and the last appearance of Elmer Layden as head coach of a Duquesne eleven.

Layden, the new Notre Dame coach and athletic director, is anxious to reach Pittsburgh and clear up the numerous matters awaiting his attention before departing for South Bend.

Jackie Berg to Sub For Canzoneri

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Jackie (Kid) Berg, British lightweight, has been substituted for Tony Canzoneri, former champion of the class, for a 10-round bout with Cleto Locatelli, of Italy, in Madison Square Garden, January 12.

Canzoneri, who gave Locatelli, European champion, a one-sided beating in their first match here several weeks ago, reopened a cut on the bridge of his nose in training and was forced to withdraw. He will meet the winner of the Berg-Locatelli match in the Garden over the 10-round route January 25.

RUTH SLATED TO BECOME NEXT YANKEE PILOT

BABE WILLING TO TAKE PAY CUT FOR '34

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Take another salary cut this year? Sure. Play another full season? Not quite, but at least 100 games. Pitch again? Not if he can avoid it. Quit baseball? Never as long as there's a job and money in it.

Babe Ruth is quite willing to discuss these and other matters of personal and public interest as he makes his plans for the new year and his twenty-first season in the American League. Scaling 235, he says he is in better shape than last spring, but no one knows better than the Babe that his playing days are mostly behind him. The idea that he must soon leave the active playing list no longer worries him.

EXPECTS SALARY CUT

Far from being alarmed over the prospect of further downward trimming of his salary, which slid from $75,000 to $52,000 last year, he anticipates another reduction, so long as it is "a reasonable cut and not a major operation."

Would $35,000 or $40,000 be acceptable? He'd rather not say until he has heard from "Jake"—Col. Ruppert, the owner of the Yankees.

Behind all this outward nonchalance about the future, if indications can be accepted for what they appear worth, lies the idea that Babe Ruth will manage the Yankees.

He explains quite forcefully why he turned down a proposition by the Colonel to manage the Newark Bears this year, demanding to know how he could learn anything more about baseball by going back to the minor leagues after 20 years in the big show. As to fulfilling a managerial ambition otherwise, he only says:

"I don't know about that. There's a lot of inside stuff that I can't talk about. I'll have to wait and see what develops."

BABE WELL FIXED

It's easy to build a supposition, on this evidence, that Ruth has been conditionally promised the management of the Yankees in a year or two, at the most; that, in fact, the offer of the Newark job was made on the basis of fitting himself for the headquarters assignment up in the Bronx ballyard. Whether his rejection of this offer affects his future chances of succeeding Joe McCarthy as Yankee manager, only the Babe and the Colonel can say.

McCarthy's present contract has two more years to run, so that unless he resigned or consented to being bought off, the Babe could not realize his aim to pilot the club until 1936.

Meanwhile Ruth is not only independently fixed, financially, but is assured of income this year from outside sources more than sufficient to make up for any decrease in his Yankee salary. Under such circumstances, he intimates, why do any worrying now?

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BIRD MAN—Wild Bill Hudson had the unique job of testing tires and brakes on airplanes, tests which can be made only when the plane is landing or taking off. In August, 1930, at the Goodyear Airport, Akron, Hudson started out at 5 a. m. and from that time until 7:45 p. m. he made 489 complete and separate flights, completely circling the field each time, and coming to a full stop on each landing. RUNNING FOR THREE CENTURIES—When Mrs. Bennett, of Seattle, read a Believe It or Not some time ago about a 116-year-old clock, she telephoned about her own clock, which is more than 300 years old—and still in good condition. The Bennett clock was made in England in the early seventeenth century, and bears a cleaning notation dated 1638. On its intricately curved face is the name of the maker, Ashburn, of Ashton. It is entirely handmade, runs by a pendulum and weights, and, although its solid oak case is old and worm-eaten, the old clock keeps perfect time.

STATE PASSERS, JACKETS PLAY TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

Waynesburg and Penn State, facing Glenville and Susquehanna respectively, provide the collegiate basketball activity in the district tonight as six other squads put the finishing touches on their play in preparation for important tussles tomorrow and Saturday.

The Yellow Jackets, beaten by the Dukes and twice by the McKeesport Willigs, offer the invading Glenvillians the first opposition of their invasion of Western Pennsylvania. After meeting the Jackets, Glenville tackles Westminster at New Wilmington Saturday.

The big game of the week, aside from the Pitt-Temple and Carnegie Tech-West Virginia Eastern Intercollegiate Conference tussles on Saturday night, will be offered tomorrow night at Grove City, as the Crimson attempts to repel Westminster's Titans.

GROVERS' TASK TOUGH

Repelling Westminster basketball invasions at Grove City during the past few campaigns hasn't been exactly to the liking of the Grovers, particularly to Robert Emanuel Thorn, the Crimson's veteran athletic director and head basketball coach. Bob's teams have been set back on their heels by the Titans with regularity which is on the verge of becoming monotonous. Judging from the respective showings of the varsities to date, the Grovers are in for another socking tomorrow.

The touring Valparaiso University quintet, of Indianapolis, which took it on the whiskers from Marshall College at Huntington last night, moves into Pennsylvania tomorrow and plays Geneva at Beaver Falls, the contest being the home opener for the Covenanters. On Saturday, the Hoosiers take on the Dukes here in Pittsburgh.

Geneva's hopes for a successful campaign were raised no little yesterday when it was learned that Art Grahame, veteran guard, would be back in the lineup for the game tomorrow. Art played against the Buhl Club, of Sharon, for a while last night and flipped himself a field goal and a foul and directed the attack of the Genevians.

TARTANS GET READY

Maxie Hannum plans to select a definite starting lineup today for the opening tussle of the season against West Virginia at Morgantown Saturday night and devote the greater part of his time in this afternoon's workout and that of tomorrow to whipping it into trim for the Mountaineers.

It is fairly safe to predict that the Skibos will start off with Gibson and Macalka at the forwards, Ewalt at center and Capt. Silverman and Rigg at the guards. This is the combination that has been working together the most effectively this week.

SPORT VIGNETTES

From faroff Honolulu comes an echo of the story of the Joe Stecher-Youssof Hussane wrestling matches, staged in the Exposition Building more than a decade ago, which were recalled in this column several weeks ago . . . It comes in the form of a letter from Bill Peet, who was sports editor of the old Pittsburgh Dispatch at the time and now is the sports editor of the Honolulu Advertiser . . . He was the referee of the first match between the pair. Bill writes as follows:

"Dave Roberts, who was my companion while I was sports editor of the Dispatch, has sent me a clipping of your column in the Sun-Telegraph in which you recall the two Hussane-Stecher bouts . . . Well do I recall the night of their first meeting . . . You were the only friend I had after the police escorted me out of the hall via the rear exit and stuck by me in the controversy which followed.

"For reasons best known to myself, the truth and the real lowdown on this match never have been printed, but I am giving you the straight dope now to set the record straight.

"The only reason I consented to referee the match was because the promoter offered me a substantial fee for my services and I had a wife and three youngsters to support and could not very well refuse.

"I told the promoter, however, if the match looked queer to me at any stage I either would throw both men out of the ring or award a fall, and he agreed that this would be the proper thing to do.

"During the afternoon of the day of the match I had one of my good friends cruise about downtown Pittsburgh to find out if there was any heavy betting on the bout, and the word came back that plenty of money was up that Hussane would stay more than an hour with Stecher.

"Naturally I was suspicious, so I told both wrestlers as they faced me in the ring that I would be the sole judge of what was going on and that I would render a decision if I felt things were not on the up and up.

"They agreed and went at it hammer and tongs. I had insisted that the timer call out every five minutes, and, when something like 55 minutes had elapsed, five minutes less than an hour, Stecher had Hussane on his back with a body scissors and double arm lock, and any wrestler will tell you that such a hold is sure death.

"While I was peering under Hussane's back I saw Stecher unclasp his left hand while Hussane was flopping around like a half-dead fish. I knew then that Hussane was due to go more than an hour and thought about the gambling stuff. I promptly called a fall, awarding the match to Stecher.

"Hussane's manager was perfectly within his rights in protesting—it was a rolling and not a pin fall, but I was sore because I felt the men were trying to put something over and had me in the middle, and I didn't care what anyone thought. I felt I was doing my duty honestly. I came in for some panning, but I had it coming to me. Having accepted the job of referee, I was for the moment a public character and had to take it.

"I have been writing sports for 35 years and never have been mixed up in any crooked business. No one can point the finger at me and say I ever knowingly did a wrong thing.

"Why'n'cha come up and see us some time in Honolulu? You'd like it here. Remember me to my Pittsburgh friends."

It's been a long, long trail since that cold night of which our old pal, Bill Peet, writes . . . And th each telling the saga of this wrestling match becomes more interesting . . . Hussane now is a hotel keeper near Constantinople, as his old friend and fellow wrestler, Milo Steinborn, told us in recalling the bout . . . But Stecher still is wrestling . . . Mayhap his eyes will fall upon these lines, and we'll get his side of the story . . . Rich and mellow are the old tales, and who is there to say that reminiscence doesn't make the most interesting reading? . . . Years from now they'll be talking of that great Tournament of Roses football game played by Columbia and Stanford on the mopped-up, rain-sprayed Pasadena gridiron the other day . . . Right now it is too recent a drama to be fully appreciated . . . But the years will bring a deeper and wider and more vivid perspective . . . When we read and talk of it as a memory, what a picture we shall have!—HARRY KECK.

PARKS GETS 146 TO QUALIFY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—In spite of soft fairways and soggy greens, made so by the recent rainstorm, four players hit par as 165 golfers sought to qualify for the Los Angeles $5,000 open tournament yesterday over three courses.

The leaders were Al Zimmerman, of Portland, Ore.; John Geertsen, of Salt Lake City; Bill Muhlhorn, of Louisville, Ky., and Stanley Kertes, of Los Angeles, with 36-hole cards of 142, even par figures.

All the favorites surved the test, which made 90 eligible, with 38 exempt players for the tournament proper, scheduled to open at the Los Angeles Country Club Saturday and continue through Monday.

Sam Parks, Jr., former University of Pittsburgh golf captain and professional at the South Hills Country Club, Pittsburgh, finished well up among the leaders with a 146. He had rounds of 70 and 76.

LOTT'S RANKING DRAWS FIRE

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. — (AP.) — The opening shot in a fight to gain a higher ranking for George Lott, Davis Cup player and western champion, was fired today as the Chicago Tennis Association asked for "some satisfactory answer" as to why the Chicago star had been rated as far down as tenth in the proposed rankings for the year.

Aroused over the tenth position accorded Lott in the tentative list, Ralph Westcott, president of the Chicago Tennis Association, protested to William M. Fischer, of New York, chairman of the United States Lawn Tennis Association ranking committee, and ended with a threat to carry the fight to the U. S. L. T. A. executive committee.

Shore to Return To Ice January 28

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—After a month and a half suspension, Eddie Shore, Boston defenseman, will return to the game January 28, Frank Patrick, managing director of the National Hockey League, announced today.

Shore was placed under suspension December 12 following a collision with Irvin (Ace) Bailey, Toronto Maple Leaf forward, in a game at Boston. Bailey suffered a fractured skull and twice underwent operations to save his life, but now is out of danger. Shore's indefinite suspension followed, and it was not known until Patrick made his announcement today when he would get back into the Bruins' lineup.

Patrick absolved Shore of all blame for the collision. In an explanatory statement, he asserted he regarded the collision as an accident.

McKeesport to Get Pro Battles Again

It won't be long now before McKeesport will go back on the professional boxing standard. Promoter Jim McGirr, the oldest fistic impresario in point of continuous service in these parts, and one of the most resourceful, is setting the stage for a return of the paid battlers in his Palisades Rink by getting to work on arranging a bond with the Boxing Commission and taking out a license for the new year.

Meanwhile, Jim will put on a novel show of 10 amateur bouts tonight. Five of them will be three-rounders and the other five five-rounders. The longer bouts will be of two minutes' duration and the shorter ones of three minutes. The five-rounders will go on last and the boxers in them will be chosen just before the show gets under way. Fintex Meets Y; I. K. S. Five Victor

The Fintex passers take on the Y. M. H. A. quintet in a County League game tonight, the contest being scheduled for the Y floor. The Fintex passers have been stepping along at a fast pace and are pressing hard on the heels of the undefeated McKeesport Willigs, leaders in the league.

In a nip-and-tuck battle last night, the I. K. S. quintet downed the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. team, 31 to 30, on the I. K. S. floor.

GRID SERIES PLANNED

A home-and-home football series between New Castle and Johnstown high schools likely will be arranged. The first game will be played at New Castle on October 6, 1934.

LEVINSKY BOUT ON—MAXIE

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—Breaking a prolonged silence on the subject of his plans, Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, announced today he was sailing aboard the Bremen on January 12 to meet King Levinsky in Chicago next month and characterized as "nonsense" reports that said Chancellor Hitler had forbidden the match.

The reports in question were predicated on the fact that Levinsky is a Hebrew and that the Hitler policy is anti-Jewish:

Schmeling said:

"That's absurd. Herr Hitler advised against any break with my manager, Joe Jacobs, who is Jewish. So why should he object to Levinsky?"

HEIR EXPECTED BY DEMPSEYS

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 4.—On the way back home with Columbia University's victorious Lions, I learn that:

The Jack Dempseys are pricing perambulators . . . Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams, and her well-known husband will join the Columbia team in Chicago and ride to New York with it on the Lions' special train as the guests of Coach and Mrs. Lou Little.

Professional football moguls and coaches who flocked to San Francisco to see the West beat the East in the annual Shrine game at Kezar Stadium are engaging in a merry battle for the services of George Sauer, of Nebraska, sweetest back of the football season.

Grove City Is Back On Allegheny Slate

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 4.—After a lapse of two years one of the finest of small college gridiron rivalries will be resumed in 1934 when Grove City meets Allegheny College on October 27, the Methodist alumni homecoming day. The complete card for 1934 has just been released by H. P. Way, director of athletics at the Meadville institution.

Thiel also is on the schedule, thus making evident Allegheny's gradual return to competition with district schools which show a disposition to compete on an approximately equal basis. Due to a mixup in dates, the Bethany game has been held over for the 1935 card. The complete schedule is as follows:

October 6, Clairton, home; October 13, Alfred (night game), away; October 20, Dickinson, away; October 27, Grove City, home (homecoming day); November 3, Oberlin, home; November 10, Thiel, away; November 17, Ithaca, home.

Hyatt's Passers To Play Here Feb. 1

The date for the appearance of Charley Hyatt and the Tulsa Oilers, National A. A. U. basketball champions, in Pittsburgh, has been definitely set for Thursday, February 1.

The game will be played in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion, where Charley made history as a collegian, and the Willigs, of McKeesport, who recently gave the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics a close game, likely will be the opposition.

GOLF MEET HERE

More than 450 greenskeepers of the National Association of Greenskeepers of America are expected to attend the annual meeting of that body in Pittsburgh on January 30, 31, February 1 and 2.

SUGGESTS U. S. AGENCIES GET STATISTICS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—President Roosevelt could render an immense service to the country by using the agencies of government to gather and publish better economic statistics.

Mr. Rukeyser

The whole problem of intelligent economic planning and public supervision of private enterprise hinges on the availability of adequate bookkeeping data.

We need to know continuously the essential facts concerning the ever changing balance sheet and income account of the United States, so that specific developments can be related to the totality of business. It is especially desirable to know as far ahead as feasible of new disparities and maladjustments when they are in the making.

Governmental statistics should be supplemented by interpretation and analysis by nonpartisan independent organizations. The importance of such activities in the cause of freedom in show oy the fact that under Fascism the collection of independent statistics on the subjects covered by governmental statistics is definitely frowned upon.

BASIS FOR APPRAISAL

Proper statistics, correctly interpreted, offer the basis for a continuous appraisal of the efficiency with which the economic system is working, and whether it is achieving its social objectives.

Without a factual basis, new legislation is likely to go far off the mark. The criticism has recently been made that our lawmakers rely too little on approved methods of scientific research.

A private census of wealth, made in the last pre-depression year, indicated that the wealth of this country was owned by 46 million persons out of a total of about 130 million population. When allowance is made for dependent women and children, this represented a broad distribution of national wealth and an unparalleled distribution as against the rest of the world. It was estimated that only 3,400,000 persons in 1928, however, possessed wealth in excess of $10,000. This group, consisting of less than 3 per cent of the population, owned about 54 per cent of the wealth, but under our system of high wages received vastly less than one-half of the national income.

WEALTH DISTRIBUTION

Between 1921 and 1928, according to studies by W. I. King, there was a tendency toward more widely diffusing the national wealth, yet there was also a still further material concentration of wealth among the very rich. Similar estimates indicated that 85 per cent of the wealth of the country was non-farm wealth, although 25 per cent of the population dwelt on farms. Among the non-farm population, the ratio of total wealth to real estate was three to one.

Rule of thumb studies indicated that in normal times the ratio of total wealth to bank deposits throughout the country is five or six to one.

MONEY COMPROMISE

In urging revaluation at about the current market value of gold in dollars, Money Dr. E. W. Kammerer, of Princton, argues that the United States could readily maintain its new currency. Like Frank A. Vanderlip, he urges that circulation of gold coins be dispensed with. In the plans of Mr. Vanderlip and Dr. Kammerer is the nearest approach to a compromise between the "sound money" clique and the monetary reformers.

Dr. Kemmerer suggests that the government use the profit from revaluation to extinguish public debt now in the hands of the Federal Reserve banks, rather than for fresh expenditures. The idea would be feasible provided it became assured that there would be no unbridled inflationary tendencies. Otherwise, retention of the government obligations by the Federal Reserve, which could be thrown on the open market when and if necessary, offers a brake against runaway inflation.

HOARDED GOLD ISSUE COMES UP AGAIN

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The old question of what is to be done with the nation's hoarded gold, is coming up again.

By government edict the reserve banks are hoarding three and one-half billions of gold. It can't be used as money. None of us can have any. The government has been marking up what it calls the "price" of gold (from $20.67 an ounce to $34.06), but has bought only a few millions of dollars worth and that helps only a few gold mine owners.

But the time is coming when something will have to be done. Either this gold hoard will have to be "written up" as a reserve for money, or we will have to quit thinking of gold as a base for our money, and sell the stuff for what it will bring as metal.

DEBT INCREASING

You see they have been increasing the public debt very rapidly. At the same time they have taken the dollar off a gold basis and made its security largely depend on government credit. Thus as the government debt has increased in comparison with the gold supply, the dollar has gone down in terms of gold.

Now the heavily indebted U. S. Treasury is probably figuring that by "taking over" the gold at the old price of $20.67 and marking it up to the government buying "price" of $34.06, the government can make more paper dollars. It could use these either to reduce its debt or to keep up its spending policies.

The Federal Reserve banks now hold three and one-half billions of gold. The government

STOCKS CHURN ON BUDGET MESSAGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The President's budget statement to Congress was received with a fair degree of equanimity by financial markets today, although both stocks and staples churned about indecisively while waiting interpretations of the document.

Equities were a bit heavy in the early hours of dull trading and grains, cotton and other commodities were inclined to move narrowly. United States Government securities were moderately firm, but other bonds were mixed. The dollar jumped about nervously in foreign exchange dealings. Sterling dropped about 4 cents at one time, then transformed the loss into a small gain.

Early losses of 1 to 2 or more points in leading shares were partially recovered after the budget digest appeared on the tickers.

The announced federal deficit for the current fiscal year of some 7,300 million dollars, together with 2,000 millions for next year, was a little higher than had been expected in some quarters, but was about in line with the expectations of most statistical commentators. Much interest was shown in the President's proposal to meet the deficits by borrowing and not by additional taxes. Announcement that 6,000 million dollars must be obtained by the government through loans in the next six months, in addition to the refunding of 4,000 millions of maturities, was studied carefully in bond circles.

Comment on the President's opening speech to Congress was varied in the financial district, but the concensus appeared to be that the markets, as a whole, were in about the same situation they were before Congress convened and that a number of questions of interest to traders and investors still remain to be answered.

While some elements expressed disappointment that yesterday's message failed to go into details regarding the administration's monetary plans, the majority of bankers was not surprised. It had already been pointed out in some quarters that, so far as dollar stabilization was concerned, there were too many foreign difficulties to permit of a "pegging" agreement at this time. It was thought, however, that the President in a subsequent statement might outline the steps that have already been taken in the equalization of exchange rates.

Market analysts, while not neglecting the political factors involved, recalled that the first month of the year usually has been a perod of indecisive and narrowly limited price changes. They find, despite the record of irregularity, that in more than a score of years there has not been a really serious break in January and highs for the year's opening month have for some time past invariably exceeded the closing quotations of the preceding December. It was added, though, that conditions for the moment are entirely different than in the past and that "anything may happen."

Notwithstanding the concentration in Washington, brokerage circles continued to watch trade and industry with considerable optimism. Retail reviews reported that merchants were quickly encouraged by the continued heavy consumer buying that manifested itself in the usually dull week after the Christmas holiday. Post-holiday offerings were said to be bringing a surprisingly active response.

'STREET' LOANS TAKE JUMP

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Collateral loans of the New York Stock Exchange members, contracted for and carried in New York, amounted to $845,132,524 as of December 31, the exchange announced. This compared with $789,229,539 on November 30.

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

"Mr. Chancellor," she said breathlessly, "take Capt. Gailliard and go back. All Sheridan's cavalry are ahead of you. Upon my honor this road is not open. There is no road open. What's the good of being killed here in the woods?"

Chancellor's grasp relaxed; she jerked herself free, and turned to Gailliard, who stared at her in silent amazement.

"I am not lying," she said tremulously. "There's no use going on to be killed. I suppose you won't believe that it's all over. But it is. This is the end of it, gentlemen. Go back and tell your generals. There's no way out for you along the Appomattox."

Even as she spoke the woods behind her swarmed with blue-jacketed cavalry. The scouts near the oak tree abatis were yelling at her now: "Hey! Lay down in the ditch! We're going to fire!"

Then a singing bullet flicked its quivering ear and it reared up, plunged and went bucketing about amid the increasing storm of lead rattling through the trees until Gailliard's nervously driven spurs sent it tearing away over the wood road. And beside him galloped Chancellor, his slouch hat shot off his head, his black hair in the wind, and blood running down his cheek and jaw.

Loosened Lightning

Operator 13, who had rolled over into the ditch, and was lying flat among the ferns, could see them trying to check and control their frantic horses, where the Confederate pioneers had been clearing the road.

But that road, now was gray with advancing Rebel cavalry, and in the woods north and south of the road the girl could see gray swarms of infantry trudging up, their scarlet battle flags unfurled, their mounted officers forward, picking a way westward through brier swamp and bushy tangle.

All around her the woods began to quiver as the ground shook under the thunderous concussions of a cannonade. She saw the loosened lightning lash out from unseen guns, and the woods fill with clouds. She heard the high-pitched rebel yell split into hysteric falsetto as blue jackets and gray clashed hilt to hilt and spur to spur, when suddenly the misty forest itself was marching like Burnham Wood and the hellish prophecy was being fulfilled under her frightened eyes.

She ran back along the ditch to the abatis, where a scout fetched up her horse, and she climbed into her saddle and turned to look behind her.

A world of Union horsemen stretched a wavering blue barrier north and south across forest and field as far as the eye could see. Everywhere the bright swallow-tailed standards of the northern horsemen rippled in the April wind; at brigade intervals the mounted cavalry bands, all astride strong gray horses; their bandmasters, conducting with naked sabers circling, stabbing, flashing, beating time, played their regiments forward to the cadenced diapason of the cannon.

On came the gray infantry of the Confederacy, starving, half-naked, cheering, prepared with musketry and bayonets to tear their way through the cavalry confronting them.

Then, suddenly dramatically, the vast tragedy unfolded itself; the endless blue curtain of northern horsemen sagged back and drew slowly aside, disclosing behind them regiment massed on regiment brigade on brigade, division on division, corps on corps, a solid, immovable wall of northern infantry, closing the West forever to the army of Robert Lee.

Firing Ceases

Operator 13 riding to find her chief at Secret Service Headquarters came wearily into the lines of the Sixth Pennsylvania Cavalry—old friends of the Sixth Lancers, but now deprived of those picturesque weapons and armed with saber and carbine. They gave her something to eat and told her that Gen. Grant and his staff had ridden out toward the courthouse to meet Gen. Lee.

Even while she was feeding her horse the racket of musketry died away and presently the last dropping cannon shots came booming from the westward.

One of her scouts found her sitting at the foot of a tree and told her that he could not find headquarters. She begged a ration for him and sent him out again.

A muddy courier whom she stopped in the road told her that scores of orderlies were riding in every direction with orders forbidding all cheering or any noisy demonstration which might humiliate the surrendered rebel army.

"Has Lee surrendered?" she asked incredulously.

"Yes, ma'am. Grant is sending 25,000 rations to the starving Johnnies."

"Is this positive?" she insisted.

"Yes, ma'am. Grant and Lee fixed it all up, and Lee has gone back to his army. Old Grant told 'em to keep their horses and start spring plowing. There's a couple of brigades of 'em over there in that meadow where you can see their empty wagons. Go over and look for yourself."

Noble Grief

A Federal wagon train occupied the road, unescorted. Riding beside it, the girl encountered John Babcock on Gimlet.

"Grant gobbled 'em!" he said joyously. "I met Lee. He rode out of Appomattox like a dead man upright in his saddle who saw nothing. I took off my hat. I swear to you, ma'am, the sunshine grew gray in the presence of such noble grief. It was like the twilight of the gods . . . I drew two days' rations for you."

"Where is Col. Sharpe?" she asked.

Here was a strange scene: blue-jacketed cavalrymen were riding into a meadow which was occupied by a Confederate brigade. The ragged infantry had reversed their muskets; color bearers lifted Confederate flags above their heads, holding the staff horizontal with both fists; there was a constant clinking and rattling of muskets and bayonets where companies, disarmed, were piling their arms on the soggy grass.

Whole companies of tired, unshaven, ragged fellows were already eating the rations sent to them from federal commissary stores; fires were burning, coffee cooking, bacon and hardtack sizzling.

One of Sheridan's staff officers recognized Operator 13 and spoke to her, confirming the rumor of a general surrender. The girl listened as though dazed. An immense weariness possessed her, as though the weight of the world were crushing her slender shoulders.

John Babcock told her that the Rebel regiments already were being paroled in the region through which he had ridden. "You know, I suppose," he added, "that Richmond has fallen."

"No," she said listlessly.

"No. This is terrible."

"What is terrible, ma'am?"

Nothing More to Do

"Ma'am, you're plum tired out. You get off your horse and stay here until I find out where headquarters is."

"It's frightening, this kind of thing," she said, "this having nothing more to do. If only there was something to do. But everything has stopped. It's like the end of the world. I can't seem to understand it, or stand it."

"You stay right here, ma'am," he repeated gently. "When I find headquarters I'll come back and get you."

He put his horse into motion; she did not even look after him.

She heard people saying that Mr. Davis had fled; that Mr. Lincoln was in Richmond, and that the war was ended.

She looked about her, gazing vacantly upon victory, not recognizing it in all this filth and stench and rags blurred by greasy smoke from green fires.

She got off her horse and, leading him, wandered down into a woodland a little way. The woods were full of Louisiana troops building cook-fires.

On a dry knoll two men lay beside their horses on the fallen forest leaves, looking wistfully toward the distributors of rations who now were headed in their direction.

She was not surprised to recognize Vespasian Chancellor, whose face was swathed in a bloody bandage. Then she saw her lover, John Gailliard.

Act of Kindness

She came slowly up to them, leading her horse. They got up when they saw her, hats in hand, and stood gaunt and ragged and silent when she stopped before them.

She did not know just what to do. She held out her hand hesitatingly to Chancellor. The tall, lean, hawk-faced fellow reddened, bowed with the grace of a cavalier, lifted her trembling hand and touched the fingers with his lips.

"I am sorry," she said in a kind of scared whisper.

"God orders everything, ma'am. We've done all we could, I reckon."

Then the lover took her into his arms, and the long-pent tears that congested her eyes and throat and all her head and slender body began to choke her.

"You know," he said, "that your general permits us to retain our horses. It is the kindest act I ever heard of. So if you will wait while I learn how to plow . . ."

Far away in the forest one of the Negro cavalry bands with cymbals and kettledrums began to play an old-time spiritual:

"Will de shoutin' angels greet me?
Will de shoutin' angels pray,
O Lawd Jesus, will yuh meet me?
Will yuh lif' me whar I lay?
Whar de golden chariots rattle,
Will yuh meet me in de battle,
Will yuh meet me in de battle,
Will yuh meet me on dat day?
I will meet yuh on dat day."

THE END.

CZOLGOSZ SHOOTS PRESIDENT McKINLEY

Success in the Spanish-American War, expansion of insular possessions and business prosperity increased the prestige of the United States during President McKinley's administration.

Our part in The Hague Conference (1899), aiming at reduction of armaments and in the expedition to quell the Boxer uprising in China (showing our readiness to back "Open Door" policy) indicated intent to share actively in solution of world problems.

President McKinley was re-elected in 1900. He fell victim of the bullet fired by Czolgosz (Sept. 6, 1901), resulting in his death eight days later.

POISON SUMAC (Rhus Vernix)

The Sumacs, about 120 species, belong to the Cashew family (Anacardiaceae), comprising small trees, shrubs. Handling of poison Sumac causes skin irritation in some persons. Alcoholic solution of lead acetate is applied as remedy. Poison Sumac (poison oak, poison dogwood) has alternate, compound, entire-margined leaves, dark green, shiny above, pale below; flowers are small, yellowish green, in long drooping panicles, pistillate and staminate on separate trees. Fruit is a glossy, ivory white droop in grapelike clusters. Range: Ontario-Florida. It grows on low grounds, in swamps. Wood not valuable. (General Science)

PACIFICATION METHODS OF CZARIST RUSSIA

Czar Alexander II (1855-1881), Alexander III (1881-1894) and Nikolas II (1894-1916) followed the same oppressive autocratic policy toward the people. Uprisings for reforms were quelled ruthlessly by the knout of the Cossacks, executions and mass exile to Siberia. Reaction created secret organizations such as Nihilism (Nothingness) with attempts to assassinate rulers and their henchmen in order to bring about more liberal government. Alexander II was one of the victims, killed by a bomb.

Facing revolts, and with most of his troops at the front against Japan (1904-1905), Czar Nikolas II granted peoples' assemblies (Dumas) which became another tool of the nobility soon after the close of the Russo-Japanese War.

ELECTRIC RANGE AND ITS HEATING UNITS (General Science)

BIRD, SIMPLEST WARMBLOODED ANIMAL

Birds, feather-covered, supported by two legs, have forelimbs adapted for flying; their beaks are toothless; their hearts have two auricles, two ventricles, so their blood circulation is completely double. The vision of the birds is keen, the hearing developed; the senses of smell and taste are feeble; few organs are helpful in touch (beak, bristles). They reproduce by eggs.

Birds are divided into perching, wading, swimming, diving and prey birds; as destroyers of insects and weed-seeds they are important and are protected by federal and state laws. (General Science)

RAVENSWOOD AND LUCY ASHTON

Edgar of Ravenswood, poor but proud, is determined to avenge what he believes a fraud of Lord Ashton, present owner of the estate of Edgar's family. Edgar, saving life of Ashton's daughter, Lucy, becomes secretly betrothed to her. Lady Ashton forces Lucy into another marriage. Losing her mind, Lucy dies the following day. Edgar perishes in the quicksand after her funeral.

A PIONEER OF ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

It was believed once that matter derived from living organisms (plants, animals)—called organic matter—could be formed only by living organism and not synthetically. Friedrich Woehler, German chemist (above), transformed (1828) ammonium cyanate (inorganic) into urea (organic) by heating. Thus he disproved the old belief and founded modern organic chemistry, which endeavors to analyze and synthesize all carbon-compounds, new definition of organic matter. Simplest are hydrocarbons containing only C and H. One series of them, the methane series, has the formula C_nH_{2n+2}. Above table shows some of the lower members. They are found in petroleum, mainly a solution of hydrocarbons in each other. Hydrocarbons burned completely in air give water and CO_2.

Just a Lot of Paper Wads

The boys who fear greenbacks can start a forest fire in our cash register any time they want.

All this lathering and junkeration about gold and silver leaves us chillier than a tall Eskimo in a short blanket.

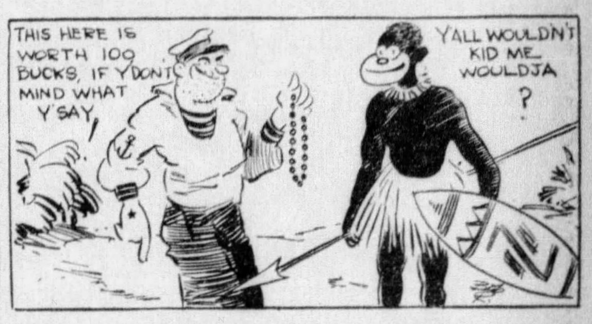
The wealth in the world is on paper. Look over the contents of any safety deposit vault and you will hear the rustling of parchments, bonds and deeds.

A chunk of paper says you have so much money in the bank between nine and three. If you refused to take paper you would never get a movie contract or anything to eat at a picnic.

The government launched a billion dollar loan in December. There was no jingling of gold or clinking of silver. Neither was there clashing of brass. The whole transaction was pulp.

The bankers dipped their cement-filled fountain pens in ink and engraved handsome certificates. They got equally beautiful diplomas in return. When the time comes to pay off on the doddering line they will exchange the mutual parchments. If one copper penny got mixed in the transaction it would sour the entire deal.

Strange thing about money is that it is anything you say it is. The Long Island Indians voted on sea shells because they lived near the ocean and the Hopis and the Apaches didn't.



It was a good idea. An Indian could eat a dozen clams in a lunch wagon and pay the proprietor off in his own shells. Down in the Easter Islands a grindstone is legal collateral. In Africa they pay off in salt.

Yankee skippers got rich with glass beads and cheap hand mirrors. Those things were better than money in the South Sea Isles. It all depends on the law of supply and demand. An overcoat button is worth more in the winter than in the summer.

We have asked a hundred financial experts just what money is. You never heard such intelligent stuttering in your life.

Some of them shellacked up some kind of an answer that wouldn't hold enough water for a bird bath. And they are the lads who get big salaries for explaining about it.

Americans Should BUY American—Not From Foreign Defaulter Nations

THE NEW French decree reducing imports by seventy-five per cent is designed practically to annihilate the importation into France of many American products.

The familiar French policy of prescribing to each product of foreign origin a fixed quantity or quota is thus carried to a very drastic extreme which will be immediately hurtful to a considerable number of American exporters.

There is furthermore little likelihood that such quotas will be substantially modified as the result of the protests already heard or of negotiations for an exchange of commodities on terms advantageous to the French, nor do we think negotiations having to do with particular cases of hardship or unfairness are important.

THE CASE BETWEEN FRANCE AND THE UNITED STATES IS FAR BROADER, DEEPER AND MORE GRAVE.

The American case against France is that of an unpaid creditor confronted by a DISHONEST DEBTOR, who repudiates his debt, his promise and his obligation.

Until there is a fundamental righting of the attitude of France toward her defaulted debts to the United States, the fate of American phonographs, razor blades and even automobiles are matters of relatively little moment.

FRANCE HAS gravely affronted the people of the United States. In the face of her conduct, which our people regard as rascally; in the presence of such indignity as her attitude carries, the American people have little time or thought to waste upon the small irritations of French tariff policy.

When a nation borrows billions from a friendly power,—pleading for succor against enemies she has not the strength to resist; when she receives from a generous ally, as the United States proved itself, the huge loans she piteously besought; when, saved and indebted, she requites generosity and vital aid with contemptuous repudiation,—AN ISSUE OF THE FIRST MAGNITUDE ARISES.

It is this situation upon which American public opinion is fast hardening. A TEMPER IS RAPIDLY FORMING IN THE MINDS OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE WHICH INSISTS UPON A SHOWDOWN.

The government at Washington is well aware of this ominous development of public feeling in the United States. There can be no doubt that soon it must speak in terms which TRUTHFULLY REFLECT THE FEELINGS AND THE FIRM RESOLVE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

UNTIL IT does so, however, there is one vent for their feelings immediately available to our people.

WE WILL NOT BUY FROM DEFAULTER FRANCE OR FROM ANY DEFAULTERS!

We will have nothing to do with the commodities and products of dishonest repudiators of sacred obligations.

We want none of the wares of these dishonorable and callous debtors. They have become odious in the sight of the American people.

While the national feeling is crystallizing into a formulated program, LET US NOT WAIT, BUT RENEW WITH ARDOR AND CONSISTENCY the movement which a few months ago had so wonderful a response from every section of the country—THE MOVEMENT TO BUY ONLY AMERICAN GOODS.

This is a policy whose execution requires no governmental lead. THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES can carry it into effect—upon a PRODIGIOUS SCALE AND WITHOUT THE HELP OF GOVERNMENT!

Its results will be far-reaching and instantaneous.

Let us mutually pledge ourselves to BUY AMERICAN and NOT TO BUY FROM DEFAULTERS. Such a program will be to our interests and it will preserve, in some measure, our dignity against floutings and insults of an obdurate and habitual defaulter.

Let the slogan be heard. And let it be carried to every corner of this broad land:

"BUY AMERICAN AND DO NOT BUY FROM DEFAULTERS."

A Notable Achievement

Judge Gawthrop, Dean Thompson and Their Associates Deserve Much Credit

Highly creditable is the achievement of A. Marshall Thompson, Robert S. Gawthrop and their associates in the State Liquor Control Board in establishing a hundred million dollar business as a going concern in five weeks.

The bill creating the state liquor stores did not become law until November 29, but the board was directed to open the stores on January 2.

The board was unable to engage employes on a permanent basis until January 2. Those hired in the interim were hired by the day.

Dean Thompson and Judge Gawthrop themselves, and many of their helpers were entirely without experience in the liquor business.

In the circumstances it is little short of remarkable that even one store was ready for business in Allegheny County on the opening day.

Things to Be Done Now

While We Wait for Model Houses Much Can Be Done To Tidy Up Pittsburgh's Slums

Many houses were seen that were unfit for human habitation, yet swarmed with humanity. They lacked sanitary facilities; they were so ramshackle that they appeared on the point of collapse; they were totally devoid of any suggestion of beauty or comfort.

Some of these kennels bore placards serving notice that they were to be vacated until improvements ordered by the Department of Health had been completed; but the occupants uniformly said they had not been personally notified to get out and had no intention of getting out unless they were forced to.

These houses were for the most part on narrow squalid alleys, littered with ashes and rubbish. Here and there was a card warning that the dumping of rubbish was forbidden by city ordinance.

We think the civic consciousness of Pittsburgh is being aroused to the evils of the slums, and that the movement for their eradication is going to make great headway during the year.

In the meanwhile there is much that can be done, and that should be done.

The ordinance against dumping rubbish in public thoroughfares should be enforced.

Guidance for Tourists

The Pittsburgh Motor Club Makes an Excellent Suggestion To the Secretary of Forests

Pennsylvania's scenic and historic attractions are superior to those of most states, and the State Chamber of Commerce and other organizations have long seen in this an opportunity to attract a profitable tourist business.

The state has co-operated but not to the full extent of its power.

C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, calls attention to a deficiency in a letter to Lewis E. Staley, secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters.

Secretary Staley is reminded that along the highways are signs inviting motorists to visit the high steel forest fire observation towers, from which magnificent panoramas of mountain scenery can be viewed. But the steps that lead to the summits of the towers are so steep and so high that it is difficult for many unaccustomed persons to make the ascent without vertigo, and there have been cases in which it was necessary to go to the rescue of timid persons and bring them down.

After one reaches the summit, unless fire wardens are on duty, information is lacking as to what the visitor sees.

Mr. Roth proposes, accordingly, that wire screens be erected around the steps for the protection of visitors, and that signs be put up, telling the altitude and the names of the counties, towns, mountains and streams that can be seen in the various directions. It is submitted as a CWA project.

The suggestion is an excellent one. Additional guidance for tourists is desirable, and it is the Commonwealth's duty to provide it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—For established folk there is something exciting about those spanking new towns constantly mushrooming up, overflows from New York, and linking village to village in far-flung network. The houses are so fresh they have not yet lost an air of intrusion.

Many are so remote the streets are glutinous with rich country mud and are still waiting for that accolade of civilization — corner lights. Occupants are mostly newly-weds. He has a clerkship and she may not give up her stenography until the piano is paid for.

Occasionally there is a sign, "To Be Sold at Auction," indicating some young hopefuls did not make the grade. She has gone back to mother until they could try again. But in most instances through the blue and pink curtained windows everything looks bridal, cozy and intimate.

Now and then there's music of a pale voice or the tiny cry of a baby. Always the feeling domesticity is new and experimental. The becoming arrogance of young hustlers running up life's ladder whistling! Yet withal a humility rarely found among the more seasoned.

New York's department store vastness is not appreciated save in a chance discovery. For instance, I inquired in one fringing Herald Square for the bird department. Then stepped from the elevator into the midst of an aviary larger than those in most zoos. More than 5,000 canaries, 2,000 pairs of love birds, 1,000 parrots, 400 cockatoos and so on. Such departments have braces of ornithologists with whom the purchaser may confer. It's estimated there are 70,000 canaries in the metropolitan area.

No other dramatic critic has been so widely reviled yet so widely read as George Jean Nathan. Scarcely a producer or player has not at some time been singed by his scorn. Round robins have been sent to editors to fire him and his mail has been threaded with threats. Yet in all his bombastic career Nathan has never been molested in personal encounter. Perhaps his look of innocence saves him. Handsome in an almost collegiate way, although in early 50's, he appears as naive as a plow-boy.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

'Get Yourself a New Broom and Sweep the Blues Away!'

What's that new song they're singing—"Get Yourself A New Broom and Sweep the Blues Away!"

Don't know the rest of it, but that doesn't matter—for in those two lines there's enough philosophy to last a whole year through.

Get yourself a new broom—for you'll never be able to sweep away your blues, or your badness, with the old one!

Those Good Resolutions we make every New Years Day—we wonder why they are always broken.

THEY'RE BROKEN BECAUSE YOU CAN NEVER BE SOMETHING BETTER BY JUST RESOLVING TO BE.

You can't stop nagging by just making up your mind that you will.

You can't stop fibbing, wasting your time, spending too much money, flying into tantrums, gossiping, being sorry for yourself, jealous, lazy or super-sensitive—or indulging in any other childish or savage impulse—merely by wanting to stop and saying that you will.

YOU MUST, FIRST, CLEAR UP THE TROUBLE THAT IS CAUSING THE BAD HABIT.

AND THEN YOU MUST SUBSTITUTE A NEW GOOD HABIT FOR THE OLD BAD HABIT.

Why? Figure it out for yourself.

You, for example, have become a nagger, Ellen. Folks think it's because you're bad-tempered, but you and I know that isn't the reason. You've become a nagger because you're tired, lonely, deeply unhappy. Somehow, life which once was so full and sweet has become empty. The world you once loved has become a meaningless monotonous drudgery. There's no adventure left. Day after day you see the same old faces, discuss the same old troubles, think the same old thoughts. Soul and mind and body, you've gone stale.

"But how can I have anything new?" you say bitterly. "We're so poor. There isn't money enough to go around as it is. You don't know—"

Yes, I do know, Ellen. I know what it means to be so poor that the finding of a nickel on a safety zone sent me into a shameful torrent of tears; so poor that I wanted to batter down the window of the Five and Ten, to steal a handful of glittering baubles so my little boy could have a Christman tree like other children.

The hopelessness of it, the bitterness of it, made me a nagger, too, Ellen. But I cured it. How? Not with money. I cured it by papering a room!

I'd never papered a room. But the dinginess of the shabby walls was driving me mad. The man at the corner store was throwing some old paper away. Did I want a few rolls? I didn't—but I took them. And they changed the world for me.

For that cheap paper, laid in bungling rows, took my mind off myself—gave me a new adventure—made a "new broom" that swept my blues away.

No matter how poor we are, there's always a new broom—always a new interest—even if it only be a friendly hand to someone who's poorer than ourselves. Always some adventure to flood stale brain and stagnant heart with fresh, vigorous life.

Human Side of the News

New Light On the Murder of the Young Princes—Too Many Cats—Julian Street's Wine

By Edwin C. Hill

IT was the great Daniel Webster who told us, "Murder will out," and the amazing truth of it is demonstrated, after four and a half centuries, in one of the most dramatic incidents of many years.

There was once a King of England named Richard III, who mounted on bloody feet the throne of William the Conqueror and grasped the sceptre with crimsoned hands. Shakespeare, as well as history, tells the story of this cruel and ruthless man—he who cried out on the lost field of Bosworth, when his crimes had caught up with him, "My kingdom for a horse."

To gain the throne he imprisoned in the grim Tower of London a boy king, Edward V, and a boy prince, the Duke of York. When mistreatment and probably slow poison had failed to remove the helpless children from his path, he had them slain in their cell. Being a king of absolute power, the guilt was never fixed upon him in those distant days—though people knew, and the tradition of his murderous deed became one of the tragical stories of English history.

And now, listen to this, if you please, and note how strangely time and fate catch up, even with dead kings. Workmen, repairing a staircase in the Tower of London away back in 1674, came upon the skeletons of two young boys. The finding was reported to that Stuart king who never said a foolish thing and never did a wise one, Charles II. He suspected the identity of those poor relics and ordered them placed in an urn in Westminster Abbey.

A short time ago, in order to clear the name and fame of King Henry VII—he who defeated Richard III at Bosworth and ended his bloody reign—an inquest was formally ordered over the urn of Westminster. A dramatic scene, if ever there was one. The Dean of Westminster was there, and the president of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons also—other physicians and surgeons and high government officials.

* * *

King Henry Found Not Guilty

THEY approached the case and task precisely as if the murders had taken place yesterday and presented a living and current case for Scotland Yard. Accurately, by the immutable processes of science, they fixed the fact of murder and fixed the age of the two young boys, the boy king and the boy prince, and proved that they could not have been killed by King Henry, and therefore must have been the victims of Richard. And then, when all was done that required to be done, the venerable Dean replaced the bones in the urn, covering them with the finest linen, and solemnly read part of the burial service of the Church of England—a funeral and a service delayed for four and a half centuries.

And of all the moving story the part that makes it so real is the statement by one of the eminent surgeons that the skull of the boy king, Edward the Fifth, had a tear duct abnormally large.

"And one can only conclude," remarked the great surgeon, "that this lad, cut off from relatives and friends, thrown into the dark tower, abandoned to despair, subjected to no man knows what brutalities and mistreatments, had, literally, cried his eyes out."

Taxpayers Complain About Cats

IN England a cat may look at a king, indeed. Taxpayers—and the British taxpayer is an amazingly amiable creature—are nevertheless complaining that King George supports too many cats. Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle swarm with them. The old Tower of London is made hideous of nights by their ceaseless yowling.

At the Treasury, in Whitehall, is a gentleman cat named Rufus which costs the taxpayer about fifty cents a week. At the Record Office where all historic documents are kept, where you may see the Domesday Book and some of Queen Elizabeth's spiciest letters, there is a lady cat named Henrietta which is supported at the expense of thirty cents a week to the taxpayer.

England is old and full of rats and mice, and the argument is probably sound that the cats are worth all they cost.

Julian Street, Authority On Wine

JULIAN STREET has turned out a delightful book on "Wines, Their Selection, Care and Service." Mr. Street finds that good wines have traits almost human. They get tired. They become bad-tempered when ill-treated. They have distinct personalities.

Many years ago, when Theodore Roosevelt lay ill in a hospital, Mr. Street procured from Delmonico's a bottle of Tokay wine, very old, very fine. He took it to the ex-President, who told him that the doctor wouldn't permit him to drink wine. He asked Mr. Street to put the quaint, green bottle on the mantelpiece where he could see it from time to time. As the years passed, and the doctors still declined to permit him to use any wine whatever, he told Mr. Street that he would open the bottle when his four boys came home from the war.

But as Mr. Street says in his book: "Not all the boys did come home. One was buried by the Germans when his airplane was shot down. The others were abroad, in uniform, when their father passed away in his sleep."

And then, one day in the summer following the death of Theodore Roosevelt, a parcel was delivered to Mr. Street's house. It was from Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and contained the ancient bottle of Tokay which Mr. Street had given to her husband years before. In 1927 the bottle was opened and its contents are described by Julian Street as "infinitely delicate and sweet, and its fragrance [illegible] a sort of gentle majesty."

Congressional Hired Men Target of Borah

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF Senator Borah, of Idaho, has his way "the new deal" will be extended to both houses of Congress early in the new year.

The Idaho Progressive will reintroduce and press for prompt enactment a legislative proposal designed to divorce Senators and Representatives in Congress from practising before the courts as the hired men of special privilege.

The Borah bill will provide:

First, that no Senator or Representative or Delegate in Congress, after his election and during his continuance in office, shall receive or agree to receive any compensation whatever, directly or indirectly, for any services rendered or to be rendered to any person, corporation or association, either by himself or another in relation to any proceeding, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest or other matter or thing in which the United States as a party is directly or indirectly interested before any court whatever.

The Borah bill will also make it a felony for any Senator or Representative in Congress to act as attorney or counsel for any person, corporation or association engaged in commerce to which the regulative power of Congress extends under the Constitution of the United States.

Violation of the proposed Borah law would be punishable by imprisonment of not more than two years and by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars.

Flagrant Example Of the Practice

IT has recently come to the attention of progressive Senators that certain power interests have been invading Congress to obtain special counsel to appear before state and local authorities to oppose the establishment or expansion of municipally-owned light and power plants.

A particularly flagrant example of such employment is to be found in a state known to progressive Senators where a City Council is in favor of obtaining from the Public Works Administration a loan to expand the municipal light and power plant of that community.

Members of the Council were amazed, and a few were awed, when a national legislator recently appeared before them as the counsel for a power company and argued against the city seeking a loan for such a purpose.

How many Senators and Representatives in Congress are engaged in practice before the courts on behalf of individuals or corporations having business in which the government is directly or indirectly interested is still a matter of speculation.
